Night-Long Debate Sets Stage to End B.C. Session Today

By JOHN MIKA

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes is expected to prorogue the first session of the 28th legislative assembly sometime this evening.

It has held 63 afternoon and night sittings since opening in New Westminster's Queen's Park Arena Jan. 24 to mark the 100th anniversary of the first Legislature's meeting in the city.

MLAs completed scrutiny of spending estimates totaling $739.3 million at 4:20 a.m. today at the end of the latest night sitting of the session.

Final appropriations to receive approval were $21.3 million for public works department, $5.1 million for recreation and conservation department, $1.9 million for the new travel industry department, $427,989 for the public utilities commission and $28,500 for the salaries and office expenses of the three women ministers-without-portfolio.

An NDP motion to adjourn at 1:10 a.m. was defeated by the government and, during a wrangle later, Premier Bennett shouted that the house would sit all night if necessary to complete the government's agenda.

Wednesday afternoon they pushed through clause-by-clause study and third readings of nine government bills after wading through 31 the previous day.

Still left to clean up today were 20 private bills, almost all proposed by opposition members and facing defeat or out of order rulings, and 14 resolutions on subjects ranging from provision of free drugs to children suffering from shegella sonnei to an appeal for an end to the war in Vietnam.

PULP WORKERS

Autonomy Bid Splits Union

OTTAWA (CP) — A British Columbia move "to establish Canadian autonomy" in the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers was made today at the union's first Canadian conference.

Joe Kane of Powell River moved a motion to this effect moments after International President Joseph P. Tonelli had called for unity in a fighting speech.

The Kane motion which appeared to have little support outside the British Columbia delegation sought a change by which Canadian vice-presidents would be elected by the membership of the regions they represent.

Mr. Tonelli, from Fort Edward, N.Y., said in a 30-minute address that if British Columbia hadn't been given a vice-president in 1959 the union wouldn't be plagued by the problems it has now.

UNIONS RAIDING

Raiding by other unions and internal dissension have cut into the West Coast membership. About 15,000 of the union's 40,000 Canadian members are from B.C.

Mr. Tonelli said the whole pulp and paper industry is going to be dominated by 15 to 18 companies.

"We're going to be confronted by giants," he said. "There will no longer be the small independent companies we can take by the neck and pull across the conference table."

Mr. Tonelli said that this is why dissension within the union makes him sick.

"How is the little union going to cope with the giants I mentioned?" Mr. Tonelli said the dissenters are not trade unionists.

"They have other ulterior motives."

WANT STRONG TIES

B.C. delegates who supported the motion said they want to maintain a strong alliance with the international union but they also want the right to make their own decisions.

They expressed concern that the union head office might appoint western organizer Pat O'Neal to succeed ailing B.C. Vice - President Stanley Green. Mr. Green himself was given solid support.

Mr. O'Neal was involved in the electronic bugging last fall of a Vancouver convention of the rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

Mr. Tonelli said regionally elected vice - presidents would result in nothing but "rotten politics." The move would weaken the union and lead to similar demands in U.S. regions.

NAMES SUCCESSOR

He said that Canadian Director Louis H. Lorrain would succeed him today as international president if he passed away.

Mr. Lorrain himself said that the president had come to the conference to consult, not to tell.

"Don't say that Joe Tonelli came down here to tell the Canadians they can't lead themselves," he told a reporter from the podium.

Preliminary Talks Open In Moscow

The meeting was the first announced followup to President Johnson's statement March 2 that the Soviet government had agreed "to discuss means of limiting the arms race in offensive and defensive nuclear missiles."

The U.S. embassy said Thompson and Gromyko talked for about 30 minutes about efforts to arrange detailed talks.

Bankrupt Finance Firm Accused of Deception

TORONTO (CP) — A deliberate plan to deceive the public appears to have been involved in the operations of the now-bankrupt Prudential Finance Corp. Ltd., says a report of the Ontario Securities Commission.

An interim report on the tangled affairs of the corporation, tabled in the Ontario legislature Wednesday by Leslie Rowntree, commercial affairs minister, calls for more investigation.

The same line was taken in a report prepared by Clarkson, Gordon and Co., chartered accountants.

The commission report says provinces other than Ontario may be able to uncover illegal trading if they take a look.

"There is a strong presumption that there was a deliberate plan to deceive the public, the commission and its staff as to the true financial picture of the company," says the securities commission report.

Concentrating on the activities of Joseph Benoit Brien, who acquired control of Prudential Finance in 1961 and now faces six charges as a result of its collapse, the reports say he adopted a consistent program of deliberately inflating the value of assets.

Other findings indicated that assets were manipulated to the detriment of all but an inside group. Total net losses from Jan. 1, 1961, to Nov. 18, 1966, amounted to $17,356,024.

The reports say further criminal charges may be necessary and the possibility of civil legal action exists.

Mr. Rowntree said completion of the investigation into the collapse of Prudential Finance could take "a few weeks."

Mr. Rowntree said the investigation so far has been fruitful. Charges had been laid against two companies and five individuals and it was possible that more charges would be laid as the investigation proceeded.

NOTHING PLANNED

Mr. Rowntree said he didn't know what, if any, action the government would take on behalf of about 8,500 Prudential creditors.

Many elderly people who reported losing their savings were among about 8,500 investors involved in Prudential Finance. About 3,500 investors in Ontario and 5,000 outside the province may get back about 15 cents on the dollar.

The Clarkson, Gordon report says that in further investigations priority should be given to circumstances surrounding apparent false financial statements and a prospectus filed with the Ontario Securities Commission in 1963 to get approval for sale of securities in the province.

Of the 1963 prospectus, Clarkson, Gordon says it contained inaccuracies and did not include information required by law. After July 1, 1963, Prudential Finance sold securities in Quebec, British Columbia, Alberta, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia as well as Ontario.

MAKES OTHER POINTS

The Clarkson, Gordon report makes these points about the collapse:

—The company could not make enough money to meet overhead resulting from rapid expansion, or to cover the high cost of borrowed funds and absorb losses on speculative loans and investments.

—There were losses on investments and loans concerning unrelated companies, subsidiary companies and companies controlled by Brien.

The report says Prudential

Nurses Press Demand For Salary Increase

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Psychiatric and registered nurses in British Columbia government hospitals decided Wednesday to appeal to Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes for help in their bid for increased salaries.

Mrs. Faye Hartford of Surrey, secretary of the Psychiatric Nurses Association said the meeting also agreed to send letters to all MLAs and if "we don't hear by March 29 we will hold a mass rally. . . ."

She added, however, the nurses won't strike because "we're pledged not to." She said the 1,300 nurses want a 25-per-cent increase on present salaries that range from $362 to $432 a month.

Meanwhile, Dr. Ken Davies, chairman of the psychiatric section of the B.C. Medical Association, complained in a statement Wednesday about a committee appointed by the government to study complaints by the psychiatric staff at Riverview mental hospital here.

He said the committee should include persons from all branches of psychiatry. The only psychiatrist on the committee is Dr. F. G. Tucker, deputy director of mental health services.

"We are concerned primarily with the basic attitude of the government toward treatment services," said Dr. Davies.

The mental health services situation is acute, he added.

Do-Nothing Gas Report Action Hit

New Laws Demanded By Grit

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

A prorogation-day storm blew up for the Legislature this afternoon in the wake of a special committee's majority report on gas prices that was tabled shortly before dawn at the end of a night sitting.

The report recommended virtually no action to follow up the Morrow Royal Commission's findings except for setting up another review committee in two years time.

But the four NDP members of the committee attacked the government party's refusal to permit them to table a minority report. And Alan Macfarlane, the only Liberal member of the committee, said he would repudiate the majority report which he had supported because the final written version tabled by the chairman conflicted with the concensus of nine Socreds and himself.

CHAIRMAN

"That report does not represent what went on in the committee," he angrily declared outside the legislature after copies of the document signed by chairman Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver-Centre), were distributed.

He said he would see Speaker William Murray before the afternoon sitting, expected to be the last of the session, to determine the best procedure for disavowing the majority report officially.

Mr. Macfarlane objected to the report's sections which recommended "legislation if necessary" which he said was supposed to read "legislation was necessary" to prohibit retroactively consignment selling and gasoline supply agreements beyond five years between oil companies and retailers.

CRITICIZED

He added the report did not make it clear, as it was supposed to, that the oil companies had refused to commit themselves against reviving these practices criticized by commissioner Judge Charles Morrow.

The NDP minority report recommended establishment of a crown corporation for pilot operation of a refinery and gasoline distribution system to retailers to see if this competitive device could force the oil industry to reduce gasoline prices.

Alex Macdonald (NDP — Vancouver East) said the majority report "fails completely to deal with monopoly prices in this industry and does not deal with more than a small part of the recommendations of Judge Morrow."

But his sharpest criticism was aimed at the government's refusal to allow tabling of the

VIOLATION CHARGED

U.S. 'Captures' Russ Fishboat

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A Soviet fishing vessel—the second to be accused this month of violating United States rights in Alaskan waters—was being towed toward Kodiak today by a United States Coast Guard cutter.

Capt. Robert Emerson, commander of the coast guard station at Kodiak, said the Russian skipper refused to follow the cutter Storis to port so the vessel was taken under tow. If the Russian changes his mind and proceeds under his own power the vessels could arrive by late afternoon. The tow would take nearly two days.

The 178-foot trawler, SRTM 8-457, was boarded south of the Shumagin Islands Wednesday after a coast guard aircraft had engaged in "hot pursuit" of the vessel for 10 miles.

The coast guard said the aircraft, on routine law-enforcement patrol, spotted the trawler fishing 5.5 miles east of Seal Cape in the Shumagins, a violation of the U.S. 12-mile exclusive fisheries zone which went into effect March 17.

IGNORES ORDER

The aircraft signalled the ship to heave-to and await arrival of a government ship. Instead, the trawler picked up her fishing gear and headed toward international water. The Storis overtook the ship 15 miles off shore.

The scene was about 100 miles southwest of the spot the trawler SRT M8 - 413 was seized March 2 for violation of the three-mile territorial limit at Mitrofania Island, some 40 miles southwest of Chignik on the Alaska peninsula.

Nicolai G. Zernov, skipper of that vessel, was fined $5,000, an amount Alaska Governor Walter J. Hickel called "measly."

SHELBURNE, N.S. (CP)—Two Shelburne men were charged today with stealing the 84-foot scallop dragger Hansen from her berth here Wednesday.

BAN SOUGHT IN U.S. ON AIRPORT INSURANCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Congress was asked today to ban the sale of airline trip insurance at airport counters or by vending machines in an effort to curb airliner sabotage.

Senator James B. Pearson (Rep., Kan.), asked this in legislation he said would provide "greater safety for the travelling public on commercial airlines".

The senator said six accidents, in which 210 persons died, had been caused by sabotage since 1955.

Pearson said in a statement his proposal "would be a responsible step to remove an inducement which has been closely connected to actions of irrational human behavior which have cost many innocent lives".

SOVIET PATIENCE WEARING THIN

Arms Talks Recessed in Anger

GENEVA (UPI) — Diplomats today recessed the stalemated disarmament negotiations amid bitterness between the have and have-not nuclear powers and a sense of frustration by both Moscow and Washington.

The 17-nation conference adopted a suggestion by the United States to break up and return to the negotiating table May 9. Russia agreed to the recess as co-chairman of the conference with America.

"The objections (to the treaty) raised by the Federal Republic of Germany are endangering the security of the world," Roshchin said.

The United States wants the pause to try to talk its reluctant allies into accepting the proposed treaty. The American negotiator, William C. Foster, already has tried on a trip to Western European capitals to win wary allies over to the pact, but failed. Japan also has reservations about the treaty.

Meanwhile, both Britain and the United States hoped Moscow's patience does not wear thin. Informed sources said last week in London the Soviet Union was eager to sign the treaty without further delays.

The Western European allies—especially West Germany and Italy—are concerned that the proposed treaty would prevent them from carrying out nuclear testing for peaceful purposes.

The Soviets and the Americans agreed last fall on jointly presenting a draft at the conference when it resumed Feb. 21. However, the sudden doubts in various capitals have caused delays. These doubts must be expelled before Moscow and Washington can table the motion.

A second problem is the matter of who will control inspection of nuclear testing for peaceful purposes. Both Washington and Moscow want the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna to have control. The Western European nations want to keep controls within Euratom.

Casualty Lists Growing As Ground War Expands

SAIGON (AP) — The ever-mounting cost of the Vietnam war was underscored today by the announcement of record American and Communist casualties last week while both sides increased in total strength.

Communist mortar barrages accounted for much of the rising U.S. casualties, and more of these were reported Wednesday and today in two sensitive war spots.

Mortar shells rained down on U.S. positions just below the demilitarized zone separating North and South Vietnam and along the Cambodian border where the biggest U.S. jungle sweep of the war is under way.

The U.S. command also disclosed that 18 such ground sweeps now are being conducted, an indication that a high level of casualties can be expected to continue.

The U.S. command said that 2,675 Communist soldiers were killed last week while 211 Americans were killed and 1,874 were wounded.

At the same time, U.S. troop strength in the country grew to 427,000 men, while U.S. intelligence estimated Communist strength at 286,000 men, increases of 4,000 on each side. The Communists increased their numbers despite the claimed loss of 19,500 dead—the equivalent of eight full regiments—since the first of the year.

MORTAR RAIDS

U.S. marines manning the exposed artillery position at Gio Linh, just south of the demilitarized zone, caught the heaviest barrage today. Firing from within the zone, gunners dropped 75 rounds on the marines in a 45-minute barrage.

Two other Americans were killed and 31 wounded in other barrages that fell on the troops conducting Operation Junction City near the Cambodian frontier northwest of Saigon. This operation saw one of the sharpest battles of the war earlier this week and has become one of the deadliest in the war. U.S. troops have killed 1,772 Communists since it began Feb. 22, headquarters said.

Military headquarters also announced that elements of two South Korean divisions—an estimated 10,000 men—have been engaged in their most ambitious ground operation of the war for the last two weeks. This is a sweep along 45 miles of coastline to clear five Viet Cong battalions, about 2,500 men, from a wide area dominating the coastal highway from Song Cau to Tuy Hoa.

The Koreans said so far they have killed 149 soldiers, captured 150 and seized 146 weapons.

SIX MEN TO WATCH

Those New City Slickers Improve Tone of Debate

By JOHN MIKA

Times Legislative Reporter

Mika

All going well, the legislature's 55 members will be lining up tonight to receive their $8,000 cheques for salary and expense money, settle their debts and go home after eight weeks of work in the limelight.

The rest of the year they'll have to work almost as hard each day looking after constituents' problems as best they can but the publicity spotlight will be turned off.

Since this has been the first session of the 28th legislature, it's still too early to say whether it will go down as one of the great legislatures in the province's history but certainly the first indications point in that direction.

All three party leaders—Premier Bennett of the Social Credit, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan of the NDP, and Liberal Leader Ray Perrault — believe that it is far better than average, particularly because of the 19 newcomers.

GOOD HUMOR

And the consensus is that this first session of a new legislature was better in caliber of debate, sense of proportion and good-humored temper than the last session of the 27th legislature, or for that matter, any of the previous sessions.

The first session after an election normally shows better sense of proportion and humor but it is rare indeed for its debates to rise above the level of the pre-election session when all MLAs are experienced and talking for their individual political lives.

OUTSTANDING

The pre-election session of this group, some two or three years hence, should be an outstanding show.

Each of the party leaders pays tribute to the speaking abilities of the freshmen—plugging those from their own parties most, of course.

Premier Bennett says the biggest difference he notices from the days when he entered the legislature a quarter-century ago is that young men who have never faced so many political opponents at one time today not only do not shrink from the ordeal of a maiden speech but embroil thsmelves willingly in debates and do well at that.

NEW ATMOSPHERE

Opposition Leader Strachan says he detects an entirely new atmosphere in the legislature and, although he concedes one or two freshmen from the other parties have been impressive, he feels that the NDP group has managed to seize the inititative and retain it throughout the session.

Liberal Leader Perrault says some of the freshmen have been as articulate as the veterans and this gives promise that this particular group of MLAs will be the best seen during the Bennett era.

Undoubtedly, the composition of the house has had something to do with its new-found sheen. The redistribution of ridings has put far more "city boys" with an education into the political forum.

MEN TO WATCH

Comparisons are invidious at this early stage, but on the basis of their performance at the first session the newcomers to watch next session will be:

Socreds Evan Wolfe and Herb Capozzi, both from Vancouver-Centre; Liberals Allan Williams (West Vancouver Howe Sound) and Barrie Clark (North Vancouver-Seymour); and NDP members Robert Williams (Vancouver East) and Ernie Hall (Surrey). Tom Berger (NDP — Vancouver-Burrard) also has shown well but he's had one year of federal politics behind him.

All represent the new breed of young hard-nosed urbanites who are likely to be on the provincial scene for many years to come. And any one of them could someday write a throne speech, depending on how the breaks go.

RCMP Charge Boy With Woman's Killing

VANCOUVER (CP) — A charge of committing juvenile delinquency in the capital murder eight months ago of Mrs. Anna Whitby was laid Wednesday against a 15-year-old boy.

RCMP laid the charge against the youth, who had been remanded to Riverview Mental Hospital for psychiatric examination after an incident last week involving a woman in a laundromat.

Mrs. Whitby, 34, was strangled in dense bush in suburban Coquitlam. Her son Murray, six, was warned off by his mother as the assailant dragged her into the bushes.

Mrs. Whitby's nude body was discovered in a shallow stream the next morning, and Murray was found wandering in the bush.

Finance was in difficulties as early as 1960, before Brien bought control from A. H. Rafuse of London, Ont. for $200,000. Brien became president of Prudential Finance.

It devotes a considerable amount of space to relations between Prudential Finance and O'Brien Gold Mines Ltd., the control of which was bought by Prudential Finance in 1965. It was taken over after a bitter stock fight led by its previous owners, the O'Brien family of Ottawa.

CASH TRANSFERRED

The report says Brien had caused O'Brien Gold Mines to transfer cash to Prudential Finance, showing the transactions on the books as investments in the finance company's notes.

Mr. Rowntree said in the legislature that if suspicions about the company's collapse are "well-founded, as they appear to be at this point, there has been a complete and shameful disregard of the obligations and responsibilities that rested with individuals associated with Prudential Finance Corp. Ltd., its subsidiaries and associated companies."

Recently - introduced revisions of Ontario securities legislation would "greatly lessen the possibility of such disreputable acts taking place again."

The Clarkson, Gordon report says the main benefit received from Prudential Finance by Brien was the easy access by his other companies to money obtained by Prudential Finance from the public. Through Brien, the other companies could easily obtain money from the public, but otherwise they "would have faced extreme difficulties in obtaining funds from arm's-length lenders."

Tears Down Trunk No Elephant Joke

LONDON (AP) — "I know that zoologists may say that an elephant can't cry," says Mrs. Jean Robinson, "but I saw tears in this elephant's eyes, and I saw them running down her trunk."

Mrs. Robinson is secretary of the Twycross Zoo in Leicestershire.

Every night the peace of the zoo was shattered by shrieks and sobs. The noise sounded similar to a baby crying, but no child was around.

"Big tears were rolling down her trunk," Mrs. Robinson said Thursday. "I saw them and so did the girls."

Iris is a four - month - old Indian elephant, only recently brought to England.

"There was nothing to cause her pain," said Trevor Varley, a member of the zoo staff. "She was eating well and was healthy."

A night light was installed in the elephant house early this week. Not a peep has been heard from Iris since.

"But if we were asked we would . . . supply material aid to North Vietnamese civilians, but not to military personnel."

OTTAWA TO PAY MORE IN B.C. BRIDGE PLAN

CAMPBELL
. . . he likes it

The Burrard bridge ball bounced back into the federal government's courtyard today when Pemier Bennett unveiled his new plan for financing of the long-sought second crossing of the First Narrows of Burrard Inlet.

The formula would apply to either a tunnel or a bridge.

The offer received an enthusiastic response from Mayor Tom Campbell of Vancouver. The provincial offer followed by one week an offer from the federal government to provide a grant, and a long-term loan to be liquidated by a share of the provincial gasoline tax.

OUTRIGHT GRANT

Under the premier's plan, announced at a press conference, the federal government is asked to contribute $40,000,000 in an outright grant, rather than the $20,000,000 offered by federal Labor Minister Nicholson. In addition, the federal government agency, the National Harbors Board, and the Canadian Pacific Railway would contribute a joint grant of an additional $20,000,000.

A total of $40,000,000 would be paid by the provincial government and the municipalities. The province itself would contribute $27,000,000 and will advance the $13,000,000 municipal share repayable over a period of years, interest free.

WITHOUT TOLLS

In a letter given to Mayor Campbell, the premier said "the Government of British Columbia considers that the proposed new crossing over Burrard Inlet should be built without involving tolls or gasoline taxes or any interest charges to municipalities on their portion of the capital cost.

"The provincial government also considers that federal and provincial sales taxes should not apply to construction costs.

"Accordingly British Columbia is prepared to waive or rebate the provincial sales tax in connection with the Burrard Inlet crossing" the premier's statement said.

SPENDING BILLS APPROVED BEFORE RECESS

MPs Rush Work for Easter Vacation

OTTAWA (CP)—In an overtime day for both Commons and Senate, Parliament cleared the way early today for an Easter vacation.

In a flurry to clear the decks for an 11-day break in a session that has already run 231 days, the commons:

— Approved supplementary spending estimates totalling $324,983,578 for the fiscal year that ends this month.

—Gave the government authority to spend $583,621,688 to meet bills in April, first month of the new fiscal year.

The Senate, starting at the unusual time of 10 a.m., proceeded to give approval to the Bank Act revisions and handle the two money bills from the Commons by 1 a.m.

Royal assent followed and the Commons went on vacation until April 3 and the Senate until April 18.

GREENE UNDER FIRE

Agriculture Minister Greene took a severe pounding from opposition MPs on an alleged lack of government farm policy. He replied that things were not perfect for the farmer but they were better under the Liberal government than they were previously.

Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) served notice that his party has not given up its fight to have spending estimates of the defence department set out in a way so that MPs can compare spending for the three arms of the service with previous years.

The supplementary estimates gave MPs an opportunity to get on the record on a host of issues.

Ralph B. Cowan (L—York-Humber) and Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) both agreed the CBC had been showing an anti-American bias. They said Parliament should warn the CBC that it would stop its grants unless there was an airing of both sides of the political question.

Jack Horner (PC — Acadia) and Ed Schreyer (NDP—Springfield) both complained of a lack of government agriculture policy.

Mr. Horner said farmers across the country were demanding a conference of leaders in agriculture to draft over-all policies because there had been a lack of direction from the federal government.

Mr. Schreyer said farm problems had been mounting under the Liberal government with no sign of "tangible action." Farmers were caught in a price squeeze and there was a steady exodus of young people to the cities.

Finance Minister Sharp also had an announcement for the Commons—the easing of tax restrictions against investment.

He said reduced capital cost allowances, introduced in his budget last March 29 and intended to last until next Oct. 1, will be lifted April 1.

COMMUNICATIONS SATELLITE

'Canary Bird' Winging For Perch Over Atlantic

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) Canary Bird, a new commercial communications satellite intended to link four continents, soared through a preliminary transfer orbit today en route to a fixed outpost high above the Atlantic Ocean.

The Communications Satellite Corp. payload initially will be used to expand communications between North American and Europe. Next year, when ground stations are ready, it will extend service to Africa and Latin America.

The 357 - pound Canary Bird was launched Wednesday night from Cape Kennedy into an eliptical orbit ranging from 200 to 23,000 miles.

Three to seven days after launching, Comsat plans to send a radio signal to fire an onboard kick motor to jockey it into a stationary orbit 22,300 miles above the Atlantic off the west coast of Africa.

Comsat hopes to have it ready for commercial service within two weeks.

Comsat, the U.S. corporation which managed the 56 - country International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium, has two other satellites in commercial operation — Early Bird, over the Atlantic, and Lani Bird over the Pacific.

Canada is represented on Comsat by the Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corp.

Visitor Rooms Sought

A request was made in the Legislature Wednesday for more committee rooms in which members can meet constituents.

Complained Cyril Shelford (SC—Omineca) during debates on Works Minister Chant's departmental estimates for $21,338,901:

"I do want to appeal for better accommodation for members who have to travel 500 miles to get here.

"Members have to meet their consituents in corridors.

"It's a disgrace in my opinion that we should have to lean in corridors talking to people who come to see us."

Dudley Little (SC—Skeena) said Mr. Chant had been promising him committee rooms would be fixed up for the past six years.

Labor Once More Takes Over Steel

LONDON (AP) — Nationalization of Britain's steel industry was completed by Parliament Wednesday night. The government will take over ownership and control this summer, possibly as early as June.

The Royal assent, final legislative stage of the iron and steel bill, was given in the House of Lords without any of the political controversy and fanfare that had attended the bill's passage.

Steel nationalization was a main plank in the Labor party's platform during the 1964 and 1966 election campaigns.

Labor argued that the steel industry had failed to modernize and needed to reorganize. The Conservatives assailed the proposal as a sop to Labor's left wing and maintained private industry could do a better job of putting its own house in order.

The post-war Labor government nationalized the industry in 1950, but the Conservatives turned it back to private ownership after they returned to power in 1951.

This time the government is buying — for $1,344,000,000 — the nation's 14 largest companies, which produce 90 per cent of the nation's iron and steel. Another 140 companies, most of them small specialty firms, remain in private hands.

Lord Melchett, a banker and scion of one of Britain's leading industrial families, will head the National Steel Corp. that will be one of Europe's largest industrial groupings, with an annual steel capacity of 30,000,000 tons.

South Korean Units Launch Viet Drive

SAIGON (AP)—About 10,000 South Korean troops pushed from north and south along the South Vietnamese coast Wednesday in their biggest operation of the Vietnam war. They sought to close a 40-mile coastal gap and crush opposing North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces.

South Korean military headquarters announced that elements of two divisions were involved in the drive to link up between Tuy Hoa and Song Cau.

The operation was launched March 8, a spokesman disclosed. He said that since then Korean forces have killed 149 Communist soldiers, captured 150 and seized 146 weapons. He termed Korean casualties light.

He said the force in the area was believed to include elements of the 5th Division of North Vietnamese regulars plus five Viet Cong battalions.

Noted Expert To Talk On Pollination

One of the foremost North American experts on planned pollination will hold a seminar on the subject this evening at the federal forest research lab here.

D. H. Oldershaw of Vancouver will speak on intensive planned pollination to local fruit growers, nurserymen, cucumber and holly growers.

Mr. Oldershaw is assistant provincial apiarist and has spent many years on pollination research. His talk will be illustrated and will be followed by a question period and discussion on increasing yields through planned pollination.

The seminar is sponsored by provincial department of agriculture, apiaries branch, with the Saanich Fruit Growers Association and the Island division of the B.C. Honey Producers Association.

It will begin at 8 p.m. at the forest lab, 506 West Burnside, and is open to the public.

The Real Job

THE CURRENT ACADEMIC turbulence at Gordon Head and the determined publicity achieved by some of the central figures in the controversy may have led the general public to picture a faculty and student body fighting obsessively for some great principle of freedom. The fact is that a relatively small portion of either faculty or student body has submerged itself in the maelstrom.

At the very hour today, for instance, when a student meeting was held on the campus to discuss the prospects of a one-day boycott of classes next week, another gathering was being held to present awards to students who have won outstanding honors in their studies. While some university teachers are leaving by request or in protest, other educationists and scholars with national reputations have been attracted to the university and are busy making their valuable contribution to the growth of the local institution.

There are thus clearly two sides to the campus picture at Gordon Head. It is well that the public whose money is being spent on higher education, either through direct donations or through taxes, should keep this in mind.

Although the charge has been made that academic freedom is being stifled at the university, there appears to be a large number of students and faculty members who have not found the intellectual climate there to be detrimental to the growth of their minds or their careers. And it is noticeable that the "stifling" charge has been accompanied by no examples of attempts by the administration to curb the pursuit of truth in any item of the curriculum: no serious theories in any field of study have been forbidden in the classroom; no worthy program of work to enlarge the scope of knowledge has been proscribed in any laboratory; no brilliant new forays into science or philosophy have been discouraged.

Attempts to raise the local controversy to a heroic level comparable, say, with the expulsion of the renowned Galileo from the University of Pisa for his heresy in rightly claiming that heavy bodies fall at the same speed as light ones, do not quite come off. There may be little in common between a scholar with a new morsel of truth for the world, and a free-ranging spirit at outs with his employer and colleagues.

The concept of tenure is well established in universities on this continent. It is a system whereby a teacher is engaged for a period of one year or two, at the end of which time the whole situation is reviewed and the university either contracts with him for a permanent position or he is informed that the arrangement is at an end. But once tenure has been granted, there is very little opportunity, apart from extreme cause, for an institution to dismiss a teacher until he has reached retirement age. There is therefore an understandable caution on the part of any university administration in granting tenure, and reasons for not granting it may range beyond the immediate matters of classroom success, student popularity, scholastic achievement and publications. The reasons need not be made public.

The situation is particularly sharpened in the case of a university supported by public funds. The administration must exercise its best judgement and spend the public money to the best advantage possible. The administration is doubly answerable for its expenditures: it must not only obtain the best possible services and equipment for the money available, it must furnish the best possible education to the students, not only those present today but through the long years to come.

The University of Victoria has had an excellent record in the less than four years that it has been a degree-granting institution. But in these years when there is extremely rapid expansion it must preserve internal stability if it is to survive to a mature future. The preservation of stability and the construction of a workable system are not easy when the student body is increasing by 400 or more each year, when half of the faculty of 250 has been on the campus less than three years, when last year, with the opening of the new term, one-third of the faculty members were freshly arrived at Gordon Head.

* * *

Under such conditions of plunging growth a university administration needs the support and co-operation of both student body and faculty in order to avoid chaos and establish a worthy and enduring institution. That co-operation, fortunately, has been forthcoming from the great majority of students and teachers. True, there must be opportunity for the traditional fermenters and hell-raisers to perform their accustomed function. But what Greater Victorians would like at the moment, viewing the Gordon Head phenomenon which they have helped to buy, is to see their university forge ahead on the worthy path it has set. The basic product so far is encouraging.

To Meet New Requirements

MANPOWER MINISTER MARchand, speaking at a labor-management conference in Ottawa, hinted that federal legislation might be necessary to lay down the ground rules by which automation could be introduced in industry. This would be for the purpose of promoting an orderly transfer of labor to other tasks and to avoid industrial strife.

The natural reaction of both labor and management to suggestions of this sort has traditionally been hostile—the unions because they fear erosion of their bargaining power backed by the ultimate weapon of the strike; business and industry because they are jealous of their prerogative to determine the size of their work force and their methods of operation. Labor and management are not always concerned with the effects of their actions on the economic development of the country as a whole, whereas this is precisely what Mr. Marchand is involved with.

It may be argued that the country cannot economically withstand the ravage of costly labor disputes, although these could be both numerous and bitter as automation cuts more deeply into all areas of business and industry. The case can be put just as forcefully that the social upheaval, unemployment and wastage of manpower which would come as a result of automation imposed by management without regard to the fate of the workers involved, would be just as much a drain on the economy.

The fact is that any government which fails to prepare legislation to adjudicate the labor-management controversies which will result from automation risks throwing the country into chaos. Mr. Marchand suggests, therefore, that among the steps which should be taken is the promotion of labor-management co-operation prior to changes which will affect the workers. This seems to be only common sense. To achieve this through legislation, rather than through voluntary means, would be merely a matter of equity, an assurance that all industries and all unions played by the same rules and that none attempted to gain an unfair advantage over competitors.

The era of automation cannot be one in which an employer may without notice send redundant workers into the streets and onto the welfare rolls. Equally, if the country is to move ahead, there can be no tolerance of a new "Luddite" movement by labor whereby the productivity gains of automation would be negated by feather-bedding practices.

An Escalation in Settlement Terms

THE exchange of letters between President Johnson and Ho Chi Minh does not clear up the confusion and contradictions in the public mind about what happened at the time of the Tet truce in early February. The letters merely confirm what everyone already knows. The United States is prepared to suspend the bombing of North Vietnam if the President is "assured that infiltration into South Vietnam by land and sea has stopped". The President, which was not known before, offered also to stop "further augmentation of United States forces in South Vietnam". But of course he did not propose to stop supplying them by sea.

Lippmann

Ho Chi Minh's reply was to refuse to pay for the suspension of the bombing by stopping the infiltration, which includes the supplying of his troops in South Vietnam.

What is not clarified by the publication of these letters is the real point at issue between the President and Prime Minister Kosygin and Secretary General U Thant. The point at issue is whether the President in 1967 has rejected an offer to negotiate which agrees with what he was asking for in 1965 and early 1966.

It is clear, I think that the President's former position was that he would suspend the bombing in return for an unconditional parley. Thus on January 31, 1966, at the end of the 37-day bombing pause, Secretary Rusk said that bombing would not have been resumed "if Hanoi would reciprocate by making a serious contribution toward peace." He said nothing about reciprocating with a military concession. Two weeks later, at Las Vegas, Secretary Rusk said more plainly "some governments said Hanoi would talk if we would stop bombing North Vietnam. We tried that twice—briefly last spring (1965) and, recently, for 37 days. But it made no difference; Hanoi would not come to the conference table."

It can be argued, and in fact it was argued by some United States military men, that such a parley while the bombing was suspended, would, become, what Time magazine has called "a lethal filibuster." Hanoi would build up powerful forces against the U.S. What is certain, as Time says also, is that in 1967 the President has stiffened his terms and is no longer willing to accept his 1966 terms. "As recently as the 37-day bombing pause in 1966, the administration was offering to end the air war for nothing more than an agreement to begin negotiations . . . since then, the administration has been demanding a quid pro quo before it will agree to call off the bombing raids against the north."

No Longer Acceptable

Here lies the explanation of Prime Minister Kosygin's and U Thant's statements and of the President's strange behavior in ignoring them both. Mr. Kosygin and U Thant brought the assurance that 1966 American terms—suspension for an unconditional parley—would now be accepted by Hanoi. The American response was to ignore the assurances because what they were promising was no longer acceptable to the United States.

There is therefore a deadlock in the manoeuvering for a negotiated settlement. We have been told that we can get today what we wanted in 1966. We cannot get what we are now asking, not yet at least, and so the war goes on with no end in sight.

FROM CALGARY By JAMES H. GRAY

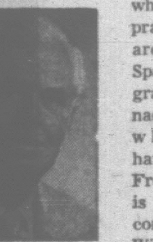
Late Prairie Winter of Discontents

IF Hon. Paul Martin can let go of NATO, the United Nations and Vietnam for a moment, he will discover a wild new hazard to Canada's external image being whooped up on the prairies. Manitobans are going in for Spanish lessons on a grand scale! To Canadians who know what Manitobans have done to the French language, this is shocking news. It comes about because Winnipeg will be host to the Pan-American Games this summer, and to the several thousand athletes, trainers, bag carriers and chaperons from a dozen Spanish-American countries of South and Central America who will come to town.



Gray

Learning to speak Spanish will help to make the visitors feel at home. So the radio stations and The Tribune are giving Spanish lessons. The results cannot help but curdle Canada's relations with South America.

Random Tongues

There is something about the Winnipeg climate that is fatal to foreign language pronunciation. Winnipeggers tend to run English together in a "hiyaboywhatsnew?" manner. When they get into French every letter is enunciated with the long accent. Easterners who ask directions to the corner of Portage and Notre Dame, or for the St. Vital bus, or where is Des Meurons Street, will neither be understood nor able to understand the answer.

What the Winnipeg accent will do to Spanish can only be disastrous.

A different sort of crisis is shaping up for Saskatchewan, come next July. When all the bigwigs from Ottawa and Regina trek out to Outlook to officially open the big Saskatchewan River Dam and Power Project, they may be met by angry card-carrying demonstrators. The embattled farmers of the proposed irrigation bloc are still battling against what the Government of Saskatchewan likes to regard as progress.

Like It Dry

One of the essential justifications for spending $190,000,000 to dam the river was to provide irriagtion water for 500,000 acres south of Saskatoon. The trouble is that the farmers in the area have been doing so well dry-farming their vast wheat acreages that they want no part of the irrigation bit. The Saskatchewan Government, however, insists that the dam was built to turn the area into an irrigator's paradise and the farmers will irrigate or else. The "or else" is expropriation of their farms which will be sold to farmers who will irrigate.

Endless bitterness has been stirred up over the irrigation issue and the end is not in sight. The head of the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union, for example, has described the government's case for irrigation farming as "hogwash" and an "agricultural flop." He, of course, recognizes all the other virtues of the project — generation of power and provision of needed water for eastern Saskatchewan. But irrigation is a dirty word, and will probably get dirtier.

Haunting Taunting

In the Saskatchewan political arena, the CCFers are amusing themselves by haunting Premier Ross Thatcher with some of his own campaign promises. During the last election the Liberal leader blasted the CCF government's educational tax and general extravagance and inefficiency.

The former Minister of Agriculture, Hon. I. C. Nollat, has been lashing at the premier for extending the educational tax and embarking on extravagances the CCF never thought of. Like equipping the Legislative Building with brand new marble corridors, and himself with a government-bought executive aircraft in which to flit about the province.

In Alberta, a sudden celebrity famine has developed for the Calgary Stampede. The general manager of the show came home from Hollywood last week without having been able to lure a single star to his annual clambake.

Un-celebrities

The Stampede has always gone in heavily for American celebrities, frequently with unhappy results. One TV star got so drunk and insulting that he was placed in charge of a keeper. Another group of small-fry favorites from the old movies on television were a total disaster. Yet the personal appearance racket has now reached a stage that the fees demanded by even the bush-league celebrities make them too rich for the Stampede's blood.

Edmonton, having been bitten by no talent stars from Bonanza and other "western" television epics, has decided that its spring rodeo can get by without hig-priced front men. Like Calgary, Edmonton has discovered that the actors who project heroic figures through the idiot box come across as dull-as-dishwater non-personalities when they start masquerading as entertainers.

Looking Back

From The Times of March 23, 1907.

Montreal — The rumor that the Grand Trunk is negotiating for the Canadian Northern is again in circulation. It is stated that William Mackenzie was recently offered somewhere in the vicinity of $13,000,000 for this property but he refused to sell at that figure. President Mackenzie of the CNR and C. M. Hays of the GTP are both in England at present and it is stated that the matter had again been discussed.

Letters

Part of Her Life

Why the recent rash of persecutions of owners of "man's best friend" and protector — the dog — particularly in the hitherto peaceful rural district of Saanich?

Man and dog have been getting along putting up with each other in harmony since the era of the cavedweller. Why has it suddenly become a virtual crime to keep one? Anyone interested knows that dogs have their "little ways."

Suddenly these harmless pursuits become a matter of acute anxiety to a loving, careful dog-owner — fearing constantly the Gestapo tactics of the so-called S.P.C.A. They have made a travesty of the name!

If the solution is supposed to be keeping a healthy, active animal permanently on the end of a string, I wonder what comes under the heading of "cruelty" in their book?

Dogs are a necessary part of my life — both for their companionship and for the reassurance they give me that I will not again be murderously attacked by a burglar.

I resent very much being made to feel like a furtive criminal for keeping them — and I am sure I speak for many others. — Peggy Walton Packard, 1885 Lansdowne.

Solutions Through Work

With reference to the letter of Mr. T. O. Miller published in your paper under date of March 10, I find myself in complete agreement with your correspondent and just as puzzled as he is as to why the government is paying members of the CYC $145 per month on which to "exist" in comparison to respectable Old Age Pensioners who are supposed to "exist" on $105 per month — and that with a means test. Moreover when one spouse is not entitled to the OAP because of age limitation, two must "exist" on this amount. Even if such older persons are able to find odd jobs to supplement this meagre pension, they are penalized by deductions.

What qualifications have these young people to enable them to secure this $145 per month? What are their aims and objects? A short time ago I saw a TV program in which a number of them were interviewed. The "message" which they were trying to get across was completely incomprehensible to me, and appeared to be equally so to their interviewer.

These young people are young and vigorous and doubtless work would be a good antidote for their imaginary "problems."—"Victoria Resident."

In Place of Holiday

Recently two correspondents complained that no school holiday was granted to recognize the death of our much-respected Governor-General, although this had been done for Churchill and Kennedy.

At first I was inclined to agree, but on reflection came to the conclusion that the idea of having each school hold its own ceremony on the day of the funeral was much more fitting. After all, to almost any youngster a holiday is something to rejoice over, scarcely a suitable idea for such an occasion.

I was present at one such ceremony, and felt that the combination of music, reading, eulogy, and one minute's silence was such as to make the affair impressive and memorable. — R. Morris Wilson, 235 Cook.

Young Veteran

At 41, I am one of the youngest Second War vets still in the service, and if a poll were to be taken of the troops, I'm sure you would find the contents of this letter to be a true expression of their feelings on unification of the forces.

We are all pretty well agreed that unification of certain functions of the services is necessary to overcome duplication of work, such as medical, supply, clerical, etc. Also we have an abundance of senior officers filling decadent roles which could be eliminated.

The main point of issue on unification, however, is the loss of identity of the three distinct services.

If Mr. Hellyer is sincere in his desire to make the Canadian services a peace-keeping organization, why does he brand them with the ominous-sounding name of Canadian Armed Forces. A better choice would be something like the Canadian Military Service, or the Canadian Peace-keeping Organization.

But one of the biggest factors to come out of this unification bill is the untenable position a senior officer finds himself in if he does not agree with the defence minister, thereby forcing him to accept directions against his experienced better judgment, or resign.

Admiral William Landymore has devoted his entire adult life to the protection and welfare of his country, and is in the truest sense a professional. Suddenly, along comes a Johnny-come-lately with limited military service and insists that he knows better than the professional because he has been appointed to a position over the Admiral. What else could an honorable man do when confronted with such an impossible situation and without causing a rupture of loyalty to his oath of allegiance, but resign? And didn't the troops support Admiral Landymore's beliefs with their banner inscribed "Well done, Landymore"?

Now the important thing is, if the present Liberal government is defeated at the polls at the next election, will the new governing body revert the integrated services back into three separate services? And what about the election after that?—Senior NCO (RCAF).

Ky Even Upstaged President at Guam

By WARD JUST

AGANA, Guam—The Guam conference ended Tuesday, and it was dominated by the young Vietnamese premier in the manner of a fast welterweight outclassing a convention of wrestlers. At Guam, no one laid a hand on him.

Air Vice Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky began his conference with an address to President Johnson and high American officials that expressed what the premier has called "my realism" about Vietnam.

The statement contained harsh references to his enemies, the Communists, and asked, rhetorically, what the Americans proposed to do about Cambodian sanctuaries, goods flowing through the port of Haiphong and increasing infiltration through Laos and the Demilitarized Zone.

Others asked questions, the premier explained later, so he thought he might ask a few. There was no intention to embarrass anyone or to seize the headlines. Yet both of those things happened at Guam, and in the face of extraordinary competition: the president, his two top cabinet ministers, a four-star general, a White House assistant and two ambassadors.

The flyweight who assumed office 21 months ago and the lightweight who was embraced by the president at Honolulu 13 months ago has become a very fast welterweight, and it was with a barely suppressed smile that the premier, at his extraordinary press conference early Tuesday, noted that his government had done precisely what it said it would do: deliver a constitution within two years.

Fresh Meat

The constitutions, as someone put it later, was the only fresh meat on the platter at Guam. The other statements were strikingly similar to what has been said for a year, and in some cases two and three years: returnee rates up, pacification improving, enemy unable to achieve military victory, allies incapable of losing—yet, somehow, nobody winning.

The middle-aged men on the podium sounded avuncular and familiar in what they said, and how they said it.

Secretary Rusk was unruffled, Secretary McNamara was precise, Presidential Assistan Komer was crisp, General Westmoreland transparently honest (as when he tried to dodge a question about troop levels and made such an obvious hash of it that no one pushed the matter).

When the familiar questions came from the audience of newsmen, McNamara smiled wearily and Rusk responded in the familiar circumlocutions: "We are prepared to discuss it (representation of the National Liberation Front at the peace table) if anybody can stop the shooting. But since no one in this room can stop the shooting, I will not discuss it with anybody present."

Premier Ky glides, someone once wrote, the slow glide of the tango dancer, olive-skinned, small-boned, bright-eyed, he appears to move as if on ice, nodding as if in a dream. He does not know how to keep quiet, and whether that is due to his uncertain English or to a persistent desire that everyone know all that is on his mind cannot be said with certainty.

He began slowly, speaking softly and apologizing gracefully when he took out a cigarette. Difficult questions received simple answers: "We are not going to accept Communists in South Vietnam, and no one can impose on us to accept Communists in South Vietnam . . . as I said, we will never accept coalition with the Communists. We will never accept the so-called Front of Liberation."

Infiltration Plans

The talk went on like that until, after 30 minutes or so, a correspondent queried him on a well-publicized Vietnamese plan for halting infiltration across the Demilitarized Zone.

He approached the question slowly, gesturing with both hands. He moved into careful rationales, explaining as he went. Then, quite abruptly, he faced to the newsmen and said he needed their help to carry a message to the American people.

Ky began by speaking of the American soldier:

"I would like to say that the presence of thousands of Americans fighting today in Vietnam is something incomparable, something great. What they are doing now is not just for supporting either the Johnson administration or the South Vietnam administration. What they are doing in Vietnam is not fighting and killing men. What they are doing now is great. They are helping us to write history and they are helping us to build a nation."

The premier, when he is saying something he believes truly important, acquires a kind of velocity to his speech. The words and sentences follow each other in colorful rhythm, slowly at first and then quickly.

The words come quickly when Ky is angry, as he became angry Tuesday morning. He spoke of those who called him a profiteer, and who said that the war was being conducted for profiteers. He spoke of those who would negotiate South Vietnam out of business:

"There is no reason that you or other people should impose on us to surrender or accept domination from the Communists. We have had years under French domination. Now we want to be free men. We are willing to fight."

MRS. NEHRU HAS WON, BUT PROBLEMS MOUNT

THE ECONOMIST, London

Mrs. Indira Gandhi starts on her second term as India's prime minister surer of her hold over the ruling Congress party than she was before the elections. The last-minute bargain she struck with Morarji Desai, her only rival for leadership, was a concession to party sentiment and not an admission of weakness.

The impressive line-up of state leaders behind her had by then made it clear even to Mr. Desai that she would have won by a fair margin if they had to fight it out.

The compromise reached with Mr. Desai gives him the new appointment of deputy prime minister. But he has had to join hands with Mrs. Gandhi more or less on her terms. She remains the boss, as she convincingly showed by choosing a cabinet according to her own lights, without deferring to the suggestions that Mr. Desai and the party president, Mr. Kamaraj, are believed to have made.

●

The odds are reckoned at seventy to one against there being a third successive year of poor harvests; it seems reasonable to assume that the worst of the crisis is nearly over. An upturn should enable Mrs. Gandhi to regain some of the popular support she lost during the disastrous twelve months of her first term. This could in turn give her greater leverage with the party.

●

The main problem for the prime minister now is to evolve a new relationship between Congress and the opposition parties which control six out of the seventeen states.

She has started off on the wrong foot by making herself a party to the manipulations which have put Rajasthan under president's rule after a Congress attempt to form a government there with the help of independents had failed. This has been roundly condemned by all the opposition parties as a move to block an alternative non-Congress government.

Quite clearly Mrs. Gandhi will have to undo this mistake if the dialogue with the opposition is not to break off even before it has started. She knows she must carry the opposition with her if centre-state tensions are not to get out of hand.

Youthful Canadian Voters Make Politicians Nervous

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA—A cool joke I read the other day was a comment that "Bachelors are all right — but would you want your sister to marry one?"

By the standards of their generation a lot of our politicians are modern in thinking, forward in outlook, and committed to the proposition that the youth vote will decide the next election. But they're nervous about their party's marriage to it.

Waring

They want to capture that vote, sure — like a middle-aged man wants to capture a young and beautiful mistress. But they're shaken by the generation gap — or gulf, or chasm — and worried about getting involved in more than they can handle. For the youth of today isn't the docile, keep in line, don't rock the boat youth of the 20th Century Liberal Clubs of a generation ago, or the young Tories of that period.

* * *

Today's youth rejects the linear job-and-goal thinking that characterized pre-TV youth's interest in politics and living generally. That's too slow. It wants involvement in an active role, doing something about the world mess that the older generation has perpetuated and that television reveals more starkly and agonizingly than the printed word and radio ever did. For some young people involvement means service in the Company of Young Canadians, but for many more the CYC is a sop and a side-track, if not impractical for personal reasons like a wife and two children. They know the action is where the political power is — and they're impatient.

When we think of the youth vote in terms of the CYC, that's only the young youth vote. The total youth vote may be the 21 to 30 age group, or 21 to 35, or even 21 to 40. That's a matter of perspective. What is politically important is that 45 per cent of the voters are 40 or younger. Thirty-four per cent are 35 or younger, and more than 23 per cent are 30 or younger.

Youth's rebelliousness against establishmentarianism, its knowledge of its strength and its ruthlessness in going after what it wants were dramatically evident at the Conservative convention here last November. The youth delegates simply decided that Dief the dinosaur must go.

* * *

Liberal politicians haven't yet experienced such a serious confrontation within their party. However, failures in two general elections to win a Commons majority, and the steady slippage of both older parties in favor of the NDP, suggest that the youth vote isn't exactly rallying to either old line party.

So now our old and middle-aged politicians are assiduously wooing the under-40 vote, trying to create a go-go image for their parties by giving some preference to younger MPs who hopefully can communicate a vote-for-us message across the generation gap. MPs like the Liberals' John Turner, and the Tories' Howard Grafftey.

The leadership aspirants are slimming their figures — one I suspect of having dyed his hair — so that 40-odd or 50-odd won't seem all that old!

But they are not coming to grips with the problem. They can't, because they cannot adjust to the fact that young men and women today don't feel and think the same way their parents did in the '20s and '30s. They sense the gulf. They want to bridge it — but on their terms, not the terms of youth. And on their terms they will fail.

Spanish Student Unions Pushing For Democracy

MADRID — Most Spanish students reject the Franco regime and the student unions which the regime has created. The official student unions are being rapidly eroded by unofficial "democratic unions" and — whatever the rumors in Madrid may say — subsidies from the United States Central Intelligence Agency have not been required to achieve this.

In Barcelona, the control of the democratic unions is absolute. In Madrid, they are established so far only in the faculty of economics, but they are gaining ground every day.

Francisco Bernis, aged 20, is a fourth-year physics student at Madrid University, where his father is professor of biology. "These years are going to be decisive," he told me as we sat in the sunlit park outside the science faculty.

For almost two hours he spoke with moderation of the students' problems and the political regime. Only his trembling hands betrayed that this was a passionate struggle, and at times a dangerous one, in which students have been sent to prison and Civil Guards seriously wounded.

"My main criticism of the A.P.E. (the official unions) are: first, they were created anti-democratically by a handful of civil servants in the Ministry of Education. The students were not consulted," said Bernis.

"Second, they have no autonomy — they are strictly controlled from above. The subscriptions we pay every year pass automatically into the hands of the dean of the faculty. If there is trouble, the dean can refuse to give them out.

Too Much Power

"Third, the rector of the university has excessive powers of punishment. He can call on the police to enter the faculties, he can withdraw our matriculation fees, and he can prohibit the publication of announcements by the professors. All these things have happened in recent months. What is more, he can act regardless of the board of governors of the university.

"Fourth, only the academic functions of the A.PE.. are recognized — questions of timetable, syllabus, and exams. The union has no means of self-defence — peaceful demonstrations and strikes are illegal.

"It represents 100,000 students in Spain, but as it cannot bargain with the state, it can do very little for them."

Bernis says that only one of the 44 elected members of the science faculty supports the A.P.E. The rest are divided between those who believe in legal tactics and those (like Bernis) who think that the suppression of the students can be fought only by illegal methods such as strikes, boycotts, demonstrations, and, if necessary, violence.

"In Barcelona," Bernis told me, "the students decided after their crucial meeting in the Convent of the Capuchins in March, 1966, that they would have to face the risk of being sent to prison. So they made sure there were others to take their place when they were sentenced."

Not Arrested

In spite of his extreme views, Bernis has not yet been arrested or expedientado (an expediente is the normal disciplinary measure taken by the rector against a student, who can be expelled from a particular university or barred from all Spanish universities for periods ranging from a few months to several years).

The president of Madrid's science faculty A.P.E. is Miguel Sevilla, a final year mathematics student with close-cropped hair and spectacles, who looks twice his 22 years. He took care that his opinions tallied with two of his supporters hovering round his desk.

For the past year Sevilla has been slowly drawing up a new, democratic constitution for his faculty's A.P.E. The draft is now finished. It is Sevilla's dearest wish to see a democratic union set up within the official structure of the A.P.E., but he doubts if it is possible during the present academic year.

As president of the faculty A.P.E., Sevilla has to balance the opposing forces. This has given him the reputation of being in the centre. In spite of his colourless appearance, he voted "no" to Franco's new constitution in the December referendum.

Regime Too Old

"The regime has lasted too long," he said firmly. "Its structures are antiquated, and it is run by out-of-date, military mentalities. Its greatest failure has been not to improve its institutions."

Vicente Ortega, son of a tradesman from a small town near Toledo, also voted "no" in the referendum. He is in his last year in the School of Telecommunications. As president of the A.P.E., he too has to be politically neutral, though he claims he is to the left. It is typical of the watery Spanish political life that Ortega is generally thought to be on the right-wing. Nobody really understands the next man's position any better than his own.

Ortega accepts most of Bernis' criticisms, and added to them the difficulty of holding meetings and the fear of reprisals. "The movement for a democratic union is very weak in all the technical schools," he told me over a late breakfast. "Traditionally, they have kept apart from politics. Our work program has been very heavy, and we have been cut off from the university until our new building was put up two years ago."

Each of these three Madrid students rejected the regime and the state-imposed unions, but they differed in their fighting tactics. Their nebulous notions of Spanish politics were saddening. But behind their indigestible manifestoes is a heartening faith in their own generation and in the future of Spain.

They leave little doubt that they dream of greater things than did their fathers.

GENERAL FRANCO

Increasing Violence Of Life in America

By NICHOLAS VON HOFFMAN
The Washington Post

WALTHAM, Mass. — In these hills, in this winter ice, in these months of grey frigidity, you'd not be surprised to come upon a man spending the short days thinking of violence.

There is such a one here at Brandeis University, but the violence he meditates on is not his own; it is other men's done in the heat of their feelings and the summer sun.

He is John P. Spiegel, MD, professor of social psychiatry and director of the Lemberg Center for the Study of Violence. The center is the only institution in America given over wholly to the study of group violence, especially the racial sort, although Dr. Spiegel hopes if he ever gets the money and the time to look into occurrences like the annual Easter collegiate uproars on the Florida beaches.

Pessimistic Forecast

Both the center and the scientific study of this kind of violence are in their babyhood so the doctor can't make positive predictions. However, based on the preliminary results of the center's first effort, a six-city, Ford Foundation-paid-for-study, he is pessimistic.

The doctor says, "My studies to date indicate that whereas before we've had ad hoc riots, in the future they may be more systematic, more planned with more of a seizing upon an incident and using it."

"In Cleveland" he points out by way of example, "one of our interviewers was shown a machine gun and a display of arms by a youth group called the Young Adults. We were terribly impressed by this but it turned out that Doris O'Donnell of the Cleveland Plain Dealer had been shown this same display before the riots there."

Threat, Menace, Swagger

The point was that there is no evidence the guns were used. Before the fact it is almost impossible to distinguish dangerous intent from empty signifying and posturing. Even the people brandishing the arms may not know themselves. Threat, menace, swagger and tough talk are admired and cherished modes of American culture.

At one of the conferences sponsored by the center Dr. Karl Menninger, the great psychiatrist, told his colleagues that "One of the gentlemen said we tolerate a little violence. Ladies and gentlemen, we not only tolerate it, we love it. It's exciting. We put it in the front page of the paper. A third or a fourth of our television programs for the amusement of the children are exhibitions of how you can slug them, how you can knock them out, how you can kick them, how you can kill them at long distance and short distance. This is what we think is exciting. Don't think that violence is condoned, my dear friends; it's enjoyed . . ."

Travel the cities of America, listen to the clergymen, the social workers, the police, the press, the guys on the street corners hollering, "Hey Whitey!" or hear the suburban homeowner tell you what's going to happen "If any of them come marching in here," and you will hear words tingling and stiff with excited enjoyment. Horrible but wonderful and assuredly more entertaining than tedious complexities of remedial education for slum children.

Even men who neither enjoy nor encourage violence are reluctant to damn it out of hand and altogether. Norton E. Long, the political scientist who teaches at the Harvard-MIT Joint Center for Urban Studies and is a member of Dr. Spiegel's board of overseers, remarks that "The example of race relations and labor suggests that violence is importantly a means of communication among parties . . it may lead to further and more hopeful types of communication or deteriorate into the absence of communication at all."

New Kind of Rioter

Spiegel suspects that there is a new kind of ghetto rioter, perhaps a type of man who is quite willing to fight for what he believes in. "I call this man," he explains, "the mature rioter. You learn how to riot. A riot is no longer something that happens to you. You see rioting as a weapon you can use."

"The job that the old-time political machine at best did poorly — politically organizing the underprivileged — has been let go by default . . those who have sought to come to terms with areas of a city and found there were no leaders with whom one could talk, no one with whom one could negotiate, no one who spoke for much more than himself, know the price we pay for unorganized people."

Cities Are Panicky

Until hot weather comes Norton Long's price will not be exacted in blood and Dr. Spiegel will continue to get requests from residents of panicky cities for help. (Newark with a very large Negro population, has been beseeching the doctor to come study it.)

The doctor can only shake his head and remark: "They say the long cold winter is followed by the short hot summer. If we could only equalize the temperatures . . ." But the science of man is still an imprecise art.

Potential Cup Challenger To Show Sail Along Gorge

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

High-speed sailing will soon come of age in Victoria. Doug Beer's Bow Jang, built as a potential challenger for the "Little America's Cup," will shortly execute a flying leap frog into the waters of the Gorge to commence what promises to be an exciting career.

This "leap-frog" will be assisted by a launching crew with strong shoulders, and is necessary because the 27-foot hull of Marimba stands between Bow Jang and her natural element. The Bow Jang was built in a "crawl space" under the floor of the venerable Gorge Boathouse, while Marimba has been simultaneously taking shape on the marine ways.

His Prodigy

Bow Jang is, of course, a racing twin-hulled catamaran, and is classified as an International "C Class Cat." Doug expects his prodigy to be a high performance boat in the tradition of Lady Helmsman, the current holder of the cup. the cup. Catamarans provide Catamanans provide the fastest sailing today, and can clock speeds of over 30 miles per hour. By comparison, the fastest of the Swiftsure yachts seem staid indeed.

For many technical reasons, Bow Jang will probably be as fast as any "C Cat" in the world, although the proof may not come at once. Certainly, she won't have much competition in the Pacific Northwest. Designer Beer hopes to find a sponsor to take his creation east. If he can eliminate the best Cats in North America, he can challenge for the Cup, which at is present held by Great Britain.

Trampoline

Bow Jang's vital statistics are 25-foot length and 14-foot beam. She weighs in at 575 pounds, and carries 300 square feet of sail, which will be red and white striped, like the smaller "Bearcat" catamarans. The polished electric blue hulls are joined together by arched aluminum tubes. A canvas trampoline completes the construction. After the hulls were moulded by a local glassman, Doug completed the construction in approximately 500 hours. Most of her gear, including the aluminum mast and boom, was made in Victoria.

Once launched, she will be paddled down the Gorge to the Inner Harbor, where she will be rigged. Then Bow Jang will be on her way, Victoria's challenge to the world!

Dormant Class

While catamarans are numerous in other parts of the world, notably New Zealand, Australia, England, the United States, they have been a dormant class in B.C. But that was "B.B." (Before Beer). His 18-foot Bearcat designs have been scooting around local waters for two years. Now they have started to invade the interior. Also available from the Beer drawing board are 12-foot and 20-foot day sailing cats, and 26-foot and 32-foot cruising cats. John Ganton of the R.C.N.S.A. is building the first 26-footer, which will run in the neighborhood of $4,000 for an amateur built boat, and provide accommodation for five or six people.

Looks like "the Cats" are here to stay.

Prevent New Buttles, NDP Demands

By JOHN MIKA

The gulf between Social Credit and NDP attitudes towards exploitation in provincial parks widened early this morning during a sometimes bitter debate over Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan's estimates.

NDP MLAs accused Mr. Kiernan of permitting undue exploitation in Tweedsmuir Park by approving 238 mining claims which would repeat the "sorry story of Strathcona park" there and everywhere else in B.C.

CANCEL CLAIMS

And David Barrett (NDP—Coquitlam) promised he would try to persuade his party to adopt a policy warning all mining promoters that "when we form the next government every mining claim in a provincial park will be cancelled."

Mr. Kiernan said under his aegis mining development in Class B parks has been brought under control, policy of protecting especially worthwhile areas in nature conservancies has been instituted and park expansion has been vigorously pursued.

GOVERNMENT MAPS

Mr. Barrett touched off the debate by producing government maps and statistics to show that Mr. Kiernan had permitted each claim to be recorded during 1965 and 1966 after the new Parks Act was brought in.

He charged that at least two of the claims intruded into the Eutsuk Lake nature conservancy within the park which was supposed to be inviolate.

"The minister said we were going to preserve the parks (in 1965)," said Mr. Barrett.

FOR COMPANIES

He also said 31 claims had been staked and recorded with ministerial approval in Garibaldi Park since 1965 "so now we know the reason why the provincial government didn't want the federal government to spend $10 million in Garibaldi (on condition there be no exploitation)."

CONTROVERSY

Robert Williams (NDP—Vancouver-East) said the government should have "learned its lesson" in the controversy that surrounded its permits to Western Mines in Strathcona Park.

"Suely it must realize by now that if we have claims, the mine, mill, roads and townsite all go with them, he said. "After all the kind of logic used by Western Mines will be used by the other companies."

"Is this the prospect that faces our other provincial parks?

"Will townsites be allowed in Tweedsmuir Park? Will tailings be allowed in Eutsuk Lake? Will raw sewage be dumped into other Tweedsmuir lakes? Will there be townsites in Garibaldi and the other parks of the province?"

Mr. Williams said it was amazing that the government was able to stop claim staking in the Columbia River project area but not in provincial parks.

Mr. Kiernan said "there were only 56 provincial parks in 1952 and now there are 250 "and there are these problems in only a half-dozen of them."

He said he agreed there should be no exploitation in Class A parks, "but members should realize until two years ago there was no protection at all for Class B parks.

"We are clearing up the situation by regulating the Class B parks — we're in the process of defining and setting up superior areas within them as Class A areas and controlling activity in the rest.

"There is no virtue in having miles and miles of identical forest with no natural or ecological values.

LARGE PARKS

"Some of the large parks in the province were set up with no more imagination than it takes to draw a line on a map.

"But if we are to have an intelligent park policy, then the real estate in the parks should be selected carefully.

He said this has been done in Tweedsmuir Park "which is not some little softball lot — we're talking about something over two million acres, twice the size of the province of Prince Edward Island."

TINY PART

He said the 600,000-acre Eutsuk Lake nature conservancy was set up within Tweedsmuir after the whole park was surveyed to determine which areas were ecologically valuable.

Cyril Shelford (SC—Omineca) in whose riding Tweedsmuir Park falls, said the area just north of the park is "one of the hottest spots" of mining activity on the continent and only a tiny part of the park has been staked.

He said he was opposed to destroying lakeshore or alpine meadow areas but the claims have been staked in sections that would never be visited by the public.

PRESENTS A
OF
PERSIAN RUGS
7 Bales MARKER AB—25 N.Y., MONTREAL
Sizes from 1'2"x2'4" to 27'5"x16'5"

INCLUDED IN THESE SUPERB AND VALUABLE RUGS ARE:
ISFAHANS with its medallion, vase, and flower design known as "Shab Abbassi," although the famous Sixteenth Century carpets so called were probably made in Herat.
TOBRIZ is an ancient capital of Iran. It was here that the beautiful hunting carpets were woven. No other district has used such a wide range of colours or designs. Silk is sometimes used in the finer specimens.
DJOSHEGHAN. The rugs of this district have the vase design, but they are simpler than those of Tabiz or Isfahan.
KASHANS. This is a very important weaving centre. Medallion and prayer designs predominate and are woven both in wool and silk.
KERMAN. The yarn of this weaving centre is soft. The designs are mostly medallion, and trees and flowers. The colours are beautifully blended and are particularly suitable for European furnishings.
FERAHAN is woven with the Sehan knot and has enjoyed great popularity in Europe and America.
KHORASSAN. The stitch of these carpets are finer than those of Ferahan, but the wool is softer and not as durable as the latter.
HERAT. The most common design of these carpets is the recurring leaf and small rosettes. The ground shade is usually dark blue and the finer specimens generally have a soft green border. Knot Ghiordes or Sehna.
SORUK. The style here is very close to that of the Kerhan carpets. The construction is strong with a very deep pile. Knot: Sehna.
SEHNA. This is the district after which the famous Iranian knot gets its name. The carpets are finely woven in small Herat and cone designs. The pile is very short and the rugs are finely woven.
QUOMS, SILK VARAMINS. The famous four seasons of the year included in this exhibition.

Under the direct instructions of the A.B.N.R. of Iran, we are instructed, immediately after the termination of this exhibition, to sell these beautiful pieces individually by
PUBLIC AUCTION

U.S. Farmers Seeking Share Of Affluence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rebellious U.S. farmers continue to spill milk on pastures and streets, marking a price-struggle escalation many persons believe is reaching a crisis. Repercussions run from rural voting booths to big city supermarkets.

The milk-holding and dumping initiated in 25 states is the most dramatic expression of what farmers and their representatives in Congress describe as deep unrest over declining prices, rising costs and seemingly greener pasture on the city side of the fence.

A march by 100 farmers on the New Jersey state house in Trenton, dynamiting of a milk truck in Tennessee and deliberate spoilage to stored milk in Minnesota were among developments Wednesday as the week-long National Farmers Organization campaign to boost milk prices heightened in intensity.

More demonstrations, boycotts, and strikes are expected, said a Midwest congressman. He said the farmer "wants to be part of the affluent society."

PRICES DROPPING

With farm prices skidding for six consecutive months, farmers charge they are being shortchanged in a booming U.S. economy.

Conscious of declining power at the polls, some farmers argue the government simply is using its support tools to push down prices and court the favor of urban consumers.

At a recent conference in Washington, one after another rose to complain about prices for wheat, feed grains, milk and other dairy products, beef cattle, rice.

Democrats and Republicans agree the situation foreshadows trouble for the administration, a battle in Congress and a key conflict in the 1968 presidential campaign.

Some contend the farm problem is a temporary matter of over-production. Others see a crisis with the only solution higher prices in the market place—sure to bring down the wrath of the housewife.

GAP WIDENS

Statistics from the agriculture department show:

—Although net farm income last year was the second highest on record, the average U.S. farmer's income was one-third less than the non-farmer's.

Farm prices now are 6.6 per cent below a year ago, 7.4 per cent below last summer's peak and reflect only 74 per cent of the parity price goals of federal farm programs compared with 82 per cent a year ago.

—Farm costs soared to a record last year, taking almost three-quarters of farmers' gross receipts. They are expected to climb about the same amount - eight per cent —again this year.

The department reports increases in cost of farm machinery, about five per cent higher than a year ago; interest rates, 12 per cent; taxes, seven per cent; farm wage rates, eight per cent.

Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman says:

"It is unhealthy to allow such an unfair, uneconomical condition to continue. If we fail to achieve the parity of income that the farmer is entitled to earn, we will lose our best farmers, and this nation and a hungry world will suffer."

MISSING from school in Salem, Oregon, for 10 days, Elton Eugene Hurtt, 11, was found by police in Eureka, Calif., in company of two men who allegedly kidnapped him. The older man, Jesse James Mitchell, 64, collapsed and died in jail. His son, Robert, 34, is being held for Oregon authorities. Boy was unharmed. (AP Wirephoto.)

ONE HIKE A YEAR IS THE LIMIT

Labor Keeps Thumb on U.K. Wage Increases

LONDON (AP)—The Labor government announced Wednesday a policy of limiting wage increases to one a year while striving to bring down prices in an effort to speed Britain's economic recovery.

The announcement brought immediate charges from the trade union movement that the policy is "unfair and impracticable."

The new policy will go into effect July 1 after a year of severe restraint on both wages and prices instituted last July as a crisis measure to head off a run on the pound sterling.

Introducing the new policy set forth in a government policy statement Economic Minister Michael Stewart told a press conference the year of restraint had helped toward righting Britain's trade balance which has been in the red since 1962.

MODERATION NEEDED

"Without being alarmist, I think the standstill and the period of severe restraint has by no means solved our difficulties," he said. "There will still be need for moderotion in prices and incomes."

The government wants power to oblige unions and corporations to notify the national prices and incomes board of any proposed wage or price increas. These may not be made effective until a go-ahead is given by the board.

On wage increases, the statement said that 12 months must be the minimum period for any successive wage increases for workers in any one category and if the authorized increase is large that increase should be phased over an unstated period. The document did not define what would be considered a large increase.

The government said the criterion for increases of wages, prices, dividends, rents and all other forms of money incomes must be improvements in the national economy and greater efficiency in industry. The aim of all corporations must be to find means of bringing their prices down.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

A publisher's representative will be in Victoria in May. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication by Carlton Press, Inc., well-known New York publishing firm. All subjects will be considered including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, drama, religion, philosophy, etc.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. You will promptly receive a confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to the representative (address below) for a free reading and evaluation. He will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Large trade in barley again featured action on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today following Wednesday's large volume of trading.

There was evidence exporters and shippers were buying again and there were reports that Britain purchased two cargoes of Canadian barley, bringing sales this week to an estimated 3,000,000 bushels. Oats trade was basically domestic and prices, as in barley, were steady.

Oilseeds were irregular, flax turned easier and rapeseed prices were lower.

Vancouver Stock Exchange—Mar. 22

MARKET SUMMARIES

Adera Heaviest Trader

Heavy trading of Adera shares marked the morning session on the Vancouver stock exchange today. The issue gained two cents to 81 on a volume of 235,100 shares.

Silver Arrow was another active issue and gained .04 to .39 on 128,000 shares.

Bethlehem was .25 cents better at 6.50 on good financial results and Atlas was up .15 at 2.30.

Losses went to New Imperial, down .25 at 3.40, and Bata which lost .01 to 2.80 on 103,000 shares.

AT TORONTO western oils continued to surge in light trading today.

Hudson's Bay climbed 2 to 29⅛, Canadian Superior 1⅞ to 33½, Scurry-Rainbow ⅜ to 25½, Dome ½ to a high of 55⅛ and Provo 65 cents to 5.85.

There have been reports that Canada may become an increasingly important supplier of oil to the United States because U.S. reserves are not keeping pace with demand.

Chrysler moved up 1½ to 45½, General Motors 1 to 85 and Imperial Oil and Asbestos Corp. ⅜ each to 56½ and 25¼.

AT NEW YORK the market widened its gains in active trading.

The market rose from the start of news of additional reductions in the prime interest rate charged by major U.S. banks to their biggest and best customers.

Most major groups, including steels, motors, aerospace issues, utilities, non-ferrous metals, chemicals, rails and oils advanced.

AT MONTREAL prices rallied slightly today.

Gains were fractional, however, and trading was moderate.

Asbestos rose ⅝ to 25¼, Canada Iron ⅜ to 20⅞, Royal Bank ⅜ to 80⅞ and Bathurst ½ to 31¾.

Among the losers, CIL dropped ⅜ to 19¼, Canadienne Nationale ½ to 71 and Quebec Natural Gas ¼ to 12.

AT LONDON equities on today's market at first extended Wednesday's late gains which followed the government's white-paper announcement that the dividend freeze will end in July.

Many early gains were reduced later, however, and although most sections showed a list of useful improvements business ahead of the holiday weekend was on a small scale.

Dollar stocks generally were firm. Noranda was firm. But other Canadian issues were little changed. Canadian banks, however, were better.

22 Safety Standards In Volvo

ROCKLEIGH, N.J. (UPI)—Volvo of Sweden introduced today a new sedan model that incorporates nearly all the new U.S. federal safety standards which become mandatory with 1968 models. The major U.S. auto-makers insist they cannot adopt the same standards by the deadline.

The four-door sedan, called the 144s, meets 17 of the 20 standards created by the National Traffic Agency and five other safety features not required by the regulations.

The five extra features, according to Volvo, Inc., president Stig Jansson, are energy absorbing front and rear body sections, rear brake pressure relief valves, rear window defrosters, safety wheel rims and an antiwhiplash device on the front seat.

Jansson said all the safety features were engineered into the 144s, Volvo's first new sedan in a decade, more than a year before the start of the safety controversy that led to the new government standards.

Business Failures Take Drop

OTTAWA (CP) — There were 678 business failures recorded under the bankruptcy and winding-up acts during the fourth quarter of 1966, a 13-per-cent decline from the same period in 1965, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

The total of defaulted liabilities, however, rose 24.4 per cent to $72,408,000.

The bureau said that for the whole year 1966, there were 8.8-per-cent fewer bankruptcies than in 1965, while total liabilities in default fell to $247,303,000 from $393,650,000.

WCB Assessments Will Be Increased

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some B.C. industries are faced with 40 to 80 per cent jumps in their accident assessments this year compared with 1965, the Workmen's Compensation Board says.

The reason is increased benefit rates introduced in late 1965 and a near-record number of accidents in 1966, said the board's annual report.

The increased benefits, under which pensions and minimum compensation for total disability are tied to the cost of living, are estimated to require an additional $47,000,000 by the board, the report said.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Double-Barrel Warning Given

By AB KENT
Business Editor

The president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association Wednesday reached back more than a year to attack a threat to management in retrospect.

H. W. Joly, of Montreal, was adressing the London and district branch of the CMA and dealt at length with keeping government intervention at a minumum.

KENT

He protested a 16-months-old recommendation of Mr. Justice Freedman relative to the CNR that would provide for legislation to make certain changes in working conditions negotiable with labor.

To do so would deprive management of part of its freedom to manage, Mr. Joly said.

But he agreed emphatically that where there are impending technological changes or innovations that would materially affect the working conditions of employees, management has a serious social responsibility to warn of such changes, to retrain or relocate displaced employees.

He pointed out that in some areas management has taken the step of setting up joint committees with labor to steer a mutually agreeable path voluntarily.

This seems a logical course to follow and wherever applicable there should be liaison with the appropriate departments of government rather than outright legislation.

Mr. Joly voices a warning to labor that although it would seem to benefit on the surface by the Freedman recommendation, it should be wary of such gifts.

They could result in labor paying a high price later on, and in view of past labor wishes of keeping government at arm's length, he hoped "it will not allow itself to be painted into a corner at this particular point."

In any event, Mr. Joly deplored the suggestion that a free country such as Canada would deliberately hamstring the managerial function.

"It is hard to believe that we in Canada would be so feeble-minded as to be the first to contemplate such a course," he said.

Retired RCAF officer Alex M. Jardine, 3478 Salsbury Way, has been appointed editor of a new air industry magazine, Air-Cushion Vehicles Review, which will be monthly supplement to Canadian Wings.

Vancouver-born, Victoria-educated, Mr. Jardine served with the RAF and RCAF during the Second World War, retiring as commanding officer, RCAF Station, Penhold.

Jardine

He served overseas, was a prisoner of war and since retirement has kept up his professional interest in flying through the Royal Aeronautical Society, Canadian Aeronautics and Space Institute, the RCAF Association and the Air League.

A. J. LeGuilloux, publishing editor of Canadian Wings in Calgary, said Mr. Jardine's appointment is in recognition of the role to be played in Canadian transportation by ACV craft in the near future.

Possibility of re-opening 69-year-old copper claims on central Vancouver Island is voiced by Admiral Mines Ltd., which has interest in the Indian Chief and Prince group 30 miles north of Tofino in Sidney Inlet area.

The former high-grade property was discovered in 1898 and various companies played a part in its development before Tidewater Copper Co. acquired the claims and milled about 81,000 tons of better-than-2-per-cent copper up to 1923.

Deemed unprofitable to mine further at the going rates, the mine was idle 14 years, then was worked by Japanese interests until the Second World War interfered.

Meanwhile, it had produced 7,000 tons of 2.15 per cent copper.

In 1955 Dr. R. H. Seraphim examined the property and recommended diamond drilling to establish reserves. He estimated copper values of between 1.25 and 1.75 per cent, with small gold and silver content.

Admiral bought the property with cash and 100,000 escrow shares, agreeing to pay a total $110,500 by May, 1970.

Car Pact Results Praised

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. rang up a reduced trade surplus of $486,000,000 in 1966 under the auto production agreement with Canada but the initial results are encouraging, a report to Congress said Wednesday.

- Two-way trade under the agreement totalled $2,086,000,000 last year against $730,000,000 in 1964 before the three-year pact was implemented.
- The gap is narrowing between Canada's higher prices and U.S. model costs.
- Sparked by "phenomenal" North American vehicle demand up to the 1967 models—which appear in the autumn of 1966 — employment has risen in each country.
- Canadian manpower is rising fastest in the production side rather than assembly of cars, the traditional Canadian activity using mainly U.S. parts.

Two years is too short a time to make accurate judgments about the pact signed by Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson in January, 1965, the report says, but the "initial results are encouraging."

BENEFICIAL

"All indications to date are that the agreement is beneficial to both countries," it says.

The report covers the period Jan. 18, 1965, to last Dec. 31 and says the U.S. auto trade surplus last year with Canada of $486,000,000 compares with $692,000,000 a year earlier and $578,000,000 in 1964.

Two-way trade almost doubled at $2,086,000,000 — the U.S. selling Canada $1,286,100,000 and Canada selling the U.S. $800,100,000, says the report.

Pine Point Shows Jump in Profits

TRAIL (CP) — Pine Point Mines Ltd., B.C., had net earnings for 1966 of $34,194,000 compared with $22,132,000 in 1965.

Dividends of $5.50 per share were paid amounting to $24,840,000.

Net capital expenditures for the year amounted to $27,800,000 including $26,300,000 which was the valuation of 526,400 treasury shares of the company issued to Pyramid Mining Co., Ltd., to acquire certain properties in the Northwest Territories.

Sales amounted to $42,636,000 compared with $27,482,000 in 1965.

Increased Sales Boost Earnings

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Scott Paper Company Ltd. of New Westminster reported net earnings of $1,358,455, or $1.70 per share in its annual report, issued Wednesday.

These figures are up from the previous year, when net income totalled $990,014, or $1.24 per share.

Guaranteed Salary Aim of Pulp Union

OTTAWA (CP) — A guaranteed salary was put forth Wednesday as a goal to be sought in collective bargaining next year in more than 100 pulp, sulphite and paper mills across Canada.

About 40,000 members of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers are paid by the hour.

The union is holding its first Canadian conference here to set coast-to-coast objectives for contract negotiations coming up next year.

L. H. Lorrain of Montreal, the union's Canadian director, said hourly pay has become "economically unsound and morally indefensible."

Automation "is a powerful force" for introduction of guaranteed weekly and annual salaries. Highly-automated industries had to retain specialized employees and are tending more and more to put them on salary.

"The growing acceptance of no lay-off guarantees and of job rate and income maintenance leads logically and inevitably to a guaranteed salary system," he said.

He told the 221 delegates that parity with U.S. mills has been achieved and isn't an issue.

PULL AHEAD

There are about 140,000 members of the same union in the U.S. Mr. Lorrain said those in Maine and northern New York State lag behind northern New Brunswick in wages.

British Columbia workers had pulled ahead of those in the Pacific Northwest states last July.

Henry A. Bell of Fort William, Ont., international vice-president for the Great Lakes region, said wages in the industry have risen 140 per cent since 1949. Workers have also gained on fringe and pension benefits.

Basic wage rate in 1949 was $1 an hour and the cost of living index 100. The index now is 146.1 and the basic wage $2.40 an hour.

He said product price and cost of living increases must be watched closely as the time for negotiation approaches.

Mr. Bell said that with larger companies taking over smaller ones, "we may, on this continent, in the not too distant future, be dealing with about 20 huge corporations that control the whole of our industry."

"This suggests that we must become more alert to happenings around us every succeeding year."

Dairymen Win Hike; Butter Price Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Dairy farmers will get a long-sought price increase for manufacturing milk with the help of a two-cent increase in the retail butter price.

A new federal dairy policy announced Wednesday will give the farmer an at-factory return of $4.75-a-hundredweight beginning April 1, the start of the new dairy year.

It amounts to a 65-cent raise from the national average price of $4.10, although Quebec and Ontario farmers have had additional provincial subsidies to improve on that.

By prior agreement, these provincial subsidies will die with the new federal increase. In Ontario the subsidy was 25 cents a hundredweight. In Quebec it was 17½ cents in summer and 33 cents in winter.

To help pay for the milk price increase, the Canadian dairy commission has ordered an increase in its buying price for butter to 63 from 61 cents a pound for the new dairy year.

The increase will permit processors to pay farmers more for the milk brought in to make butter, cheese, skim milk powder and other products. The government's buying price of spray processed skim milk powder will go up to 20 from 18 cents a pound in a companion move. Cheese support will be announced later.

Meanwhile, the dairy commission will raise its direct subsidy to farmers to $1.21 a hundredweight from 85 cents to help achieve the $4.75 target. Cost to the treasury will rise to $120,000,000 from $90,000,000 annually.

The subsidy will be based on a 3.5 butterfat content for Canada's 65,000 milk shippers. The 95,000 cream shippers will get an equivalent subsidy.

The raise to $4.75 fell short of widespread demands by farm organizations for $5 with the government paying export costs. Like the old policy, the new one permits a government deduction for export costs from the farmer's return. It will probably be around 10 cents a hundredweight.

The farmers' campaign for $5 manufacturing milk reached a peak only the day before the announcement when nearly 1,000 Quebec producers descended on Ottawa with the demand.

One of their spokesmen threatened large-scale demonstrations unless the $5 figure were met.

Last weekend, directors of the Ontario Farmers' Union announced that they were prepared to ask farmers to withhold milk from the market if the $5 demands were not met.

On the other side, executive-director W. K. St. John of the National Dairy Council said his group is afraid the new policy will hurt consumption of dairy products.

Huge Excess Profits On Jet Overhauls

LONDON (AP) — Parliament was shaken Wednesday by an official disclosure that Bristol Siddley, Britain's second biggest aero engine company, made an excess profit of £3,960,000 ($11,880,000) on overhauling jet engines for the Royal Air Force between 1959 and 1963.

The company itself discovered a history of "repeated overquoting" and now has repaid all the excess profit to the government, the House of Commons was told.

Members whistled in surprise when John Stonehouse, minister of state for aviation, said the repayment took into account that, "by mistake, double payment was made for certain work."

Stonehouse conceded that the aviation ministry failed to detect the excessive charges.

Bristol Siddeley, taken over by Rolls-Royce last year, made an over-all profit of more than £5,000,000 ($15,000,000) on the RAF contracts — more than 30 per cent.

By repaying the excess it reduced its profit to about the nine-per-cent level which government departments consider justifiable in most cases.

AMC Will Cut Production

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. has announced it will shut down its auto assembly lines, except for its Rambler American, for five working days beginning March 27.

AMC President William V. Lundburg said demand for the low-priced American lines, whose price tags were chopped between $154 and $234 Feb. 21, has continued strong.

AMC built 5,898 cars last week of which 1,970 were Americans, the firm said.

'FLABBERGASTED'

Alberta NDPer Questions Gov't Action

EDMONTON (CP)—A "flabbergasted" opposition member sat quietly in his seat in the Alberta legislature Tuesday and listened while Premier E. C. Manning said there is no evidence of wrongdoing in documents tabled last month.

Garth Turcott (NDP — Pincher Creek-Crowsnest), who tabled the documents Feb. 15, said they indicated improper conduct by two government members.

He questioned the propriety of some land dealings by A. J. Hooke, municipal affairs minister, and said E. W. Hinman, former provincial treasurer, may have used the influence of his cabinet position to further his own ends.

Mr. Manning said that after members have had a chance to study statements and documents tabled Tuesday by Mr. Hooke and Mr. Hinman, "an appropriate motion can be brought before the house to permit a final disposition of this matter."

Mr. Turcott said outside the house he was "flabbergasted" at the approach taken by the government. He said he had expected the government to bring in a recommendation "instead of throwing the whole thing back in the assembly's lap."

SOUGHT PROBE

When he tabled his documents, Mr. Turcott asked for an investigation into three matters:

The question of the propriety of Mr. Hooke dealing with the city of Edmonton in certain land transactions;

—What he termed contradictions between some of the documents;

—The question of whether the minister received a profit after contracting with the city that he would not arrange for a profit.

Reading from a prepared statement, Mr. Manning said:

"While municipal legislation prohibits aldermen entering into land transactions with their own councils, it does not prohibit them transacting business with the provincial government.

"In like manner, our Legislative Assembly Act prohibits members of the provincial government having transactions with the government of which they are members but does not with the government of which they are members but does not prohibit them, as individuals, engaging in normal business transactions with other levels of government."

Mr. Manning said that whether any question of propriety is involved becomes a matter of individual opinion rather than fact" and charged that Mr. Turcott had tabled only such material as served to cast reflections on a minister and former minister.

HAS OTHER DOCUMENTS

He said all the documents had been authenticated and that he had 'obtained such additional documents as are necessary to give a true and complete outline of what actually transpired in the incidents on which (Mr. (Turcott) based his insinuations."

Among the documents tabled by Mr. Turcott was a statement of claim relative to a court action against Mr. Hinman by a former official of Farmers' and Merchants' Trust Company.

Trade Fair Gets New Chieftain

W. M. Hamilton, who was the federal postmaster general from 1957 to 1963, has been appointed president of the 1967 B.C. International Trade Fair.

B.C. Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Loffmark announced the appointment Wednesday night as a result of the resignation of W. J. Burnett as president to take up a post with the external aid office in Ottawa.

Mr. Hamilton now lives in Vancouver and is vice-chairman of the B.C. division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

He takes over the new trade fair post only weeks before its May 19 opening in Vancouver's Pacific National Exhibition grounds.

Mt. Douglas Trip

The younger section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday at the Douglas-Hillside parking lot for a field trip to Mt. Douglas, off Cedar Hill Road. Conducted tours around the trails at Francis Park will be held during the holidays.

NEW LEGISLATION

'Nationalization' Claims Citibank

NEW YORK (CP) — The First National City Bank of New York complained Wednesday that the way in which it is being forced to give up its Canadian subsidiary, the Mercantile Bank of Canada, "is tantmount to nationalization, with no provision for prompt, adequate or effective compensation."

A bank spokesman issued the statement after passage of a revised Bank Act Wednesday by the Canadian House of Commons.

Under the new legislation, the First National City Bank, commonly known as Citibank, has until Dec. 31, 1972, in which to reduce its interest in the Mercantile Bank to 25 per cent.

The bill passed by the Commons includes an amendment moved by Milton Klein (L—Montreal Cartier) that empowers the cabinet to review the situation before the five-year period expires and impose restrictions on Mercantile's growth.

BOUGHT FROM DUTCH

The Mercantile Bank, which Citibank bought recently from Dutch interests, is the only foreign-owned chartered bank in Canada. The new legislation prohibits purchase of new shares in Canadian banks by non-residents.

The Citibank statement said:

"We are disappointed that the Canadian law makers have apparently framed legislation looking towards the expropriation of a lawful and legitimate investment made by United States investors in the shares of the Mercantile Bank of Canada, which were acquired from other foreign holders at whose instance Canada granted the bank's charter.

"The method chosen to transfer this U.S. investment to Canadian hands through a forced sale is tantamount to nationalization with no provision for prompt, adequate or effective compensation — a right which has long been recognized in international law."

In Ottawa, Finance Minster Sharp rejected the nationalization charge.

"Mercantile Bank does not have to sell any shares to Canadians if it does not want to expand," he said in a statement.

"It can remain a small bank if it chooses to retain all its shares. No nationalization whatever is involved.

"I do hope that the Mercantile Bank will follow its stated intention of selling shares to Canadians. It will receive sympathetic consideration when it spplies for an extension of time under the new Bank Act in order to prepare itself to sell shares."

Air Force Group Names Officers

He replaces Clarence House.

Other officers elected were: Peter Henderson, first vice-president; Clyde Emms, second vice-president; Cy Axhorn, treasurer; Ora Collard, secretary, and committee chairmen George Lieutard, Hal Loepky, Fred Moulson, Zeta Christie, Ernie Wilson, Al Danes, Rex Collard, Bill Stevenson and Peter Hunt.

SAFETY DAY PROCLAIMED

Last year 122 B.C. children under 10 years of age died and the cabinet Wednesday set Sunday, May 7, as Child Safety Day to publicize the need for more safety precautions in the homes and elsewhere.

Also set by cabinet order was Retarded Children's Week May 14 through 20.

PIONEERS HONORED

Medallion Rites at Hand

Nearly 100,000 years of Canadian history will be recognized by civic and centennial officials when Canadian pioneers receive medallions.

Eleven hundred Greater Victoria pioneers who have spent more than 75 years each in Canada applied for the silver-finish medallions struck for centennial year.

The mayor, reeves, president of the Greater Victoria Centennial Society Arthur Mebs, Lawrie, Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial committee, and project chairman Jim Nesbitt will make the awards.

The reception for Victoria old-timers will be held on Tuesday at the Empress Hotel; Esquimalt pioneers, Wednesday at the Olde England Inn; Oak Bay, Thursday at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, Saanich and Central Saanich, Friday at the Red Lion Inn. All receptions at 2:45 p.m.

That Sweet Smell Of Success Missing

A professional social worker told the legislature Wednesday that he really, desperately, wants to belong and be accepted into his peer group but just can't seem to make it.

Dave Barrett (NDP—Coquitlam), the social worker, asked during debate on Works Minister Chant's departmental estimates "how are the priorities established as to who gets invitations to sit on the platforms at public opening ceremonies?"

Mr. Barrett said he had recently been paying more attention to advertisements saying "Even your best friends won't tell you."

"What kind of political odor have I got that I can't seem to get up on the public platform at any public openings?"

At one ceremony, Mr. Barrett said, he was left standing in a mud puddle outside "but even the Social Credit federal candidate got up there."

"I've never once been asked to share the platform," Mr. Barrett said.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault interjected "You've got a rejection psychosis."

Works Minister Chant said it was not purposeful discrimination as such. "It's simply that only the best people are invited."

Lowest Bid For Pool $231,200

It was $231,200 compared with $234,500 by H. E. Fowler and Sons Ltd.

Other bids were: M. P. Payne Co., $236,700; E. J. Hunter and sons, $242,144; G. H. Wheaton Ltd., $243,158.

The unorganized districts of Langford, Colwood, Metchosin, Glen Lake and Happy Valley voted for the project on Nov. 19.

J. S. Williams, secretary of the pool committee said construction may get under way next month.

CAR BUZZER MAY STOP THIEVERY

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. will take two steps against car theft in making its 1968 model automobiles, President James M. Roche said today.

One will be installation of a buzzer device that warns a driver when he leaves his car if he has left the key in the ignition switch. The buzzer is activated when he opens the car door.

The second is the locating of the car identification number on the instrument panel, visible from the outside, as well as on the engine and transmission. Roche said this will aid in recovery of a stolen car and also serve as a deterrent to theft.

Youth Fires On Students

CHICAGO (UPI)—An 18-year-old youth armed with a carbine, a gas mask and 1,000 rounds of ammunition shouted "Here I am" from the balcony of a high school auditorium Wednesday and then fired six rifle shots into the crowd of students below.

No one was injured.

Police, answering a "heavy equipment call," arrived with pistols, shotguns and tear gas. They seized the youth on a stairway leading to the first floor.

Grand Jury Indicts Shaw

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A grand jury has indicted Clay L. Shaw on a charge of "wilfully and unlawfully conspiring" to murder President John F. Kennedy.

Shaw, 54, headed for a hideaway today on the Mississippi Gulf coast with District Attorney Jim Garrison's approval.

Shaw, who retired in October, 1965, as managing director of the International Trade Mart here, has been free on $10,000 bond since his arrest March 1.

The district attorney had said earlier he would bypass the grand jury and file a bill of information before bringing Shaw to trial.

Garrison risked a "no true bill" by taking the case before the grand jury. He had already won a ruling from a three-judge state court panel that sufficient evidence was presented at a preliminary hearing to warrant holding Shaw for trial.

However, he still could have filed a bill of information in the case if the grand jury refused to indict Shaw.

HAS CHOICE

By filing a bill of information, the district attorney would have had to divulge specific details of the case. In Louisiana, which patterns its laws on the Napoleonic Code of France, a prosecutor has a choice of bringing a man to trial either by a grand jury indictment or a bill of information.

Shaw was charged by the grand jury's true bill with "wilfully and unlawfully conspiring with David W. Ferrie, Lee Harvey Oswald and unnamed others to murder John F. Kennedy."

Perry Raymond Russo, 25, star witness for Garrison in last week's emotional court hearing, made a surprise appearance before the grand jury before the announcement of the indictment.

EVEN IN SCOWL DEPT., CASS IS CLASSIEST

Uncle Sam, Oscar Next 'Foe' for King Cassius

Clay Kind to Zora Folley —Except for Those Rights

NEW YORK)UPI)—It's either Uncle Sam in April or Oscar Bonavena in May for a triumphant and surprisingly gracious Cassius Clay.

"I want to fight again, but I just have to wait," Clay admitted in the wake of his completely expected but still impressive seventh-round knockout of aging challenger Zora Folley Wednesday night in the last heavyweight title bout that ever will be held in famed Madison Square Garden.

The thing Clay is "waiting" on is a ruling by the U.S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, which will decide whether he has to show up for induction into the army April 11. If the court says he must go, then Cassius must decide whether to obey — or go to jail.

If the court rules in his favor, the way will be clear for Clay to make his next title defence against Bonavena, a clumsy but hard-hitting Argentinian, in Tokyo May 27. And perhaps for another defence eight weeks after that, say sometime in July, against Thad Spencer of San Francisco.

But all those dates — and the money that goes with them — are up in the air for Clay until the army ruling is made.

While he's waiting, Clay planned to fly to Chicago today to visit Elijah Muhammed, leader of the Black Muslim sect who Clay says knows the future and can tell him what to do. Clay's appeal to stay out of the army is based on his claim that he's a Black Muslim minister, plus an argument that Negroes aren't properly represented on draft boards.

Hayden Covington, Clay's lawyer, believes he has still another legal move up his sleeve to keep Clay out of khaki. He'll go to Louisville, Ky., where the champion's draft board is located, on Monday to take some kind of action.

'HE HURT ME'

Clay, when he wasn't tussling with questions about his future, was being exceptionally kind to Folley in commenting on his triumph Wednesday night.

Things went almost exactly as expected in the scheduled 15-rounder, and Clay wan't in any mood to rub it in. He spent a couple of rounds taking Folley's measure, dumped him on his ear with a thundering left-right combination in the fourth round, and finally sent him sprawling on his face with a whiplash right for the knockout at 1:48 of the seventh round.

Clay, the man who once sneered he would "punish" Floyd Patterson — and did — and later taunted Ernie Terrell throughout their bout by demanding he call him by his Muslim name "Muhammed Ali," went to unusual lengths to be kind to the 34-year-old Folley.

"He hurt me," said Clay, "especially with those right hands."

Clay never appeared hurt to ringsiders, and the "admission" seemed a rare gesture for him to make.

NO TAUNTING

Folley also related another out-of-character Clay remark after the fight — "he told me I was a good fighter and the only reason he beat me was he was younger." Folley also disclosed that this time there was no taunting by Clay inside the ring.

"He never spoke to me," Folley said. "I said something to him, though. A couple of my left jabs were low and I apologized."

Folley actually won the first two rounds on the cards of all three ring officials. There wasn't much action in these sessions, and Clay said his handlers berated him for "toying around."

"I wasn't playing around," Cassius said. "I tried to move fast, but he was slick, he was tricky, he was fast, and he was hard to hit. He wouldn't move in on me and against a great, skillful, scientific boxer you have to slow down."

Clay declared Folley "gave me a better fight than (Sonny) Liston, or Patterson, or Terrell."

For Folley there could only be regret that his shot at the title came too late in his career. At 34 — army records say 36 is the correct figure — he didn't have the punching speed to nail Clay or the power to stun him.

SON CRIED

"He was a better fighter," declared Folley, and then added in a wistful tone, "and younger."

For journeyman fighter Folley the future is clear — more fighting. This payday was worth about $55,000. For Folley, father of eight (his 13-year-old son cried at ringside), more paydays must be the target.

For Clay an eventual rival could be his own sparring partner, Jimmy Ellis, who knocked out No. 7 contender Johnny Persol in the first round of their semi-final bout Wednesday night. Clay calls him "the onliest one who can give me a good fight."

But first comes Bonavena.

Or Uncle Sam.

FRIENDLY TO HEAVIES

Famed 'Garden' Closes Doors

By JACK WILKINSON

NEW YORK (UPI)—Madison Square Garden was always a friendly place for a heavyweight champion. None ever lost in the friendly confines of the famed—and now doomed—sports palace.

Cassius Clay kept that string intact Wednesday night when he knocked out Zora Folley to retain the heavyweight title. In all probability, it was the last time boxing's richest prize would go on the line in the arena that called itself the "Capitol of Boxing."

The present Garden will be demolished next year. A new Garden will open a few blocks away, over Pennsylvania Station.

The passing of the Garden will bring a wave of nostalgia to fight fans, for some of the sport's greatest moments were etched into history there. One of the men who helped make the Garden such a legend was introduced before the Clay-Folley fight. He now is a pudgy, balding middle-aged man—but he got the greatest ovation of them all. For he's still Joe Louis.

* * *

Louis, the fabulous "Brown Bomber" of the '30s and '40s, successfully defended his heavyweight title eight times in the Garden. The last one, and also the most gruelling, was Louis' 15-round decision over the underrated Jersey Joe Walcott on Dec. 5, 1947.

Before Clay took the measure of game but outgunned Folley, the most recent heavyweight title fight in the Garden was in 1951, when Ezzard Charles knocked out Lee Oma in the 10th round.

So, there have been just 10 heavyweight championship fights in the Eighth Avenue fight factory. But their drawing power was so great that across the nation Madison Square Garden is synonymous with championship fights. Of course, there were many outstanding fights in the lighter weights, such as the featherweight title bouts between Willie Pep and Sandy Saddler, who also were introduced to the crowd Wednesday night, all going to make Madison Square Garden truly the "house that boxing built."

* * *

It also was fitting that, in the final heavyweight title fight in the Garden, there would be a record gate. Despite a daylong snowstorm that turned city streets into hazardous quagmires, 13,780 fans paid a total of $244,471. That erased the record of $239,959, set in 1965 in a title doubleheader matching light-heavyweights Jose Torres and Willie Pastrano and welterweights Emile Griffith and Jose Stable.

When the Garden shutters up and moves south, a new era will end and another will begin. As long as there are sports events, as long as there is boxing, there always will be a Madison Square Garden.

Computer Gets Green Light For Open

MONTREAL (CP)—The first computer-type golf scoring system, which will provide information more quickly than ever before to spectators and news media alike, will be in operation for the $200,000 Canadian open, scheduled for Montreal's municipal golf club June 20-July 2.

Built and operated by IBM, the system features a hole-by-hole leader board and a computer-generated score and message board. The installation will be housed in a 40-foot mobile van stationed near the 18th green.

Announcement of the swing to the computer age in golfing was made by the Royal Canadian Golf Association at a press conference Wednesday.

Tie With Oakland Keeps Leafs' Hopes Flickering

MILAN MARCETTA
. . . fires No. 37

They didn't fan up any flames at Oakland Wednesday night but they kept their hopes alive by coming from behind for a 2-2 tie with the Seals, the club they must catch to grab a playoff spot.

Leafs remained four points behind the Seals as Milan Marcetta deflected a third-period shot by Andy Hebenton into the net to earn the deadlock.

With the single point, the Victorians moved one point ahead of Los Angeles but their chances of catching Oakland became a little slimmer as they used up another of their sparse stock of remaining games.

BARLOW'S BOUNCER IN

With their hard-earned tie, the Leafs made it seven successive games in which the Seals have failed to win on home ice. Victoria's four-game California road trip continues tonight against the Gulls at San Diego and concludes with games at San Diego Saturday and at Oakland Sunday.

Bob Barlow got his 19th goal for Victoria on a bouncing, 60-foot slap shot to give the Leafs an early lead but John Gravel knotted the score one minute later on another long slap shot.

EDGE IN OVERTIME

Play was about even in a fast-moving second period but Pete Panagabko got the Seals into a 2-1 lead by slapping a shot past goalie Al Smith with just seven seconds remaining in the session.

Marcetta's goal, his 37th of the season, came midway in the third period.

Victoria had a slight edge in the 10-minute overtime period, forcing Jack McCartan to block five shots while Smith was stopping four, but they could not get the goal they needed.

Oakland has managed only one victory in 11 games against Victoria this season, losing seven and tieing three.

At Portland, Buckaroo ace Art Jones and Jim Paterson traded goals in the second period. Totems wrapped it up in the third on tallies by Howie Hughes and Chuck Holmes.

URPO SUPERBO

Finns Upset Czechs 3-1!

VIENNA (CP) — Finland knocked over top contender Czechoslovakia 3-1 today in the biggest upset of the world hoackey tournament, leaving Canada and Russia clear favorites for the title.

Canada had trimmed Finland 5-1 and Russia defeated Finland 8-2.

The Finns struck early against the Czechs, grabbing a 3-0 lead in the first period and then protecting it with a brilliant defence led by goalie Urpo Yloenen, who made 52 saves.

The loss was a big blow to the Czech chances at the title but not necessarily a fatal one. The Czechs still must play Canada, Sweden, and Russia in that order. They would have to win all three to stay in contention.

TEAMS UNDEFEATED

The Canadians and Russians are the only undefeated teams left in the eight-country round-robin championship section, each with three wins and they are expected to wind up the day still unbeaten.

Once-beaten Sweden kept alive its slim title hopes with an easy 8-2 victory over East Germany today.

It was Sweden's third win against a single loss, 4-3 to the U.S. Sweden previously defeated West Germany 3-1 and Finland 5-1. The winless East Germans suffered their fourth loss.

The Canadians, while not looking their best in defeating East Germany 6-3 and the Finns by four goals, looked sharp in their 13-1 victory over West Germany.

The Russians, in addition to beating Finland, have rolled over East Germany 12-0 and the U.S. 7-2. The Czechs defeated the U.S. 8-3, West Germany 6-2 and East Germany 6-0.

Holik, the team's top point-getter with two goals and five assits, missed the game because of illness.

The Czechs outshot the Finns 52 to 21. They buzzed the Finnish net in every period.

The Finns shot into the lead when Petta Kuusisto sent a shot into the Czech goal at 12:51 off goalie Vladmir Nadrchal's stick.

Juhani Wahlsten followed with two brilliant goals. At 15:36 he swept in a 45-foot shot from Matti Reunamaki's pass while Finland's Pekka Marjamaki was serving a minor penalty.

Nadrchal, who had 10 saves in the first period, was a bit slow to move on both of Wahlsten's tallies, and the Czechs replaced him with Jiri Holecek at the start of the second period.

At the end the crowd of 4,000 erupted, with Finnish players and officials swarming onto the ice in a delirious dance of joy for the unexpected win after three defeats.

Mary Helps Legion Take Opening Game

VANCOUVER (CP)—It was a double victory for Vancouver in the first night of the round-robin double-elimination Senior "A" Women's Canadian basketball championship Wednesday night.

Vancouver Mols, shooting for their fourth title, nipped the Hamilton Kittens 47-30 while Vancouver Mount Pleasant Legion ran over Manitoba's St. Vital Grads 81-43.

The tournament is doubling as trials for selection of Canada's team for the Pan-American games in Winnipeg this summer.

Mary Macdonald led Mols to their victory by netting 10 points. Playing-coach Darlene Currie and teammate Shelagh Farrell potted eight points each.

In the other opening-round game, St. Vital grabbed the first five points. Mount Pleasant evened the score and started clicking in the second quarter after poor shooting early in the game.

With a half-time lead of 37-19, Mount Pleasant never looked back as pressure was maintained by long floor-length passes and rotating the bench to wear down the Kittens.

Mary Coutts, picked up from Victoria for the tournament, sparked the Vancouver attack with 12 points. She was backed up by Janie Zingrich with 11.

PLENTY OF VARIETY . . . . . . FOR FANS AND PLAYERS

Easter Sports Treats for All

Whether you'll be watching or playing, you'll have varieey for Easter. . . .

Victoria' sports pot will be boiling during the Easter Weekend, and there seems to be an offering for everybody.

Hockey, soccer, golf, bowling and rugby headline a heavy weekend of events. The roll calls for participation as well as watching.

There may be titles and cheers for some; bruises and tears for others. . . .

Bowling and golf emphasize participation. A whopping field of over 220 golfers is entered in the annual Good Friday tournament at Uplands, and the fourth annual Vancouver Island tenpin "bonspiel" will be headquarters for over 500 bowlers.

Greatest fan interest will be in soccer, rugby and hockey.

Soccer, in particular, will be looking for its largest crowd in years at Macdonald Park on Sunday. That's "could be" day for Victoria O'Keefes. It could be a Pacific Coast League championship for Victoria if O'Keefes can defeat UBC Thunderbirds.

Rugby will have it's day Saturday when Victoria Union teams step out to decide the city first and second division championships. In hockey, the headliners will be teams participating in the annual Invitational minor jamboree, a three-day affair at Memorial Arena, and the Esquimalt League playoffs.

On top of all that, there's also television. . . .

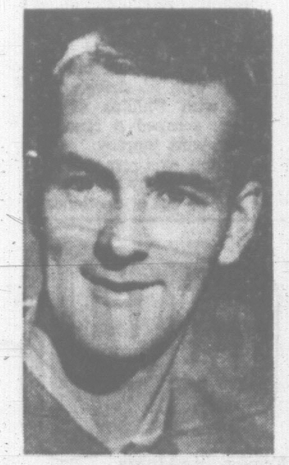
New York Rangers Still Full of Scrap



J. C. TREMBLAY
. . . two goals

By The Canadian Press

New York Rangers would rather fight than switch places with anyone in the National Hockey League standings.

There have been rumblings around the NHL lately that the Rangers were on their way down but they haven't given up.

The Rangers fought to a 3-3 tie with Chicago Black Hawks in Chicago Wednesday night while Montreal Canadiens defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3 in Toronto, giving the Rangers sole possession of second place with 68 points, one more than the Canadiens and Leafs.

Vic Hadfield sparked the Rangers with two goals, including the tying goal at 7:35 of the third period. Reg Fleming scored the other New York goal.

The Hull family took care of Chicago's scoring with Dennis Hull getting two goals and older brother Bobby adding the other, his 52nd of the season, three short of the record he set last year.

GETS TWO FOR HABS

Jean - Claude Tremblay led Montreal with two goals and Ralph Backstrom, Henri Richard and Jean Beliveau scored one each. Ron Ellis scored a pair for the Leafs and Bob Pulford got the other.

Hadfield's tying goal came while Chicago's Pat Stapleton was serving the only penalty of the third period. The play leading to the tying goal was started when Ranger defenceman Harry Howell passed to Rod Gilbert relayed it to Hadfield, who was parked to the left of Chicago goalie Glenn Hall.

Bobby Hull's goal came when he slammed a 25-foot shot past Rangers' goalie Ed Giacomin at 4:48 of the second period.

Stan Mikita, the Hawks flashy centre, was held off the scoresheet in his bid to set a record for most points in a season, He has 92, five short of the record 97 in a season set by Bobby Hull last season. Mikita also needs one assist to break the record of 59 assists in one season, which he set in 1964-65.

After allowing Dennis Hull to beat him with his two goals in the first period, Giacomin settled down and turned in a brilliant performance as the Hawks blasted him with 43 shots. New York had 34 shots at Hall.

ENDS DROUGHT

Beliveau's goal, his first in 21 games, was a hard slapshot from about 50 feet out that caught Toronto goalie Bruce Gamble off guard. Gamble made 30 saves.

Ellis's two goals boosted his season total to 21, making him Toronto's first 20-goal scorer of the season.

Pulford's second - period goal was his 15th of the season and the 200th of his 10-year NHL career. It came when he let go with a blistering slap shot from about 20 feet out that beat Montreal goalie Rogatien Vachon, who made 38 saves.

The game was marred by an outbreak in the first period involving Jim Pappin and Larry Hillman of the Leafs and Terry Harper and John Ferguson of the Canadiens.

Hillman and Ferguson traded punches while Harper was the undisputed winner over Pappin after he knocked the Toronto player down and sat on him.

ALL GET MAJORS

All four players were penalized five minutes each for fighting.

Montreal coach Toe Blake said he was particularly happy with the victory although he didn't feel it was an easy one.

"The main thing is that it put us in the playoffs. That's all I cared about," he said.

The Montreal victory eliminated Detroit Red Wings from the playoffs. The Red Wings, fifth with 54 points, have six games remaining and trail the Canadiens by 13 points.

The Maple Leafs and Rangers go right back into action tonight as Toronto travels to Boston for a game with the last-place Bruins and the Rangers meet the Red Wings in Detroit.

Tokyo Comeback Slays 'George's'

TOKYO (AP) — The St. George's School rugby team of Vancouver suffered its second consecutive setback of its Japan tour Thursday by bowing to a Tokyo high school selection 19-13.

The Canadian team got off to a quick start and scored all its points in the first half but was unable to maintain its lead in face of a strong comeback offensive by the Japanese high school boys.

The visitors scored their first goal in 11 minutes. They piled up 13 points in quick succession within 24 minutes of the first half.

The Canadians led 13-3 at half time.

Wayne, Jamie Step Away From the Top

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's Wayne MacDonnell and Jamie Paulson, victorious over Sweden Wednesday, could gain undisputed possession of first place in their division of the Canadian centennial badminton tournament today by defeating South Africa.

Vancouver's MacDonnell, Canadian singles champion for the last five years, and Calgary's Paulson, 18, Canadian junior champion, galloped past Sweden 5-0 in their only set to tie South Africa for top spot in their division.

The 16 teams in the four-day tournament are divided into four divisions and play the other teams in their group three times in singles and doubles. The leaders in each division meet in the semi-finals Friday.

South Africa's Alan Parsons and William Kerr kept pace with the Canadians by winning their only set, 5-0 over Ireland's John McCloy and Peter Moore.

India and Malaysia took the lead in their divisions Wednesday by winning two sets each. India meets New Zealand while Malaysia plays Scotland today to complete their schedules.

CANADIANS LOSE

The Malaysian team of Oon Chong-Hau and Oon Chong-Jin downed Norway and Canada's second team of Toronto's John Holehouse and Montreal's Yves Pare 5-0.

James Poole and Don Paup of the United States moved on top in another group by winning their only set, 5-0 over Mexico.

Every Event A Final

MONTREAL (CP)—More selective than the Olympics and higher standards than the British Empire Games—a classic.

These are the glowing terms used to describe the first Europe-vs.-the Americas track and field match scheduled for Expo 67's 25,000-seat Autostade Aug. 9-10.

"Here we have the inaugural of the greatest track and field experiment in history and we have to make a success of it," said Col. Jack Davies, chairman of the sports advisory committee to Expo.

The match will be held on two successive evenings and will feature the top 40 men and 24 women from Europe, with an equal number drawn from North, South and Central America opposing them.

WIDE INTEREST

Col. Davies said the event has already evoked wide-spread interest in Europe and distant parts of the United States, but has caused hardly a stir in this host country.

"We've received requests for tickets—blocks of top-priced seats—from as far away as California and from several European countries," Col. Davies said in an interview.

The colonel, who has been connected with Canada's entries to British Empire Games, Pan-American events and the Olympics since 1930, was commandant of the Canadian contingent to the 1966 Commonwealth Games in Jamaica.

EVERY EVENT A FINAL

Tom Lord, president of the Quebec Track and Field Association, is match director for the Expo extravaganza. He stresses the fact the event is of match proportions, rather than the usual meet specifications.

"This will be a match in the true sense of the word," Lord said. "It will feature the two top athletes from Europe against the two best from the Americas in each event.

"Every event will be a final. There will be no preliminaries and no heats."

Saints Pipe Faulkner In

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — New Orleans Saints of the National Football League have named Jack Faulkner, 40, former head coach and general manager of Denver Broncos of the American Football League, as defensive backfield coach.

Faulkner guided the Denver team to its best season in 1962 and was named AFL Coach of the Year.

Dave Cooper Posts Top Time in Trial

Dave Cooper turned in the fastest time of the day as the Victoria Motor Sports Club staged its first speed trial of the season at Bamberton.

Cooper topped his nearest rival by more than three seconds as he recorded a time of 41:04 seconds in a class B TVR.

ITALIANS WIN

NICOSIA (Reuters) — Italy beat Cyprus 2-0 in a group-six game in the European Nations championship soccer tournament Wednesday.

GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS:

YOU WILL NEVER REACH THE GREEN WITH A 6-IRON, IAIN. TAKE A 4-WOOD
WHAT? A WOOD OUT OF A BUNKER?
YES, WHY NOT? THIS FAIRWAY BUNKER'S GOT NO REAL BANK TO IT SO, EVEN IF YOU TOP THE BALL IT WILL RUN OUT ALL RIGHT... AND A TOPPED WOOD WILL NEARLY ALWAYS TRAVEL FURTHER THAN A WELL HIT 6-IRON
YOU MUST HIT THIS SHOT CLEANLY SO ADDRESS THE BALL OPPOSITE YOUR LEFT TOE. YOU WILL THEN STRIKE THE BALL ON THE UPSWING AND NOT GET TOO MUCH SAND BETWEEN IT AND THE CLUB FACE
ALSO REMEMBER TO SHUFFLE YOUR FEET INTO THE SAND SO THAT YOU HAVE A VERY FIRM FOOTING
HIT BALL CLEANLY

FOR ORIOLE FANS

Frankly, It Was a Sight

By The Associated Press

Frankly speaking they were grand sights for Baltimore fans—those two balls soaring over the fence at Sarasota, Fla.

They were the first home runs of the exhibition season for Frank Robinson, and they came on consecutive times at bat Wednesday in the Orioles' 5-4, 10-inning victory over Chicago White Sox.

Robinson, who has been quietly rounding into shape since underdoing knee surgery during the off season, only played four innings.

Chicago tied the game at 4-4, on rookie Bill Voss' two-run single in the eighth but Baltimore won it on two wild pitches by Danny Lazar and Dave Johnson's single.

Two players St. Louis is counting heavily on had a big day in the Cardinal 7-2 victory over New York Mets at St. Petersburg, Fla.

MARIS HAS FOUR HITS

Roger Maris got three singles and a double and scored four times and Orlando Cepeda collected a single, double and two-run homer.

In other games, Cincinnati Reds outslugged Philadelphia Reds 10 - 6, Houston Astros edged Atlanta Braves 4-3, Pittsburgh Pirates nipped Kansas City Athletics 2-1, Boston Red Sox downed New York Yankees 5-2, Washington Senators topped Detroit Tigers 6-4, Los Angeles Dodgers trounced Minnesota Twins 15-2, California Angels defeated Chicago Cubs 5-2 and Cleveland Indians walloped San Francisco Giants 14-5.

Vada Pinson and Lee May paced Cincinnati's 16-hit attack at Tampa, Fla., with home runs. Philadelphia managed only three hits.

Norm Miller's two-out, two-strike homer in the last of the ninth lifted Houston past Atlanta at Cocoa, Fla.

DRIVES IN BOTH

Bill Mazeroski singled home both Pittsburgh runs, the second one in the top of the ninth, in the Pirates' victory over Kansas City.

Los Angeles cut loose for 19 hits in its rout of Minnesota at Vero Beach, Fla. Ron Fairly had a single and a triple for three RBI.

At Palm Springs, Calif., Paul Schall and Jim Fregosi hit bases-empty homers in the first inning off the Cubs' Ferguson Jenkins. Jay Johnstone singled home what proved to be the Angels' winning run in the sixth inning.

Cleveland used 15 hits and seven San Francisco errors to blast the Giants at Phoenix, Ariz. Rocky Colavito drove in three runs, including two with a homer, for the Indians.

Medal for Nancy

Unreported from the recent Canadian Winter Games in Quebec was the news that Nancy Craig of Victoria won a medal in table tennis for a third-place finish in women's singles.

Mrs. Craig was the only Victoria player on the B.C. table tennis squad, which finished third in team standings.

BOWLER OF WEEK

High single game of 303 was springboard to women's five-pin award in Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest for Marg Krahn (above). Marg and Lettie Larsen each rolled 825 triple in 22nd week of competition but tie-breaking rule gives award to bowler with highest single game. Winner hit games of 303, 270 and 252 in Government League at Gibson's Recreations. Lettie scorched Sidney Lanes with 298-229-298 series.

Stanley Cup Dates Get NHL Approval

NEW YORK (CP) — The Stanley Cup hockey playoffs will open Thursday, April 6, with at least three and possibly five games on Saturday afternoons for continent - wide television showing, the National Hockey League announced Wednesday night.

Representatives of the six clubs also gave solid backing to referee-in-chief Scotty Morrison on his assignment of officials; decided that next year's 12-team schedule will open Oct. 11, a week earlier than usual; and heard that league gate receipts were up 5.2 per cent over last year.

SATURDAY GAMES

Clarence Campbell, NHL president, said that if one semi-final series goes a maximum seven games and the final series goes seven, the CBS-TV network will show five Saturday afternoon playoff games under its new contract with the league. All Saturday games will start at 2 p.m. EST.

As usual, the first two games of each series will be played on the home ice of the higher-ranked team and the next two games on the home ice of the lower-ranked team. The series will then alternate between cities until one team in each series wins four games.

Because of a Chicago arena ice - show commitment, the second game of Series A will be played Sunday, April 9. The second game of Series B will be on the CBS TV network Saturday, April 8.

Games will be played each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday-Sunday until the playoffs are concluded. If Series A goes five games, the fifth game will be on U.S. network TV Saturday, April 15.

Football Enthusiasts Move to Classrooms

Football enthusiasts will blow the whistle on the third annual clinic sponsored by the Vancouver Island Football Association at the University of Victoria on Saturday.

The all-day clinic, commencing at 8:30 a.m., will cover all facets of football, including coaching, organization and programming, training and rehabilitation and even protective insurance.

Scheduled to delve into the coaching and playing aspects are Frank Smith, Jack Sim, Kelly Hood, Dan Doyle and Cal Murphy. B.C. Lions' trainer Roy Cavallin will lecture on injuries, and Bill Read, a past president of the referees' association, will cover officiating.

There is no admission or entrance fee and the clinic is open to anyone interested in attending.

Scotland Has Eye on Cup

PERTH, Scotland (UPI) — Scotland and Sweden pulled off stunning victories today and advanced into tonight's finals of the Scotch Cup World Series of curling.

It will be the first all-European final in the eight-year history of the competition.

Sweden edged the favored United States' rink, 7-6, on the final rock by skip Bob Woods, a Canadian writer who made the news himself in a big way today. He repeatedly pulled out of tense situations on the ice and his final rock of the match drew a resounding ovation from a packed house of fans.

Scotland pulled away from Canada early in their match and was never headed, winning 8-5 behind superb play of Chuck Hay, the Perthshire farmer who skipped the hometown rink.

FANS RISE UP

Canada has won the cup seven times and the U.S. once in its eight years. Scotland, the ancient home of curling, never has won the cup and fans here are rising to the occasion.

Canada had beaten Scotland Wednesday and the U.S. rink from Seattle, Wash., had easily stopped Sweden. That ended the round-robin play with those four teams entering today's sudden-death playoffs.

The U.S. rink started slowly against the Swedes, but skip Bruce Roberts pulled the Americans even in the fourth end. Sweden moved back into the lead in the 10th, but Roberts tied it again in the 11th.

PERFECT LAST SHOT

In the final end the U.S. started well with Doug Walker and John Wright making fine shots at Roberts' direction, but despite Roberts' superb last rock, Sweden had the final rock of the match with Woods laying it in perfectly for the victory.

FLEETING GLORY

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Amateur golfer Herb Weston fired a hole-in-one on the 15th hole at Blue Lakes Country Club here Monday. He backed it up with a 10 on the 16th.

ALFIE OFFERED LOOPHOLE

PERTH, Scotland (CP)—An understanding magistrate used a legal loophole Wednesday to let Alfie Phillips Jr. of Toronto escape the consequences of his high spirits.

Phillips, Canadian skip in the world curling championships, was charged with leaving the curling club in a bus with no driver. The bus, with Phillips at the wheel, scraped a fence in its 100-yard journey.

Phillips was remanded to next October, by which time he will be out of Scotland.

Kangaroo Court Tried Jesus

Jesus was not tried under the provisions of Jewish law prior to His crucifixion but He was subjected to a preliminary examination by Caiaphas, high priest of Jerusalem. This story deals with that preliminary examination.

Judicial procedure in ancient Judea went even further than the English common law that developed long afterward in presuming the innocence of a man until proved guilty and in protecting him from having to testify against himself.

But Jesus was never tried under the provisions of Jewish law, nor did a Jewish court ever pass sentence on Him, despite the careless misimpressions that have existed about it.

He was, however, subjected to an irregular preliminary examination conducted by the Jerusalem high priest, Joseph Caiaphas, who was resented by the populace and whose career depended on his pleasing the Roman governor who put him in office, Pontius Pilate.

It was an inquisitorial session, apparently designed to build an incriminating case for the sovereign to act on, in keeping with the chain of collusive arrangements that led to Jesus' seizure.

The hour was nearing the third watch at 2 a.m. when the Roman military detachment brought Jesus, His arms bound, to the palace of Caiaphas in the western upper city south of the Zion Gate.

His house was connected by a corridor to that of his father-in-law, the former high priest Annas, who had been ousted from that office by the Roman governor for failing to adhere adequately to imperial policies.

Questions Jesus

The soldiers, possibly confused by the interconnected palaces, first brought Jesus into the chambers of Annas. The ex-high priest took the occasion to question him. Jesus responded coolly:

"I have spoken openly to the world; I have always taught in synagogues and in the Temple, where all Jews come together. I have said nothing secretly. Why do you ask Me? Ask those who have heard Me . . . they know what I said."

An officer slapped Him. "Is that how you answer the high priest?"

Jesus was calmly unswayed. "If I have spoken wrongly, bear witness to the wrong; but if I have spoken rightly, why do you strike Me?"

The prisoner then was ushered into the atrium of the house of Caiaphas, who had routed some of his Sadducean colleagues from their beds to help him try to extract some evidence against this Galilean Jew who stirred such public ferment.

They also sought to round up some malleable witnesses, coaxing them to perjure themselves, the gospels state, but none offered compatible stories.

One claimed, "This fellow said, 'I am able to destroy the temple of God, and to build it in three days.'" Another said, "We heard Him say, 'I will destroy this temple that is made with hands, and in three days, I will build another not made with hands.'"

These reports were distorted versions of figurative statements made early in Jesus' ministry, referring to His own death and resurrection. "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up."

Goads Jesus

Realizing he was getting nowhere, Caiaphas resorted to a blustering tone, trying to goad Him into some damning admission. "Have You no answer to make? What is it that these men testify against You?"

Jesus stood silent. It was futile, under the circumstances, to defend Himself.

Caiaphas then put an imperious question, seeking to implicate Jesus as a messianic pretender to the crown and demanding that He speak under oath. "I adjure you by the living God, tell us if You are the Christ, the Son of God."

Jesus replied affirmatively. "You have said so. But I tell you, hereafter, you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of power, and coming with the clouds of heaven." It was a different kind of sovereignty than Caiaphas sought to attribute to Him.

Caiaphas, a good actor, ripped his mantle, the customary way of expressing high indignation. "He has uttered blasphemy. Why do we still need witnesses? You have now heard His blasphemy. What is your judgment?"

Voices arose, "He deserves death."

However, this was no verdict, nor was there any indication that it was so considered, nor was there any attempt to carry it out. Under the occupation, only the Roman procurator could impose the death sentence.

Hearing Irregular

Nor was the inquiry a "Jewish trial," as it has sometimes been called, according to the stringent standards set for such procedures.

Under the rules prescribed for the Sanhedrin, the civil-religious counsel which the collaborating Sadducees dominated in the time of Jesus, such criminal cases could only be heard in the daytime.

To protect the accused, no prisoner could be convicted on his own evidence. No point could be established without two or more corroborating witnesses. They had to be cross - examined separately. An acquittal verdict could be rendered the same day, by a simple majority, but to prevent hasty condemnations, a conviction required a day's delay, and a larger majority.

The hearing for Jesus included none of these features. Altogether, scholars have cited 14 requirements of the Sanhedrin's trial procedures distinguishing them from the examination of Jesus.

Opposed Sadducees

That the session was not a regular trial — and only an impromptu gathering of Caiaphas and his coterie—is also indicated by the fact that nothing was heard from a minority of Pharisees on the Sanhedrin, some of whom — notably Nicodemus and the scholarly Gamaliel — opposed the prosecution against Jesus and later that against His followers.

At one point, when the administration plan to destroy Him was being arranged amid the webbed links between the Romans and the office-holding Sadducees, Nicodemus challenged the whole undertaking.

The objection, however, only brought a snide insinuation allying him with rebel territory. "Are you from Galilee, too?"

Although the piously conscientious Pharisees had argued strongly with Jesus about His breaking traditions by healing, by plucking grain on the Sabbath, and by not adhering to ritual washings before meals, none of these religious points arose in the proceedings against Him.

Instead, Caiaphas concentrated on political overtones —trying to portray Him as a messianic claimant to the throne under divine sanction —which would be a threat to him and to Pontius Pilate.

Derided by Guards

So in the secrecy of night, when the masses of Jewish people who hated Rome and the Sadducees would not be aware of it, Jesus was seized by the Roman legionnaires and brought to Caiaphas to line up a presentment against Him for the governor.

Afterward, Jesus was turned back over to the guards. Some of them slapped Him about and spat on Him, saying, "Prophesy to us, You Christ! Who is it that struck You?"

At one point, just as the bugle notes — termed the "cock crow" — sounded signalling the change of the Roman guard for the third watch, He looked toward the guardhouse doorway, His eyes meeting those of the stricken apostle Peter who had denied Him to suspicious questioners.

Early the next morning, perhaps as a gesture of propriety to the minority Pharisees on the Sanhedrin, Caiaphas summoned a meeting of it in the Chamber of Hewn Stones adjoining the Temple. To Jesus, he repeated his dramatic stroke of the night before. "If You are the Christ, tell us."

"If I tell you, you will not believe, and if I ask you, you will not answer. But from now on the Son of Man shall be seated at the right hand of the power of God."

"Are you the Son of God, then?"

"You say that I am."

"What further testimony do we need," Caiaphas declared "We have heard it ourselves from His lips."

"They bound Jesus and led Him away and delivered Him to Pilate."

Choir To Sing 'Crucifixion'

Oak Bay United Church Choir, directed by Robert Kroeger, will present Stainer's Crucifixion in the church on Good Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Soloists will be Robert Husband, tenor, and John Bray, baritone.

West Coasters Win

SEATTLE (AP) — A team dominated by west coast players wrapped up the American Contract Bridge League's spring national tournament here Wednesday by winning the most sought after bridge trophy in the nation, the Vanderbilt Cup. Captain Lew Mathe of Los Angeles and his teammates, Ron von der Porten, San Francisco; G. Robert Nail, Houston; James Jacoby, Richardson, Tex., Lew Stansby, Oakkland, Calif., and Mike Lawrence, Berkeley, Calif., beat an eastern team headed by New Yorker George Rapee by 16 international match points to capture the trophy.

Companies to Pay More In Compensation Grants

British Columbia employers will have to pay 24 per cent more this year in workmen's compensation contributions.

An announcement Wednesday by the Workmen's Compensation Board said 1967 assessment rates for many industries under the Workmen's Compensation Act are being increased.

This was attributed to increased benefit rates for disabled workers, widows and dependent children of workers killed in industrial accidents and increased accidents in many industries.

There are just over 37,000 employers registered with the WCB covering about 500,000 of the 710,000 workers in the province.

COLLECTIONS

"In 1965 the WCB collected $28.3 million from employers," said the announcement.

"Last year collections amounted to $36.5 million. It is estimated that $48 million will be required in 1967."

The government increased compensation benefits in a number of categories in November, 1965, and tied pensions for widows, dependent children and permanently-disabled workers and minimum compensation for total disability to the cost of living.

The additional costs are estimated at $47 million of which the government is contributing $10 million. The balance must be raised from the accident fund and by assessments on employers covered by the act.

ASSESSMENTS

Examples of higher 1967 assessment rates (some up by 50 per cent) include logging, trucking, canning and packing of vegetables and shingle mills.

"In some industries assessment rates will not have to be increased appreciably in 1967 because of improvements in accident experience and class fund balances," said the WCB.

"The economic theory underlying workmen's compensation is that economic loss through personal injury by accident arising out of and in the course of employment should be borne by employers in industry on the collective liability basis.

"The workmen's compensation laws of all Canadian provinces are based on this principle. The cost of the claims in each industry is spread over all employers in that industry with each firm contributing towards that cost in the ratio borne by its own payroll to the total payroll of that industrial group."

New Orleans Trip Blamed on Strike

Labor Minister Peterson said Wednesday the government's Lear jet aircraft was used to fly a B.C. delegation to a labor conference in New Orleans last year.

"We had arranged to fly on a commercial airline but the (U.S. airline) strike came up and we had to take the jet," said Mr. Peterson.

The New Orleans trip was disclosed Tuesday when Highways Minister Gaglardi answered a series of questions in the legislature concerning trips on the Lear jet. The minister said he could not recall why the jet was flown to New Orleans.

Mr. Peterson said the plane was used to fly a labor department delegation to the International Association of Government Labor Officials.

MPs ATTEND SPECIAL SCHOOL

NDP Plans for Television Hot Seat

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Democratic party has moved into the field of television artistry with a vengeance.

The party sent Leader T. C. Douglas and his 20 MPs to the first of a series of television schools Wednesday, complete with expert lecturers, studios, directors, lights and cameras.

The long - range plan is to prepare MPs and later candidates for the next federal election. The next step will be a similar school in Toronto in preparation for the Ontario provincial election.

Cliff Scotton, NDP federal secretary and unofficial school principal, reached into the pool of experts in TV-land for his lecture staff—Laurier Lapierre, the former Seven Days' host who will be an NDP candidate in Lachine next election; Douglas Fisher, former Port Arthur MP, newspaper columnist and TV interviewer; Peter Flemington, free lance producer of the Spectrum shows for CTV network; and Keith Woollard, director of broadcasting for the United Church of Canada and Ontario NDP publicity chairman.

Veterans and newcomers alike rated the first term as excellent.

WILL CHANGE IMAGE

Colin Cameron, MP for Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands for 14 years, said he thinks the party is ready to give up "what Laurier Lapierre called our crusading, missionizing image" and project to the people policies relevant and necessary to modern times.

Max Saltsman, MP for Waterloo South since 1964, said the school demonstrated to the MPs that "the personality of the individual comes through to a far greater extent than his message or words."

"Where an audience to a public address might remember and be moved more by the content of a speech, with TV they are more inclined to recall you as an impression."

'Graveyard Authority' Speaks Here

A man who knows the west coast between Bamfield and Port Renfrew like the palm of his hand, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the B.C. Historical Society this evening.

The meeting starts at 8:15 p.m. in the Douglas Building cafeteria.

Jim Hamilton, formerly of Clo-oose, situated about a mile south of the entrance of Nitinat Inlet, will show colored slides of the rugged coast, better known as the graveyard of the Pacific.

It was along this section of the Island's coast that hundreds of sailing and steam vessels were shipwrecked during the 19th and early 20th centuries.

Mr. Hamilton and his parents who moved to Victoria last year, were the last white people to live at Clo-oose. The community was established prior to the First World War, but its population gradually decreased over the years due to its isolation.

Jim as he is known to the Nitinat Indians, is an authority on the shipwrecks which have occurred between Port Renfrew and Bamfield.

He has also helped to maintain the life saving trail which was developed to assist shipwreck sailors to find their way to Port Renfrew of Bamfield.

Sing-Out Set

Organizers say the event may be the first of its kind in Canada.

All those interested in participating are invited to a practice at 2175 Lansdowne for a practice at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Arena Stays As Sweet As It Is

Memorial Arena will go for at least another year without a coat of paint.

Director of community services Jack Morgan asked the Victoria recreation committee Wednesday to approve an expenditure of $6,000 to improve the outer appearance of the arena.

But he could only win support from committee member Michael J. Griffin.

"The city is asking everybody else to paint up and clean up and we should do something about the arena," he said. "It looks a mess."

Ald. Hugh Ramsay, committee chairman, said once the building was painted maintenance of the paint work would become a steady budget item.

"It's an eyesore," said Mr. Griffin.

"It blends with the sidewalk," quipped budget guardian city treasurer James Bramley.

But his efforts were to no avail. The committee solidly rejected the coat of paint.

Impersonator Jailed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Female impersonator Albert Knox, 36, was sentenced to 12 years in prison Wednesday after being found guilty of the manslaughter of Frederick Dalen, 65.

Cabinet Shields Plan for Capitol

The University of B.C. was described Wednesday as an architectural disaster.

The comment came from Dr. Pat McGeer (L—Vancouver-Point Grey) during debate on Works Minister Chant's departmental estimates when the Liberal member asked Mr. Chant if the provincial government had a master plan for continuing development of the provincial government buildings complex in Victoria.

Motels and neon lights were already springing up near the legislative buildings and soon would mar "this incomparable spot in B.C.", Dr. McGeer said.

SEE RESULTS

If one wanted to see the results from a lack of planning, he only need look at the University of B.C., Dr. McGeer said. It is located on one of the most beautiful natural campuses in the world.

"What has appeared there over the years is nothing but unsightfulness" Dr. McGeer said. "There's no architectural cohesion at all."

Works Minister Chant said there had been a great deal of work done on a master plan for the capital area.

"In the last year we've spent $500,000 in acquiring old premises within the government precincts," Mr. Chant said.

In response to another question from Dr. McGeer, the minister said the master plan wouldn't be made public at this time.

Jest of God Novel by Laurence Wins $2,500 Literature Prize

OTTAWA (CP) — Three women, a school dropout, and two college professors were named winners Wednesday of the 1966 Governor-General's literary awards.

Both major fiction awards went to women. Margaret Laurence won the English-language prize for A Jest of God, a novel about an unhappy spinster in a prairie town. The winner for French fiction is Claire Martin of Ottawa with La Joue Droite, second volume of her autobiographical work, Dans un Gant de Fer.

The awards are made by an automomous committee and carry $2,500 cash prizes from the Canada Council. The committee picked a winner in all six categories for 1966, and the council, in announcing the names, said it was "a good year for Canadian writing."

The committee did not recommend an English fiction prize last year and it has been 22 years since three women were among one year's winners.

Margaret Atwood, a Ph.D. candidate at Harvard, was named for poetry in English with The Circle Game, a collection of poems. Rejean Ducharme, a 25-year-old poet, believed living in Montreal, won the award for poetry and theatre in French with his richly textured L'Avalee des Avales.

George Woodcock, of the faculty of English at the University of British Columbia, won the English non-fiction award for The Crystal Spirit; A Study of George Orwell. And for non-fiction in French it was Le Comptoir, second volume of Histoire de la Nouvelle France, a work by Marcel Trudel, who heads the University of Ottawa history department.

Start Early For Jerusalem

By JACK BEASTALL

The earlier we plant the tubers of the Jerusalem artichoke the better the crop will be when October arrives.

Jack

An old root is lifted, the soil washed off with a garden hose, and the well shaped tubers a little larger than a grade A egg selected for replanting.

This is work generally recommended for February, but locally we are never sure the coldest part of winter has passed before the end of March.

Since this plant is actually a sunflower (Helianthus tuberosus), the Girasole of Georgia and Arkansas, its juvenile growth will not stand frost, which means the tips should be safely under soil until near the end of April.

This shortens the growing season quite a bit, so we find it helpful to start the tubers in a deep box kept either in a cold greenhouse, a coldframe, or tucked away in the shelter of the shrubbery.

APPLE BOX

Spread a layer of compost about three inches deep in the bottom of box and place the tubers on this three or four inches apart. Then fill the box with compost.

If the box is kept outside it is wise to cover it with a sheet of glass held down with a brick. This prevents saturation by rain.

But be sure to add a little water if the compost gets dry, and remove the glass in the daytime when it is not raining.

“No longer will 100,000 Canadian car buyers have to choose either a too-small import or a too-costly compact”

Rambler American Rogue

We estimate that every year, about 100,000 Canadian families are put into the predicament of having to choose either a car that is too small, and not really suited to Canadian conditions, or one that is right for their needs, but too costly.

Why is this so?

Because, until now, there has been no domestic-built car available to fill the size and price gap between the small-but-economical imports and the larger-but-costlier compacts.

Not any more!

We at American Motors believe that it's high time to close that gap. It's high time to give those 100,000 Canadian families the kind of car they need, at the price they want to pay. And what they need and want is a Canadian-built compact car at a truly low price—a price that is competitive with imports!

That car is the Rambler American! The original compact car!

On February 21st we announced a reduction in the list price of all Rambler American models, as follows:

Series & Model	Old Price	New Price	Saving
220
2-door sedan	$2494	$2272	$222
4-door sedan	2566	2382	184
4-door station wagon	2871	2693	178
440
2-door sedan	2627	2446	181
4-door sedan	2699	2536	163
4-door station wagon	3009	2860	149
2-door hardtop	2722	2582	140
Rogue
2-door hardtop	2913	2767	146
2-door convertible	3130	2977	153

These are Manufacturer's suggested retail prices for the models named F.O.B. Brampton, Ontario. Federal taxes included. Provincial or local taxes, if any, destination charges and optional equipment are obviously extra.

To any one of the 100,000 Canadian families caught in the price/size predicament, these new prices mean that they can now get the car they've been waiting for: the truly low-priced Canadian compact. They can now buy a 6-passenger, 6-cylinder, Canadian-built Rambler American for just $274 more than a 4-passenger, 4-cylinder, VW; or for $267 less than a Falcon. (Based on Manufacturer's suggested retail prices.)

But how can we lower our prices when everything else is going up? Through a double-barreled attack on the problem. With the wholehearted support and co-operation of our dealers, who agreed to sell the Rambler American for $2272, American Motors management decided to take the second step that would reduce the price; eliminate the annual model change for the Rambler American line only.

Future changes to the Rambler American will be limited to genuine improvements; essential changes that will actually improve the safety, reliability, performance or economy of the car. There will be real changes, not change for the sake of change alone. No annual face-lift that costs us (and ultimately you), millions of dollars each year. The cost of re-tooling, model-making, experimenting and pilot production is being passed on to you, the purchaser, right now, in these price reductions. There will be no change in the materials, methods or specifications of the Rambler American.

Think of what you're getting. The Rambler American has already demonstrated its superiority over other domestic compacts, by winning its class in the 1967 Union/Pure Oil Performance Trials and in every Mobil Economy Run in which it has been entered. The Rambler American is the only compact that offers a complete choice of body styles: 2-door sedan, 4-door sedan, station wagon, 2-door hardtop and 2-door convertible. The Rambler American is available with Six or V-8 engines, 3-speed, 4-speed, Overdrive, or 3-speed automatic transmission; your choice of bench, bucket or individual seats (that recline!), plus standard equipment features like a long-lived Ceramic-Armoured exhaust system, Single-Unit Construction, Deep-Dip Rustproofing, coil spring seats . . . all the built-in extras that have built Rambler's reputation for value!

Think again. Now, at a price that is competitive with imported cars, you can have the kind of performance needed on Canadian highways, the kind of construction, rustproofing and heater needed for Canadian winters, the kind of safety features you want for your family, the kind of dependability you can get only from a coast-to-coast network of dealers, the kind of comfort and room you have come to expect from a car designed and built on this continent.

For years, we have felt the Rambler American to be the best value in a domestic automobile. Today, at its new, low price, Rambler American is the best automotive value in the world.

We consider this to be a most important breakthrough in the auto industry. And it is only the first of many exciting developments to come from the new management of American Motors.

Here's why we say that dollar for dollar, Rambler American is now the best automotive value in the world.

Although a great deal has been spoken and written about the controversy that threatens the fabric of our still-young university, the man to whom faculty, students and public look for explanations and firm decisions has yet to be heard from.

This is Dr. Malcolm Taylor, University of Victoria's first president, to whose driving administrative ability, that institution of higher learning owes much.

Through his Dr. Taylor's efforts, Uvic has grown in physical size and academic stature at a rate nothing less than astonishing.

Yet now, when future prospects should be bright indeed, it is plain even to the outside observer that here is a university in trouble.

There have been resignations by men whose only apparent motive is a deep conviction that injustices have been visited upon their colleagues, and academic freedom abused.

All this adds up to a situation that needs more daylight letting into it, and the obvious person to do so is our university's chief administrator.

At this point in a dispute which has been both prolonged and pungent, we would all welcome such reassurances as Dr. Taylor finds himself in a position to offer.

Around this time last year, I told you about my sweety's collection of chocolate Easter rabbit ears. A day or two after Win had added the 1966 set to her trove, a yard-long box arrived for her. In it was a card from artist Emily Sartain, and a non-chocolate rabbit of her own manufacture. This swashbuckling bunny wore a Mod-type vest, and sported orange felt ears of unparalleled magnificence.

We found a place of honor for him atop a book-case, and there he lorded it alone until the daffodil winds again began to blow.

Then along came another long box from which hopped a no less splendid she-rabbit in a provocative party dress, bonnet and pearl mecklace. She was generously eared in pink and mauve, and had a scheming look in her eye.

Up beside Mr. Crazy-Ears she went; and that was that until Wednesday, when I came home to find the handsome couple flanked by six long-eared felt children and three of marshmallow.

There was also a note from flower-lady Emily Sartain, who hopes we'll find homes for this extensive brood.

Anyone know of a little girl short of toys or sick in bed who can give a clutch of highly-superior felt Easter bunnies the cherishing they deserve?

On Tuesday, Times sport columnist and handicapper Hal Malone passed the word from B.C. Racing Commission that Vancouver Island's horse-racing future may depend on the volume of public clamor from those who love to watch 'em run.

As one who does, expensive though the spectacle can prove, I now register a public clamor of my own, and hope other improvers of the breed will also make plain their concern over the threatened loss of the annual Sandown meeting.

Further, I see no reason why purse-proud Vancouver, with a long enough season as matters now stand, should profit from our loss by inheriting our 17 race days if B.C. Jockey Club, and North Saanich Council fail to reach an agreement.

Accord is most often reached through compromise in which each disputant displays a willingness to back off, cool off, and in this instance consider others whom a removal from Sandown would affect. These include Island horse-owners and breeders, and thousands of Victorians whose support of Sandown has been both ardent and faithful.

Whatever your feelings in this matter, better make them known fast. The Jocky Club request for a transfer to Exhibition Park is in, and must soon be ruled upon.

DESMOND MOSELEY

IWA Officials Investigating Mishap

Union officials were today investigating an accident which resulted in a logger lying out in the pouring rain all night Tuesday.

As the investigation continued, 32-year-old Desmond Moseley, of 3620 Park, was in poor condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

He was rushed in Wednesday morning with concussion after lying in the woods west of Sooke unconscious since sometime Tuesday afternoon.

A faller with Sooke River Logging Ltd., he had apparently been hit on the head by a falling snag.

IWA officials visited the scene in the Leech River area Wednesday and spoke with management.

Said a union spokesman: "We have still to talk to the woods crew to find out what happened.

'NOT HAPPY'

A Workmen's Compensation Board inspector also visited the scene Wednesday.

Mr. Moseley had apparently been working alone in the woods when he was knocked out.

It wasn't until his wife phoned the logging office next morning that anyone realized something was wrong.

Mr. Moseley is well known in local baseball circles as a player-manager with Victoria senior amateur league.

Pair Charged In $135 Theft From Sub PO

Two 19-year-old boys have been jointly charged with the theft of $135 from a city sub post office six days ago.

Kenneth McGill, 2390 Oak Bay Ave., and Lawrence Parker of 615 Fernhill had their case remanded to March 29 for plea when they appeared in central court this morning.

They are also jointly charged with the theft of a fishing reel from an Esquimalt Road sporting goods store. That case was remanded six days as well for plea.

Store proprietor and sub postmaster John Pinch told police two youths strolled in and out of his store moments before he found $135 in an envelope missing from a drawer.

Hydro Linesman Burned Badly

Gabriel Arcuri, 47, of 2922 Austin, was injured when he came in contact with a high voltage line while working on Metchosin Road near Sangster School.

NO EVICTION

Fears Eased For Welfare Patients

A spokesman for two major Victoria private hospitals today eased fears that welfare patients would be asked to find alternative bed space on May 1.

William E. Osland, one of the owners of Glenwarren and Glengarry Private Hospitals said, "The situation is not nearly as desperate" as Ald. Lily Wilson said Wednesday.

Ald. Wilson had stated that private hospitals had set a May 1 deadline for removal of 237 welfare patients if more money was not forthcoming for their care.

Ald. Wilson said the situation was alarming and required immediate provincial government action.

Mr. Osland conceded that when Mrs. Wilson made her remarks there had been no formal notice of Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell's announcement of a boost in rates paid for welfare patients.

Mr. Campbell said Wednesday

Dead Woman's Rings Sold by Government To Help Repay City

By PETE LOUDON

Prior to her death in a rest home here, Mrs. Evelyn Mae Looby asked that her wedding and engagement rings be sent to a niece in England.

Instead, they were turned over to the official administrator for the province. They were converted to cash to help repay the city welfare department for Mrs. Looby's funeral.

It's done every day. But what isn't revealed every day is the hurt and shock felt by elderly friends of the deceased.

Here is how the story sounds from the lips of pensioner George Munro, 3035 Cook, who bought back the rings for $71.56 so he could fulfill Mrs. Looby's dying wish.

"Is it in the interest of the human race . . . to have the rings removed and confiscated from the stilled fingers of a lady welfare patient . . . who had passed to the great beyond . . . when the expressed wishes of the deceased were that they should be forwarded to her niece in England?

BARBAROUS CONDUCT

"Such barbarous conduct . . . can be fully confirmed by those who are fully aware of the facts of the case and of the inhumanity—shameful exploitation of the dead."

Mr. Munro can't accept the action as the logical handling of the affairs of a person dying without a will.

Mrs. Looby died Jan. 14, 1963, so the story is four years old. Mr. Munro said he was inspired to make it public by recent charges of welfare department frugality.

"They need a good shaking up," he said.

He said he was not afraid to associate his name with charges of departmental meanness.

And he displayed a receipt from the office of the provincial offical administrator and a covering letter signed by the administrator, Ian Horne QC.

Mr. Munro, a resident of a city rest home, says his friendship with the late Mrs. Looby goes back years. He lived at her home in Vancouver and when she became ill he moved with her to Pender Island and assisted in her care.

Mrs. Looby eventually was moved to hospital at Sidney and subsequently was cared for at The Priory, Langford, and at Glenwarren Private Hospital here, where she died.

He said that prior to her illness they had made a pact. Each changed their savings accounts into joint accounts with the other. If one died the other would have access to the savings to pay for final arrangements.

RECEIPTS FOR $672

When Mrs. Looby became ill, Mr. Munro expended her $600 savings for her care. He says he has receipts covering an amount of $672 he paid for care at Rest Haven and Glenwarren.

But much of her care was covered through welfare offices.

Mr. Munro presumed that it was for this reason the authorities took possession of the rings after her death. A

Private Firm Offers Service For $24,000

2 Aldermen Back Ambulance Plan

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

Victoria has been offered a round-the-clock ambulance service for $24,000 a year.

The offer was revealed to city council this afternoon by Ald. Percy Frampton and immediately won the support of Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

During budget estimate talks earlier this week members of the Victoria finance committee were told the fire department, at present operating the new ambulance service would need at least eight extra men if the service was to continue to operate smoothly.

Fire Chief Eric Simmons had actually asked for 12 new staff members, but had been told that all the city could afford at present was eight.

EIGHT ATTENDANTS

With the approval of the eight extra fire-fighters-come-ambulance-attendants city treasurer James Bramley warned that with a full year of operation facing the city in 1968 the cost of operating the ambulance service would jump to between $75,000 and $80,000 a year.

Even with the new men on staff for only half of this year costs would run around $28,000 in wages the committee was told.

Ald. Frampton told council today that the Garden City Ambulance would undertake to operate the new emergency vehicle for a flat contract rate of $2,000 a month — or $24,000 a year.

He said the city would retain ownership of the vehicle but that the ambulance company would purchase all oil and gasoline.

SAME SERVICE

"They will offer the same service we are providing now," he said. "It would be free of cost to the people and would always be staffed by two men trained in industrial first aid."

He asked Mayor Hugh Stephen to establish a committee to study the proposal and come back to council with a final recommendation.

"I don't expect a decision today," Ald. Frampton said. "All I am asking at this time is that a committee be set up to check this proposal out in detail because it sounds like an excellent idea to me."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, who expressed alarm at the cost of operating the ambulance system via the fire department, said he fully supported Ald. Frampton's call for a special committee to investigate the proposal.

"WONDERFUL IDEA"

"The costs as revealed to us in committee earlier this week are more than we can stand," he said. "The ambulance service is a wonderful idea and I think we may have a way here where we can provide excellent service at much less cost to the taxpayer."

Ald. Edgelow said that although $80,000 a year had been quoted as the figure necessary to provide ambulance service through the fire department he was sure that figure would top $100,000 a year before too long.

At press time council was still considering the proposal.

Lecturer Questions Handling of Affair

By DESMOND BILL

J. S. (JERRY) SCHWARTZ

J. S. (Jerry) Schwartz resigned today from the English department at the University of Victoria.

He was to go before a review committee today for reconsideration of its earlier decision not to renew his contract.

Mr. Schwartz repudiated the committee in a letter to Dr. Malcolm Taylor, university president.

Meanwhile, the student government at Uvic has offered to hire Mr. Schwartz next year as an independent lecturer.

David McLean, president of students' council, said, "We don't want to lose him."

Mr. Schwartz said he was "flattered and gratified" by the offer but did not indicate if he would accept.

Mr. Schwartz was one of three outspoken faculty members whose contracts were not renewed this year by the university. The others are Dr. Charles Tarlton, of the political science department, and Alan Mackenzie, of the English department.

Their ouster has produced a raging controversy on campus.

It became known today that the faculty association last week asked for a meeting with the Joint Faculties to discuss the non-renewal of contracts.

The faculty association represents almost all the professors at the university. Joint Faculties is an institutional body of the university.

The request for a meeting between the two groups was turned down by Dr. Taylor. The university president said he could not discuss the matter while the cases of some of the principals involved is under appeal.

APPEALS

Dr. Tarlton has appealed his case to the Canadian Association of University Teachers. Mr. Schwartz appealed to a faculty committee which said the committee that originally recommended his ouster should take another look at his case.

He was to have gone before that committee today for reconsideration of its recommendation.

However, in a letter to Dr. Taylor this morning, Mr. Schwartz, disavowed the committee.

His letter questioned the behavior of Dean Alex Wood in the handling of his case and also questioned why standards applied to him were not applied to other faculty.

Mr. Schwartz' letter said that President Taylor is aware of all the things that were pointed out in the letter yet he was still willing to go along with this "foul charage" of referring the matter again to Dean Wood's original committee.

'SPEAKEASY'

Students held a noon-hour "speakeasy" today to air their views aboutt he ousting of three professors. They were asked to ratify a tentative decision to hold a mass rally next Tuesday.

Mr. McLean said next Tuesday's rally will decide whether students should boycott classes on the following day in protest against the firings.

Seven students, including two former presidents of the Students' Council, have circulated an open letter charging that "excellent and dedicated instructors are being removed without justifiable cause but because of comflicts of personality within the university."

The seven said they held meetings with President Taylor, Dean Wood of arts and sciences and Dean R. R. Jeffels to express their "deep concern" about the oustings.

Their letter states that Dean Wood told them, "If these men (Schwartz, Tarlton and Mac-

FACULTY ATTACK AROUSES TAYLOR

He issued the following statement:

"As a result of recent open letters to the faculty and of statements in the press I feel it is my duty at this time to place on record a formal and unequivocal statement of my stand on the current situation at the University of Victoria.

"Because it is the right and responsibility of the faculty to judge their fellows and then advise me about such matters as appointments, reappointments, promotions and tenure, I have at all times avoided—as I must avoid now—any public statement that might influence favorably or unfavorably those judgments.

"And yet at the very time that these orderly procedures are being followed the university is being subjected to what appears to be a concerted attack not only upon those of our colleagues who are conscientiously trying to reach decisions but also upon the integrity and competence of the whole faculty. At such a time I cannot remain silent.

"It seems to me now that certain elements are determined to undermine—perhaps even destroy—the professional standing of the faculty and the good name of the university. I therefore protest and condemn any attacks designed to call into question the honesty and competence of my colleagues. Moreover, I wish to assure them of my deep concern and distress over the indignities they have suffered during these past weeks.

"I reaffirm my trust in the integrity, sound judgment and quality of the faculty.

"The distinction of the faculty now here, the calibre of appointments now being made, the awards and honors won by the faculty and students alike, attest to the present and growing reputation of the University of Victoria for academic excellence."

Actress to Share Cavendish Estate

Mrs. Dola Frances Cavendish — last of the 10 children of former B.C. Premier James Dunsmuir — left gross estate to the value of $596,138, it was disclosed in her will probated at Victoria Law Courts today.

LENGTHY ILLNESS

Mrs. Cavendish died in Richmond Heights private hospital last Dec. 9 after a lengthy illness. She was the youngest of the eight daughters of James Dunsmuir, who was premier of B.C. from 1900 to 1902.

Premier Dunsmuir was the son of Robert Dunsmuir, pioneer mine owner on Vancouver Island.

Mrs. Cavendish was buried, at her own request, in the churchyard of St. John the Baptist Anglican Church, Colwood, close by the one-time Dunsmuir estate, where she spent her childhood.

In her will Mrs. Cavendish directed that she be buried "in a plot shaded by a tree" and that her coffin be "inexpensively made from a native B.C. wood."

In addition to a large number of bequests to relatives, friends and employees, Mrs. Cavendish left various gifts to charity. They included:

GIFTS

$500 to the Salvation Army, Canada West.

$250 to St. John's Church, Colwood.

$500 to St. Joseph's Hospital.

$250 to the Colwood Women's Institute.

To the Little Church Around the Corner, New York City, Mrs. Cavendish bequeathed two George III Scotch silver goblets (made in Edinburgh, Scotland in 1794).

Sandown Supporters Off and Running to Retain Island Track

By HAL MALONE

Public support mushroomed today for retention of horse racing on Vancouver Island.

Private citizens, businessmen and owners indicated they had sent letters in support of racing at Sandown Park to the B.C. Racing Commission and the attorney-general's office.

The scheduled 17-day meeting has been threatened by a dispute between North Saanich district and B.C. Jockey Club which operates the track.

The Jockey Club has requested the commission to transfer Sandown dates to Vancouver.

In Victoria, Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow, also an owner-breeder, urged North Saanich council to take "a big look" at the conditions they seek to impose on the Jockey Club.

"Why make it difficult for the operators to carry on? There aren't the people to justify vast expenditures."

He was referring to improved sanitation and fire-fighting facilities sought by North Saanich. The district also seeks a $150 daily licence fee.

Alderman Edgelow also warned that if people interested in racing at Sandown don't speak up "loud and clear" the commission would be "quite right" in granting the transfer.

"If the Island loses racing now," he said, "it will be gone forever."

The alderman disagreed with North Saanich's request that existing and replacement barns should contain sprinklers.

"No sprinklers could have stopped the fire at Sandown last October. That was not a natural fire. A man was charged with arson and is serving a sentence."

Ald. Edgelow said he "couldn't understand" why the fire marshal's office is satisfied with fire-prevention facilities at Vancouver, which does not have sprinklers, yet recommends them for Sandown.

"There are various ways of reading between the lines of the fire marshal's report," he said. "If North Saanich wants to make the firmest interpretation they'll never have a fire at Sandown."

Meanwhile a spokesman for Sidney-North Saanich Chamber of Commerce said his group "will do anything it can to promote racing at Sandown."

Walter Bloxham, operator of Sidney Travelodge, said the Sandown season is "an essential part of our industry, of virtually every industry in this area."

"I would like to see both sides sit down at the negotiating table. And I think they should try and reach a long-term agreement instead of bargaining on a yearly basis."

Mr. Bloxham said it was "essential" for tourist industry operators to know soon if Sandown will operate "so we can line up employees for the six weeks of racing."

Horseman-breeder-businessman George Harknett predicted the breeding industry on Vancouver Island "would completely fall apart" if the transfer is approved.

A recent survey by B.C. Throughbred Breeders' Society disclosed there are 10 stallions, 153 brood mares, 77 young horses and 101 horses of racing age on the Island.

Mr. Harknett said the "man on the street" is greatly concerned with Sandown's future.

"If Mr. (Ken) McConnell (Commission secretary) wants to hear public opinion on this he can sit in my office any day and get an earful."

In letters to the commission and Attorney-General Bonner, racing supporter Ruth Collis, 921 Royal Terrace, wrote: "I didn't realize that we in Victoria would have to stand up and shout for something that is rightfully ours."

She also wrote that Sandown racing "provides employment for residents of the district, sees houses rented that otherwise would not be and generally gives a lift to the economy of the whole area."

She said that Americans take their holidays to coincide with the Sandown fall meeting "because they find it is an entirely different and most enjoyable atmosphere."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Stuck for Meal Idea? Walk Into This Store

By Penny Saver

Whenever I dash home after a day of shopping or a round of appointments; there's nothing I like better than to sit back and relax, and not worry about preparing dinner or anything. After a busy day, I couldn't survive unless I took time to unwind. The rest of the family doesn't always go for the left-overs that star the dinner table, that is, with the exception of our ever-hungry dog who eats anything from cardboard boxes to paper clips and pencils if you don't catch him first!

On my last outing, I picked up a meal that left the family raving, "When are we going to have that again?" You'll have your family ranting about this treat too. It's the simplest thing to prepare — just heat it in the oven and presto! It's ready to highlight the dinner table.

The first item on this tempting menu is big, juicy cabbage rolls in a tasty tomato sauce. I found that one is an ample serving for the most ravenous appetite. You can buy these hot and ready to eat, or cooled. Cold cabbage rolls take 20 minutes in the oven.

These come in handy foil pans, wrapped in plastic. You don't even have to use a pan to heat these. A package of two hot, king-size palate pleasers sells for 49 cents. If you buy them from the refrigerator section of this shop, price is 45 cents.

For a special treat, make the main course of your "ready in a minute" meal a succulent barbecued chicken. These golden brown, tender birds are well cooked and piping hot when they come to you. As a matter of fact, they come right off the spit. They sell for $1.49.

Side this meal with a generous portion of potato salad. It's a change from fried, baked or mashed potatoes, and one that your family will love. If you don't feel like whipping up your own salad, you can buy a carton for 39 cents! It's simply delicious too, made the way that only an expert can. Stock some in your refrigerator for lunch or dinner treats.

Take a holiday from cooking with these delightful foods. Give me a call at 382-3131 if you want to know where I found them.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Good Grooming Requires Having Implements on Hand

Lowman

In this column I often mention the value of good grooming. I feel sure that many women fail in this because they do not have the implements and materials necessary at hand. For instance, perhaps you are out of cuticle remover, forgot to replace lost tweezers or just used your last emery board. If you do your own manicures, it is a fine idea to keep all the essential utensils and products in the same place on a bathroom shelf or in a box. You will need emery boards, a nail brush, polish remover, cuticle remover, orange sticks and cotton.

It is also a good idea to have a little pair of cuticle clippers for an occasional hangnail or for rough cuticle which has been neglected. This should remind you that cuticle oil or cream should also be part of your equipment. All these are necessary just to keep the nails well groomed.

Then, of course, there is the undercoat, the nail enamel, and the top coat. You will need polishes to match or blend with the colors of your various lipsticks and a clear polish.

I am not a brush salesman, but it is surprising what a big part they play in good grooming. There are clothes brushes, hairbrushes, toothbrushes, complexion brushes, and bath brushes, to name a few. The complexion brush and the bath brush are extremely important to women.

Many complexion problems such as a very oily skin, blackheads and large pores, respond correctively to the stimulation a complexion brush provides. Use this with lots of soapsuds, in a rotary motion. Do not have a brush which has bristles which are too stiff, but they should have enough body to stimulate without irritating.

Your hairbrush is valuable becauses it brushes away accumulated dirt and dust in between shampoos. Also, if you brush your hair each night, you will stimulate circulation in the scalp.

Your hairbrush should be washed every time you have a shampoo. Rinse the brush well. Brushes should never be left resting on their bristles when not in use. However, place them bristle-side-down on a clean towel while they dry.

A long-handled bathbrush not only scratches a good itch but is preventative to pimples and blackheads many women have in this area. You just can't reach the middle of your back without one of these brushes.

To Be Married on Friday

A duo of showers heralds the forthcoming marriage of Miss Cherie Chapman, who will wed Clive Kahn on Good Friday.

Sixty friends and members of Alliance Church entertained the couple at a shower in the church hall recently. White carnations en corsage were presented to the bride-elect, her mother, Mrs. T. W. Chapman, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. William Kahn.

Adding to the evening was a program of entertainment, arranged by Bob Arnott. The Misses Fern Chapman and Mary McCulloch performed a humorous skit and Mr. and Mrs. George McCurrah sang a duet, accompanied by Mr. Arnott on the accordion. John Young played a violin solo and Fred Marshall gave a reading.

Mrs. R. Boyd assisted the couple in opening the gifts and refreshments were served. Arranging decorations was Mrs. Fred Schmidt.

The Lugrin Place home of Mrs. F. Stevens was the setting for another shower honoring Miss Chapman.

Games were played and refreshments served to the mothers of the principals and guests Mrs. E. Chapman, Mrs. Peter Smart, Mrs. T. Helliwell, Mrs. H. Venables, Mrs. R. Boyd, Mrs. R. Hughes, Mrs. L. M. Bass, Mrs. L. Guthrie, Mrs. A. Gieshbrecht, Mrs. L. Stevens, Mrs. Lewis Erb, Mrs. O. Milke, Mrs. C. Gunderson, the Misses Marlene Dodsworth and Elaine Aiers.

SAYS CAC SPEAKER

Food Shortage Named Cause of Price Hike

"It is time the housewife realized she has to make some adjustments in her thinking and buying," said George Pears, manager of a local wholesale company, when he addressed the Victoria branch of the Consumers Association of Canada, Monday afternoon in Eaton's board room.

Speaking on the high price of foods today, Mr. Pears said, "There is no 'establishment' trying to outwit the housewife. Food is in short supply and for the first time, we are beginning to feel it."

He stated that, even with the increase in prices, supermarkets, for example, are not increasing their profit margin. "It is still the same as it was in 1960," he said.

SURPLUS IS GONE

Quoting Gordon Bloom, of the National Association of Food Chains, he said, "North American consumers have grown accustomed to low food prices based on surpluses that are no longer with us. The honeymoon is over. Foreign aid plans have gobbled up the overflow—storage bins, graineries and freezers are empty for the first time."

Citing examples of how dwindling surpluses affect the price of food, he said that with a grain shortage, the price of flour increases and the price of bread is raised. Because of the grain shortage, there is a shortage of feed and the price of livestock, and thus meat increases. Another link in the chain reaction is the sale of dairy cattle because of livestock increases. Therefore, the price of milk and dairy products are increased.

The population explosion is another factor in the hiked prices and decline of surpluses. Said Mr. Pears, "We are raising children faster than we raise crops!"

Looking into the future, the speaker said, "Some day a world government will control our natural resources. Today we allow our most productive farmlands to be housing developments, but eventually we will dig up the blacktop and replant."

Continuing, he said that to improve things now, "we must endeavor to produce more food and market efficiently."

CUTTING COSTS

He said that farmers, railways, wholesalers and retailers are cutting down on labor costs by using machinery and devices to bring fresh food to the consumer in better condition and at reduced costs. New concepts are employed in all fields, including the supermarket.

Outlining tips for the consumer, he said, "You must be competitive-minded like your suppliers. Be fair to the food retailer by not including nonfoods in your market bill."

Mr. Pears said that the housewife should can and preserve and avoid convenience foods, buy fresh food and avoid fancy packaging to "cut corners" on market day.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. T. Fairhurst and thanked by Mrs. Elizabeth Mills.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Dinner Invite Always Welcome

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were going over our guest list for a series of dinner parties we will be giving this season. I have several widow friends. My husband said, "Please don't ask any widows for it is too tiring and worrisome having to carry them home afterwards."

Even though they are financially able to take a taxi, they feel that as long as we have a car and both my husband and I drive we should give them chauffeur service home. Please tell widows that they would get more invitations if they wouldn't expect so much.

DAYTON

DEAR DAYTON: If your widow friends expect "too much" it's up to you to straighten them out, but please don't generalize. Most widows are so tickled to get a dinner invitation they are delighted to provide their own transportation.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for all patrolmen to see. One evening I was driving my own car and my boyfriend was sitting beside me.

A patrolman came alongside me and signaled for me to pull over, which I did. I had been exceeding the speed limit slightly, but that didn't bother me. What did was this: The partolman looked at my driver's licence, then he looked at me and said, "Is this yours?"

I assured him that it was and asked why he questioned it. He said, "You sure don't look 46 years old." Abby, I wanted to hit him. I can easily pass for early thirties, and sometimes do. Needless to say, I was humiliated, embarrassed, and annoyed.

OLDER THAN I LOOK

DEAR OLDER: No wonder the police are discouraged. Here a cop compliments you—and you get sore. The cops can't win!

DEAR ABBY: A rather embarrassing thing happened to me and I need some advice. The other day I received a very appreciative note from a friend of mine, thanking me for a baby gift I did not send. The worst part of it is, I never got around to sending her baby anything, although I had been meaning to.

Should I let this person know of her mistake? Or should I ignore the whole thing so she'll never know I didn't send anything?

B.

DEAR B: Let your friend know at once that a mistake has been made. Then she can try to find out who sent the gift and thank her for it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "POSITIVELY STUMPED" IN LOUISVILLE: If neither you nor your daughter knows which one of you he is interested in, I suggest you both forget him. He's probably too young for you, and too old for your daughter.

DEAR ABBY: When I hear women complaining because their husbands never tell them they love them, I know all too well how they feel.

My husband is a minister, and he is a wonderful man. He loves the Lord, the brethren of the church, and all mankind. He has the greatest compassion for the weakest sinner, yet he denies his family his love. We have been married for 24 years and have a beautiful family, yet he has never shown me or the children by word or deed that he "loves" us. He has always said he would never let his family stand between him and his God. But, Abby, we are not competing with God, for we love God, too.

I have a confession to make. At times I have been tempted to turn to other men. I was saved only by the knowledge that it was my driving "need" for love — not "love" itself — that tempted me. With God's help I was able to overcome the temptation. God pity those who have neither this knowledge nor His help. Please print this.

NEEDING LOVE.

DEAR ABBY: A lady signed GRANDMA wrote, complaining because she had grandsons in the service, but a fat, lazy, 22-year-old slob of a neighbor kid sat around doing nothing. He bragged that his hobbies were draft-dodging, eating, and sleeping, and said he keeps his blood pressure up on purpose so he can't pass the physical.

She said she wanted to know why fellows like this should be allowed to get away with this.

You said there was probably a lot more wrong with the slob than he admitted, and he was probably covering up with his braggadocio talk, that if he were fit material for the service, they'd have a uniform on him faster than he could say "Viet Nam."

Abby, I left the service a year ago, and I have this to say to Grandma: How safe would your grandsons be if they depended on this slob to sound the alarm in case of an attack? Would you want your grandsons to ride in an aircraft this fellow just repaired? No, Grandma, leave those irresponsible kids at home where they hurt no one but themselves. They don't belong in the military with decent, responsible men like your grandsons.

Eldridge; second, Mrs. L. Kahler; secretary, Mrs. G. Chater; assistant secretary, Mrs. R. Jacob, and treasurer, Mrs. N. McConnell. Mrs. McNeish received a corsage of red roses. Miss Margaret Plunkett made the presentations to the new and outgoing presidents.

Named as conveners were: Social, Mrs. W. Walker; assistant social, Mrs. H. Bell; sick visiting, Mrs. M. Hundleby; press, Mrs. V. J. Wilson; program, Miss McAriss Smith; membership, Mrs. R. Sewell, and phoning, Miss L. Woodrow.

COMING EVENTS

It was decided to hold the annual Royal Jubilee Hospital Ball in the Empress Hotel on May 26 and Mrs. V. Skinner was appointed convener of a fashion show, to be held in September.

Members agreed to assist the Douglas Rotary Club in their fund-raising drive for new equipment at the hospital. Those willing to sell tickets should contact Mrs. Bolt.

Mrs. Chater read the group's annual report which embodied the work of all officers and conveners for the past year. Heading committees were: Nominations, Mrs. Bolt, Mrs. McNeish, Mrs. McConnell and Miss Woodrow; bursary, Mrs. Bolt, Mrs. C. Flower and Mrs. B. Bendall with Miss Muriel Thompson and Miss Elizabeth Maude-Moore acting as advisors; press, Mrs. H. Mede; social, Mrs. R. Sewell and Mrs. A. Mourant; phoning, Miss Woodrow; membership, Mrs. M. White; sick visiting, Mrs. D. Carey, and program, Miss Z. Harmon.

FINANCIAL PROGRAM

It was announced that loans totalling $1,175 had been made to 12 students, a grant of $100 made to one member, donation of $20 given to the Heart Fund in memory of former Mayor A. Toone and D. A. MacLoud, and a donation of $100 placed in the Muriel Harmon Fund.

Members had provided refreshments for two capping ceremonies and two graduating classes and their mothers had been entertained at tea during the graduation period. The president had awarded prizes for the highest achievement in the pre-clinical period to the Misses Marilyn McLean and Catheryn Betcher.

One of the most successful social affairs had been the annual hospital ball which netted $479.96. Mrs. Eldridge had been the convener. Mrs. P. G. Roberts and Mrs. Eldridge convened a fall fashion show which realized $212.18. Mrs. McNeish was convener of a raffle which added $227.41 to the funds.

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHT

Serving on the reunion committee were Miss M. Dicks, Miss E. Mackie, Mrs. G. McCann, Mrs. Sewell, Mrs. G. Greenwood, Mrs. McConnell, Miss F. Ferguson, Mrs. G. B. Buffam and others. During the activities, six dolls were presented to the school of nursing by the Vancouver and Seattle branches. The dolls were dressed in uniforms which showed changes made during the school's existence.

A profit of $3,111.22 was realized from all money-raising events.

Diocesan Board Votes to Accept Constitution Change at Meeting

Mrs. F. A. Goodwin, Victoria, was elected for her fifth term of office as president of the British Columbia Diocesan Board, Anglican Woman's Auxiliary, in St. James' Church, Nanaimo, last week.

Also re-elected were Mrs. H. McDonald, Victoria, first vice-president; Mrs. W. E. Greenhalgh, Saanich, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L. Small, Victoria, recording; Miss Dora Brown, Victoria, treasurer; Mrs. E. Gurr, Victoria, Juniors' secretary; Mrs. H. J. Newnham, Saanich, department of family life; Mrs. T. Hughes, Esquimalt, prayer partners; Mrs. N. B. Fatt, Saanich, Living Message; and Mrs. G. H. Greenhalgh, Nanaimo, United Thankoffering.

SERVE FIRST TERM

New officers are Miss Dorothea Lucas, Lantzville, second vice-president; Mrs. H. Monaghan, Victoria, Dorcas secretary; Mrs. N. W. Life, Saanich, candidates; Miss Marjorie Bernard, Victoria, social service, and Miss Ruth Scott, Victoria, educational.

The installation of officers, conducted by Most Rev. H. E. Sexton, Archbishop of B.C., concluded the three-day annual meeting.

Delegates voted to accept the revised diocesan constitution, which includes changing the name of the organization to Anglican Church Women. This is in harmony with the national constitution which will be effected when legal requirements are met.

VOTE NEXT YEAR

A working draft of proposed by-laws was accepted for vote at the next annual meeting.

The proposed Care of the Elderly project, to be sponsored by the Synod Social Service board was discussed. It had been suggested that the project be developed by stages, medical care unit, guest house and then living units. It was agreed that funds and property to the value of approximately $250,000 be made available for the project as needed.

The number attending Camp Columbia had increased by 70 per cent over the last four years, said Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh. He added that it might be necessary to limit the number of campers this season unless more volunteer leaders could be found.

Appealing for assistance of $500 for a suggested paid camp manager, the speaker was told funds had been voted for this purpose.

In his report for the Board of Religious Education, Rev. P. Isles told of the establishment of a new section for audio-visuals directed by E. Fred Holliday, Victoria, and thanked the organization for a gift of $150 for buying a new projector.

LARGE ENROLMENT

There are 50 students in the parish education training scheme, chaired by Archdeacon C. Maddocks, and the board is continuing to sponsor pilot courses for adult education and leadership training. More than 400 adults and young people have taken these courses, he said.

Dorcas secretary Mrs. J. A. Andrews reported 35 bales sent, goods and money donated to the value of $1,239, and gifts to UCW for Korea, Caroline Macklem Home, St. Chad's Home, Northern Forest Rangers, Society of Friends, Christmas Bureau, Shantymen's Mission and Goodwill Enterprises.

More than 4,000 sick visits and 3,500 telephone calls were reported by social service secretary Mrs. H. N. Street who added that many branches don't keep records. Money donations were sent to Aberfan, Lepers, International Children's Villages, Kamloops Home for Unwed Mothers. Gifts included books for weatherships; library to Wilkinson Road Correction Unit; hot meals to elderly bachelors and widowers.

Also giving reports were: Mrs. G. Edgecombe, Caroline Macklem Home; Mrs. C. T. Skinner, Pakistani embroideries; Mrs. R. Clegg, life members and Mrs. G. V. Jarvis, church furnishings.

Winding up the meet was a reception, given by the executive and assisted by members of the host branch.

The wholesome way to keep your milk costs low

Many people today are spelling economy with a capital "P" — for Pacific Instant Skim Milk Powder! It's hard to think of any other food which helps you give your family nutrition (all skim milk's food value) — at such a saving. Pacific dissolves instantly. Tastes great. So get the pitcher — and keep it full for those big, ice-cold glassfulls that kids love. Great for baking too!

DESPITE SPENDING REVISIONS

Council Still Sees Red In Recreation Budget

Although final figures are not yet in, nor will they be until city council has finished its estimate-slashing sessions, the estimated losses on recreation facilities at present stands at $229,395 for this year.

That picture could be drastically changed after the Crystal Garden estimates are revised in light of Mayor Hugh Stephen's recommendation that expenditures be held to a minimum this year to make way for a $250,000 renovation program in 1968.

As it stands at present the Crystal deficit for the year has been estimated at $130,610, an increase of $91,655 over last year's loss.

Mayor Stephen has suggested that expenses on the Crystal be held to an absolute minimum this year with just enough money spent to keep the building operational.

REDESIGNED

Next year, if his move wins expected support from council, the entire structure of the Crystal — including the roof — will be redesigned and the inside of the building modernized.

One of the popular items on the decor to disappear will be the famous potted-palms.

It costs in excess of $400 a year to keep them dusted and their leaves moist and clean.

NINE MONTHS

The operating loss for the new sports stadium is expected to be $20,350, bringing the total deficit for the nine months the park will be in operation this year to $23,190.

Memorial Arena will lose an estimated $42,955 during the year unless the Maple Leafs return with pro hockey next fall. If they do losses could be cut by approximately $12,000.

At the McPherson estimated losses for the year were originally set at $44,340 but ruthless budget-cutting in committee reduced that figure to $32,640.

ANOTHER ROUND

City hall officials point out that all budgets have to survive one more round of cutting by full city council before the final estimates for the year are approved.

But, however sharp the knife is, indications are that all four recreation facilities will operate deeper in the red than ever before.

SIX-POINT PROGRAM

'Blueprint' Presented For Gorge Expansion

A blueprint for future expansion of services was given Gorge Road Hospital Wednesday.

Dr. Brock Fahrni, director of the school of rehabilitative medicine at University of B.C., laid down a six-point program of possible development.

Guest speaker at the annual meeting of the hospital, Dr. Fahrni said consideration should be give to an extended-care wing for longer term patients.

He proposed a day care program to accommodate rehabilitative care by day and be sent home at night.

He though the hospital was suited to an expanded service for quadraplegic and paraplegic treatment and a widening of vocational testing, training and guidance service.

The doctor said the hospital could provide another basic need by training medical, paramedical and nursing personnel drawn from other parts of the province. He also suggested that treatment now given in the hospital should be extended to the homes of patients by travelling teams of experts.

OUT OF BALANCE

Board president Mrs. C. C. Warren agreed that unless the hospital moves ahead with the growing need for hospital services, facilities can be quickly out of balance.

She said, "It is our responsibility to maintain, in concert with municipal leaders and senior governments, a high quality of hospital care in keeping with the marked strides being made in medical science, technology and development."

Mrs. Warren was returned as president for another one-year term. Also elected were Harold Lupton, vice-president; G. E. Maycock, honorary treasurer and W. T. Straith, honorary solicitor.

Man Fined $200 On Cheque Count

George Nestor had been remanded in custody seven days awaiting sentence.

Defence counsel Robert Monaghan told court at the earlier trial his client had been expecting a larger pay check than he actually received.

Nestor had 85 cents in a bank account and cashed a cheque for $41.98 at The Bay.

Art Displayed By Teachers

Two teachers in Greater Victoria schools will have an exhibition of their art next week in the lobby of the Education-Arts Building at the University of Victoria.

The display will continue through April 3. The lobby is open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Junior Choir Featured Good Friday

There will be a Good Friday children's service in St. Matthias Anglican Church, Richardson and Richmond, at 9:30 a.m. when the junior choir will lead the singing and Canon Jack Rogers will be the preacher.

A shortened service of morning prayer will be held at 10:30 a.m., with meditations upon the meaning of the cross.

A public service will be held in Fairfield United Church Good Friday at 11 a.m., when Rev. Dr. H. W. Kerley will speak on Love So Amazing.

Mrs. Winnifred Sedgley will be soloist and Rev. A. G. Atkins will take part in the service.

Homosexual Wins Right Of Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada agreed Wednesday to hear an appeal against the conviction of a confessed homosexual as a dangerous sexual offender.

One court observer said that if the court upholds the conviction any practising homosexual in Canada would be liable to imprisonment for life. The case may not be heard for several months.

Ottawa lawyer Brian A. Crane sought leave to appeal on grounds that the legal definition of a dangerous sexual offender, contained in a 1961 amendment to the Criminal Code, was never intended to cover ordinary homosexuals.

He said in argument Monday before a three-member court panel that the amendment, which provides for an indefinite terf of preventive detention, was clearly aimed at sexual offenders who present a menace to the public.

Under the indefinite sentence a person can be held in prison for the rest of his life unless he is somehow cured and pronounced fit to resume a normal life.

Names Not Named, Reporters Jailed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Two reporters were jailed Wednesday for contempt for refusing to name state legislators who they said told them of bribe offers to vote for a bill legalizing casino gambling in Hot Springs, Ark.

The two are Jack Baker of the Arkansas Gazette and Michael B. Smith of the Pine Bluff Commercial, who testified along with other reporters in a grand jury investigation of an alleged attempt to bribe state Representative Gayle Windsor of Little Rock.

Circuit Judge William J. Kirby said they will be held in jail until they answer the grand jury or the Arkansas Supreme Court grants bond.

Kirby said Smith and Baker claimed privileges under a state statute that reporters are not required to disclose the source of information unless their articles are written in bad faith or malice or are not in the public interest.

Kirby said the reporters refused to tell the grand jury the name of any other legislator whom they heard had also been offered a bribe.

Kirby then said the statute the reporters cited did not apply since neither had reported attempts to bribe others besides Windsor.

Windsor has said he was offered a $1,000 bribe to vote for the gambling bill, which narrowly passed the Arkansas legislature but was vetoed by Governor Winthrop Rockefeller. Windsor would not identify the briber.

Driver Fined $300

John Forscutt, 21, of 971 Dunn was fined $300 Wednesday guilty of impaired driving. His licence was suspended for four months. Saanich police Const. Ken Gale told court Forscutt was unable to stand when checked early the morning of Feb. 16.

SLEEK RACING SLOOP TO JOIN B.C. FLEET

GLASGOW (CP) — Described as a triumph of Scottish craftsmanship, Gabrielle III, a handsome 35-foot auxiliary sloop, has been placed aboard a freighter bound for Vancouver, where she will be taken over by her owner, P. R. Sandwell.

Contract for the yacht, built by a shipyard here, was won over stiff competition from North American and Scandinavian yards. The keel was laid last September.

The sloop, with a 60-foot mast, has rigging of stainless steel wire and spars of aluminum alloy. It is intended for cruising and ocean racing.

Shelve Unification, NDP Members Urge

OTTAWA (CP)—Less than 24 hours after voting for the armed forces unification bill in the Commons defence committee, two NDP MPs said Wednesday the legislation should be shelved, at least temporarily.

Harold Winch, Vancouver East, and Andrew Brewin, Toronto Greenwood, said in a statement that the bill should not be given third and final reading in the Commons until the government announces withdrawal of Canadian troops from Europe.

External Affairs Minister Martin has already rejected suggestions for such a withdrawal at this time.

Mr. Winch said in an interview that he and Mr. Brewin were placed in a difficult position in the defence committee no matter what they did.

PRINCIPLE BACKED

He said they favor the principle of unification and thus voted with the Liberal majority to report the bill back to the Commons.

However, they had been unable to persuade the committee to attach to its formal report to the Commons an explanation for its actions.

Mr. Winch said he and Mr. Brewin have not yet reported to the NDP caucus on the unification bill. He would expect, however, that the party would support the position being taken by them.

MAJORITY VOTE

Meanwhile, Grant Deachman (L—Vancouver Quadra), chairman of the defence committee, presented the report to the Commons. It said only that the committee by majority vote had approved the bill.

The Commons is expected to begin clause-by-clause study of the bill soon after the Easter recess.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Take a look at the bidding of today's hand. South starts with an artificial two club opening and North gives the negative two diamond response.

At this point South could merely rebid to three no-trump but he thinks that his hand is so good it may make a slam with very little help from partner, so South bids three diamonds to show his suit.

What is North's three heart bid? Is it a psychic or just evidence of temporary insanity?

Actually it shows the Herbert convention at work. The Herbert convention provides that if your partner opens two clubs and rebids in a suit after your two diamond response, then you show a really bad hand by bidding the next suit and not the minimum number of no-trumps.

Opening lead—♠ 6

Note that South can't lose three no-trump and has no trouble making an overtrick against a spade or heart lead while if North is declarer the queen of hearts lead gives the defense the first five tricks.

It should also be noted that if South is not playing Herbert he should rebid three no-trump rather than three diamonds and protect himself against a heart lead through his king.

You can also use the Herbert convention when you play ordinary strong two bids. This way, North would bid two hearts over a forcing two-diamond opening and South would play the no-trump contract.

We recommend the Herbert convention highly. However, before you use it, you had better really discuss it with your partner. You don't get to use this convention more than two or three times in a year of steady play and it can be really disastrous if you forget when it does come up.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Johnny Carson has pretty much had his own way in the late night hours on NBC-TV. But soon he will get stiffer competition than old movie re-runs.

ABC-TV has just spent $2,000,000 in color studio facilities in Hollywood and will launch the Joey Bishop Show April 17.

Stephen

You can bet your bottom dollar one of the first guests will be an old friend, Frank Sinatra.

The upstart network once tried to buck the Johnny Carson 90-minuter with a thing called The Les Crane Show. It was less than successful.

His emphasis will be on live entertainment feeling that there is an added quality when the performers and audience know everything is being done at the moment.

His regular help on the program will be announcer Regis Philbin and bandleader Johnny Mann creator of the singing group which carries his name.

Meanwhile, a fourth commercial television network is to debut in the U.S. in the near future.

One of the United Network's key programs will be a nightly two-hour show from Las Vegas in direct competition to Johnny Carson and Joey Bishop.

The United Network, formerly known as the Overmyer Network, has 135 stations across the U.S. set to carry the show and that number will probably grow to 145 or 150 by launch time in April.

The Las Vegas series will have a permanent host, as well as various rotating co-hosts.

The program cameras will be based at the Hacienda Hotel but will jump from entertainment spot to entertainment spot.

The show will undoubtedly also attract a lot of talent which would not appear before cameras under normal circumstances, like young comedians pushing their way upwards.

GORDON HEAD AREA THE "MODERN BAVARIAN"

THIS BRAND-NEW HOME offers old country charm and gives you all the benefits of modern living. The builder took pride in his work, used the best building materials available, and incorporated many extra features usually only found in homes of the higher priced ranges.

THE INTERIOR consists of an entrance hall, spacious living room, fireplace, guest-size dining room with sliding glass doors to the patio, and a bright well-planned kitchen with eating area. All have BEAMED CEILINGS! The upper level consists of 3 bedrooms (master bedroom is en suite) and 1½ bathrooms. On the lower level you'll find a PANELLED DEN (or 4th bedroom), a bath, utility area and rec. area. The home is situated in an elevated location on a landscaped lot offering partial sea and mountain views!

RETIREMENT OR STARTER LOVELY POCKET-SIZE GARDEN OWNERS TRANSFERRED

Really, I wish I were retiring. I would love this spot. Just 5 minutes walk to townside at 1-mile circle, this is ideal for working business couple or retired couple. Owners bought just a year ago, painted extensively, put wall to wall expensive carpeting in restful green in living room, installed new OOM HW furnace and panelled a lovely den. From living room French doors open on to red tiled terrace for summer "hazing." Living room of 14x22, dining room of13x13, den of 13x13 and 2 large bedrooms make this suitable for small family. School is right handy. This is an older, peaceful, no-step home with part basement and full price is only $17,900. Financing available! Hurry! WILLS OF WHITTOMES, 388-4271.

SUPERIOR RESIDENCE SUPERB SEAVIEW
View this home and you will see modern styling at its very best — not ultra but serene quality combined with good taste and excellent workmanship.

Spacious living room with white marble fireplace, beamed ceilings, indirect valance lighting, rich wall to wall carpeting, separate dining room, 3 bedrooms. The master bedroom has one complete wall of closets and its own bathroom. The main bathroom is a showplace. A very swank kitchen with utility area partitioned off behind folding louvered doors. An open stairway leads to the lower floor where there is ample room to complete 2 more bedrooms and a rumpus room or den with fireplace.

There is a spectacular panoramic sea view from nearly every room and it can not be spoiled by other homes. If you are looking for a home that is quality throughout — a home with a style of its own and a sea view that cannot be surpassed, we urge you to see this at

Book Talks to Blind With Electronic Help

VANCOUVER (CP) — A University of British Columbia professor is counting on the magic of micro-electronics to help him put a unique reading tool into the hands of the blind.

Dr. Michael P. Beddoes, fresh from a year's study at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said he hopes to produce by 1970 portable reading machines to enable the blind to read printed material in the form of sound.

Dr. Beddoes says his original machine, which he calls a Lexiphone, has proved his theory that printed matter can be electronically translated into sounds and the resulting melodic patterns understood by the blind after training.

He said he now is working on an improved version using a simpler sound code which he developed at M.I.T.

The key to mass-producing Lexiphones, said Dr. Beddoes, now lies in the field of micro-electronics — the science of producing all the components in miniature.

He said he envisages Lexiphones reduced to the size of a blackboard duster and selling for the price of a color television set, $500 to $1,000.

"A year ago we had developed a sound code for nine letters of the alphabet which utilized four sound pitches — three hisses and a click.

"However, there were some real shortcomings in this code. It was complicated and some listeners had trouble distinguishing between the various code sounds."

The new code, which Dr. Beddoes describes as "sort of a melodic Morse code," uses an increased number of pitch values and sliding tones which are also varied in strength.

In his new machine, up to 30 photosensors will scan printed letters, producing a less complex pattern than the old six-sensor scanner.

In operation, the book or printed page lies on a platform which moves past the scanner. The sensors convert each letter into electrical signals which, in turn, control sound generators and produce the sound tone.

Dr. Beddoes said the system would have to be studied for some time before blind persons would be able to master the intricacies of sound patterns.

He estimated it would take 300 hours of practice for a blind person to reach a Grade 4 reading level. He said top speed would be about 80 words a minute.

'Erasing Defeat In Courts'

The provincial government is trying to erase a defeat in the courts by forcing 150 B.C. Medical Plan employees to become civil servants, Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) told the legislature Tuesday.

He made the comment after introducing an amendment to the Medical Services Act to delete a portion of the bill that would classify the employees as civil servants.

Mr. Macdonald said the Labor Relations Board rejected the employees' application for certification as an office workers union local and the courts "upset this ruling and restored the employees' rights of free collective bargaining which are now to be removed."

His amendment was defeated by a vote of 30 to 21 but Health Minister Black assured the house the government has no intention to force employees of non-profit medical insurance plans to become civil servants.

The Medical Services Act, which sets up provincial machinery for the proposed federal medicare plan, received final reading.

Highways Reclassified

The B.C. cabinet Wednesday reclassified three-quarters of a mile of Conora, Telsen and East Saanich Roads near the Patricia Bay Highway intersection with McTavish as arterial highways.

This will turn over full maintenance responsibility for the sections from North Saanich council to the highways department.

Epidemics Spreading In China?

TOKYO (AP)—A Communist Chinese broadcast said Wednesday doctors and nurses are leaving Peking and other cities to work in the countryside, and it was believed here they may be fighting epidemics.

The New China news agency said the medical teams "in many places are crossing mountains and rivers to give treatment and spread knowledge about the prevention and cure of common diseases."

The agency gave as an example Honan and Hupeh provinces where Chinese Nationalist intelligence sources last week reported epidemics of meningitis and encephalitis had broken out.

So far 570 doctors and nurses have gone into the countryside and 650 others are leaving, the agency added.

3,000 Jobs At Expo Open To Students

MONTREAL—University students who want to work at Expo '67 for the duration of the exhibition may now send their applications to the Student Placement Centre, 2100 Drummond St., Montreal, or to one of the Canada Manpower Centres across the country.

Although about 3,000 jobs are available, the corporation for the World Exhibition has already received more than 24,000 applications from students across Canada. These 3,000 jobs do not, however, include employment possibilities with national participants, private exhibitors and numerous concessionaires. The Canada Manpower Centres and the Student Placement Centre have asked these prospective employers to submit lists of their personnel needs.

ANOTHER BUG

When Music Stops, Be Careful

VANCOUVER (CP) — Soft music at a health club was tied into a listening post for a soft sell, the royal commission on bugging was told Wednesday.

Two witnesses testified that a piped music system doubled as an intercom controlled by a master panel in the manager's office of five Palm Springs Health Spa branches here.

The music was cut off when the manager cut in the intercom to listen to a salesman's pitch to a prospective customer.

Herbert Calhoun, assistant to the president of the company, said the listening devices were removed after the commission began sittings late last year.

He said the devices were a part of salesman training. A manager listened in and would later use the information to check faults in a salesman's presentation.

Protesters May Face Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the U.S. House armed services committee said Wednesday Congress might eliminate college deferments if students continue demonstrating against the draft.

"My God, what are we coming to?" asked Rep. Mendel Rivers, in referring to about 50 Howard University students who jeered selective service director Lewis Hershey off the stage Tuesday night.

Meanwhile, Burke Marshall, chairman of President Johnson's advisory commission on selective service, told a Senate labor subcommittee a lottery among 19-year-olds would eliminate "cynical planning" to avoid the draft which, he said, had become a "major preoccupation on college campuses."

If demonstrations continue at other colleges, Rivers said, "college deferments may become a thing of the past." He told the House: "This is fair warning to every college student."

Steel Bars Urged On Mobile Spars

PORT HARDY (CP)—An inquest jury has ruled that Roy William Hunt, 32, of Fort Rupert, died accidentally Monday in a logging accident at nearby Alice Lake.

Hunt, operator of a mobile spar machine, was killed when a cable broke and lashed through a window of his machine.

The jury attached no blame in his death but recommended the use of steel bars on windows in the machines.

NEW BABY BONUS WON'T HELP

Quebec Birth Rate Jump Discounted by Experts

By DAVE BAZAY

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's new family allowances may bring a minimeasure of relief to large families with low incomes, but population experts aren't predicting a baby boom to alter the province's dwindling birth rate.

The new family allowances, announced in the Union Nationale government's budget, are adjusted to the number of children in a family, paying $30 a year for the first child and increasing to $70 for the sixth and subsequent children under 16.

In his budget speech Finance Minister Paul Dozois spoke of the allowances as a welfare measure, saying the provincial government will distribute $88,000,000 a year among 2,100,000 children in 90 per cent of Quebec's families.

The arrival on the Quebec scene of provincial baby bonuses, however, coincides with a sharp decline in Quebec's birth rate, which fell 24.7 per cent between 1959 and 1965, compared with a 21.9-per-cent drop for all of Canada.

Dr. Jacques Henripin, director of the demography department at the University of Montreal, said in an interview the new allowances will not have "any effect at all" on the Quebec birth rate.

Other demographers here said the same.

WON'T BE OFFSET

Mr. Henripin said the allowances, which range in size from $2.50 to $5.83 a month per child, will not provide sufficient financial incentive to offset fundamental factors causing the birthrate decline.

Dr. Paul Parrot, demographer of the province, reported in a recent government survey that the total number of annual births declined to 120,705 in 1965 from 142,383 in 1959, a drop of 17 per cent compared with an over-all decline in Canada of 13 per cent.

These statistics have created concern inside and outside the government with some experts predicting there will eventually be an actual decrease in the Quebec population — currently estimated at 5,800,000 — which now makes up about 28 per cent of the Canadian population.

Mr. Henripin predicted the birth rate will soon level off at a point more than sufficient to ensure that there will be no decrease in Quebec's population.

Quebec's birth rate decline of 24.7 per cent between 1959 and 1965, he says, compares with similar declines of 21.9 per cent in all of Canada, 20.2 per cent in Ontario, and 19.5 per cent in the United States.

COMPARES RATE

The birth rate, calculated on the number of births per 1,000 of population in a given year, was 21.3 in Quebec in 1965, he says, compared with 21 in Ontario, 21.4 for all of Canada and 19.4 for the U.S.

What really has been pulling the birth rate down, says Mr. Henripin, has been the tendency among Quebecers to get married later in life and the tendency among couples toward a greater spacing among children.

He does not agree with those who argue that the sharp birthrate decline is due mainly to a reduction in the total number of children in a family, probably prompted by easy access to the birth-control pill.

He says he believes the pill may well be responsible for a gradual reduction in the size of families but its main effect is to permit better family planning rather than to reduce overall family size.

Among other pressures cited as causes of the decline in the birth rate are the high cost of housing in urban areas, the tendency of married women to quit the household for a job and the economic need for young people to remain at school longer than previously.

SEES GOOD TREND

Dr. Parrot of the provincial department of health says there is an encouraging trend toward more marriages nowadays in Quebec. The number of marriages in 1966 exceeded by 1,375 the number of marriages in 1965.

"We foresee a considerable increase in the number of marriages for the next 10 years. This is because those born in the baby boom after the war are reaching the marriage age."

There are also 175,000 single men and 162,000 single women in Quebec between the ages of 20 and 25.

Predictions here are that these young people getting married will wait a while before having their first child and that they won't have as many children as their parents, thus contributing to a further decline in the family size.

One government official said his personal opinion is that Quebec's mean family size will decrease to 1.5 children by the 1980s with births stabilizing at between 75,000 and 85,000 a year.

This would represent a drop of more than 60 per cent over 1965 figures and probably plunge French - Canadians, already a minority group in Canada, into a population crisis of far-reaching significance.

Classrooms Set For Disturbed

Special classrooms and facilities for emotionally disturbed children will be built at Glen Lake elementary school by this fall.

Dean Fred Tyler of the faculty of education at the University of Victoria and Miss Anne Curts, remedial teacher, are being consulted in the planning of the additions.

Sooke School Board is also planning to build a new unit at Langford elementary school for retarded children. It is hoped that this, too, will be ready for use this fall.

Scots to Remember Newly-Lost Comrades

Former members of the 67th Battalion Western Scots are to honor the memory of 17 of their comrades who have died during the past year.

The veterans will hold a one-minute silence at their annual reunion dinner in the Dominion Hotel starting at 6:30 p.m.

"Since all First World War veterans are now in their late 70s or early 80s we must expect to lose old comrades every year," sayd. Harold Rourke, secretary of the 67th Battalion Association and one of its original officers.

"We expect about 50 will answer the roll call Saturday night. And that's a goodly number when you consider ages and infirmities caused through war service."

After six months' training at Willows Camp (now part of the built-up residential area of Oak Bay) the 1,200-strong battalion marched through the city streets and embarked for Vancouver in three C.P.R. ships.

PIONEER UNIT

The battalion was led by Lt. Col. Lorne Ross.

In England, the battalion changed from an infantry to a pioneer unit. In that capacity, and still retaining its original battalion identity number, the 67th served in France as the Fourth Canadian Divisional Pioneers.

"For the uninitiated," Mr. Rourke said, "pioneers are the working engineers of the army. They work at night, mostly out in no man's land; lay barbed wire entanglements, dig sapheads, build machine-gun emplacements and blow up enemy dugouts.

TWENTY YEARS

In the chair Saturday will be Pioneer-sergent W. G. Lovelock, who comes from San Leandro, California and who hasn't missed a reunion in the last 20 years.

Capt G. H. Linney, the battalion's adjutant, will be here from Edmonton.

Rev. Bryce Wallace, one of the unit's original stretcher bearers, will head a detachment from Vancouver and the lower mainland.

Up-Island points will also be represented.

night that it had already been announced that the provincial payments would be from $215 to $230 monthly. (Early today Mrs. Wilson said that so far as she knew, official notification to the city welfare office still had not been received.)

Mr. Osland said there is no question of eviction. The word appeared in a Times headline when Mrs. Wilson's alarm was misconstrued.

"We couldn't put people out on the street," said Mr. Osland.

He said it was his opinion that private hospital operators would notify the welfare administration on May 1 that as of that date their charges for care of welfare patients would be raised.

He thought the raise would place the rates "in the neighborhood of $230 now and $255 when the next raise in the minimum wage for staff workers occurs."

MINIMUM WAGE

The B.C. labor department recently set the minimum wage at $1.10 an hour effective May 1 and $1.25 an hour effective Nov. 1. Previously it was $1 an hour except for those with less than three month's employment who received either 85, 90 or 95 cents.

'I would hope we would be able to reduce the number of welfare patients as well," said Mr. Osland.

He said operators want assurance that no more than half their beds will be used for welfare patients. Otherwise they will require $255 as of May 1.

But, "Nobody is holding a gun to anyone's head," he added.

Mr. Osland said the present allowance for welfare patient care is $215 but "This leaves the hospitals in a loss position." He said 45 of 75 patients at Glengarry are welfare patients. If only 20 out of 75 were welfare patients and the rate was $230 this would suffice until the fall.

$10,000 PER BED

He said he feels the time is near when city or provincial agencies should take over private hospitals, adding, "We would be quite willing."

At a cost of $10,000 per bed this would cost about $4 million. But the agency would receive $2,000 a bed from Ottawa and half the balance from the province (assisted by federal payments to B.C.).

"I'm sure the operators would finance the balance," said Mr. Osland. A lease arrangement at a realistic figure would also be possible, he thought. He pointed out however that cost of patient care at BCHIS - operated extended care hospitals is $17.50 per day compared to a cost of $8.50 per day at private hospitals.

"A great deal is lost in administration in government operated ventures, he said.

Mr. Osland was asked whether the 10-cent increase in wages merited a $15 increase in rates. He said the increase in rates for 45 patients in Glengarry would bring in $700 monthly. But the wage increase, because it must be reflected in all salaries, would cost $1,000.

To his knowledge the operators do not intend to increase the rates of non-welfare patients, he added.

Ald. Mrs. Wilson was bringing the problem to council today. Meantime she said there is a long waiting list for private hosptial beds. She said a welfare worker told her that "If a new 100-bed hospital was built tomorrow we could fill it in two weeks."

"We've got to have a new building and new beds. There is no other answer," she said. She thought between 200 and 400 new beds were indicated, at a cost of $10,000 for each bed.

. . . RINGS

check with official records showed however that Mrs. Looby's meagre estate was not attached to recover welfare payments.

A senior official of the provincial welfare department said the department makes no claim against the estate to recover welfare payments.

CLAIM BY CITY

But a claim was made by the City of Victoria through the city welfare department with respect to a city-paid $192 funeral. Other items besides the rings must have contributed to paying off this debt. Because today Mrs. Looby's exhausted estate only owes the city $38.

"They have no right to take that sort of thing," said Mr. Munro.

He said he threatened to write to the Queen's secretary at Buckingham Palace. Since then he has made several attempts to recover both the money he paid for the rings and the money he paid on Mrs. Lobby's behalf for her care.

He says he has never received a cent and his letters appear to be ignored.

"There appears to be a stigma attached to welfare assistance. The hard-boiled tactics in Victoria no doubt account for the large numbers who detest applying for such assistance.

KIND, HUMANE MANNER

"This is the sort of treatment senior citizens have to put up with in this city of plenty under the care of highly paid officials who are in charge," said Mr. Munro.

An official of the government department, which liquified Mrs. Looby's few possessions to meet debts such as that of the city, said the procedure is normal.

It appeared there was no will. He suggested that if the rings had been worth several thousand dollars there would be no public criticism of their sale to meet the demands of creditors.

"It's really up to the city of Victoria. They expected to be reimbursed," he added.

Business is business—but Mr. Munro and many other elderly residents feel it should be tempered with sympathy when that business relates to the care of elderly residents.

Mr. Munro, a former, outdoorsman who has wandered over much of the world, lives in one room with a few mementoes of his active life. Among them are two shiny pairs of riding boots, long unworn but maintained with loving care.

He wonders who's going to get his boots if he dies suddenly.

kenzie) do not leave the university, within two or three years the university will lose at least four and perhaps as many as ten of our best senior scholars and you can count the dean of arts and science among their number—but this is not a threat."

The students said they must make this statement known "for it is essential that all members of the faculty of this university realize that no profesor is secure if such threats are as effective as they have been.

"Compatibility with the faculty members who threatened the dean, not teaching ability or scholarship, is the primary criterion for survival at this university."

The letter is signed by Stephen Bigsby and Paul Williamson, former students' council presidents, and by Jack MacDonald, Nan Elliott, Ken Hart, Brian White and Neil Williamson.

How's Toot 40 Years Later?

Just how much will be known Saturday night when 24 former sea cadet bandsmen haul out their instruments and strike up a tune.

The last time they played together was in 1927 when they toured Canada and Great Britain representing Victoria Sea Cadets.

After that, they all went their separate ways.

Surprisingly of the original 28-man band, only four are expected to be missing. Two have died and two others, both working in B.C., have not been contacted.

Thirteen still live in Victoria: "We asked the boys to bring along their instruments. It will be interesting to see how everyone's kept up his music."

The reunion will be at Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

. . . track scandal

Judgment Reserved On Dupuis

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Court of Appeal is considering whether to uphold or reverse an influence-peddling conviction and $5,000 fine imposed last April 22 on Yvon Dupuis, who lost his federal cabinet post in 1965 because of a racetrack scandal.

The appeal was taken under advisement Wednesday by Justices Andre Taschereau, G. R. W. Owen and G. H. Montgomery, following a two-day hearing.

Lawyers Raymond Daoust and Paul Martineau, representing the former federal minister without portfolio, challenged the April 22 verdict on grounds of law and of fact, and called for an outright acquittal.

Crown lawyer Denys Dionne contended that the Crown had proved its case, and had backed it up with weighty circumstantial evidence.

Mr. Dupuis, 40, was convicted of having accepted $10,000 in 1961 in return for his influence in support of a group seeking to establish a racetrack at St. Johns, Que., in his riding of St. Jean-Iberville-Napierville.

The racetrack permit in question was never granted.

N. Koreans Shoot As Red Defects

By K. P. HONG

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—North Korea accused the UN command today of kidnapping a prominent Communist journalist said to have defected at this truce village, and demanded his immediate return.

U.S. Col. George F. Charlton, secretary of the UN command, rejected the demand and said that Lee Soo-keun, 44-year-old vice - president of the official North Korean central news agency, had defected to South Korea of his own initiative.

"The choice of an individual to decide where to live is a basic right of the peoples in all free nations," Charlton told North Korean Col. Han Chu-kyong.

Lee had come to Panmunjom with other reporters to cover an armistice commission meeting. A Korean source said he went to UN officials an hour before the meeting ended and told them he wanted to defect to the South.

After the session broke up, Thomson brought his car to the entrance of the conference building. Lee soon emerged from the building and in full view of about 50 Communist guards and reporters jumped into the waiting car.

Lee is reported to have a wife, two sons and a daughter in Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

Amateur Films To Be Shown

Agreement on Rhine

LONDON (AP)—U.S., British and West German envoys have worked out an agreement meeting most of the foreign exchange costs of Britain's Rhine army in the coming year, informed sources reported Wednesday night.

Should a "non-swinger" visit swinging Britain?

Yes. Very definitely! Because Britain is just as lively or leisurely as you care to make it. It's simply a matter of choice. Some of our passengers fly to Britain for a swinging vacation. Others prefer the things which are uniquely British—the friendly pubs, the gentle countryside. The pomp. The pageantry.

Only BOAC with Air Canada flies direct to Britain, and this summer we offer you the choice of up to 12 jet services a day from Toronto and Montreal. And there are several flights a week from western Canada; including direct Western Arrow services to London.

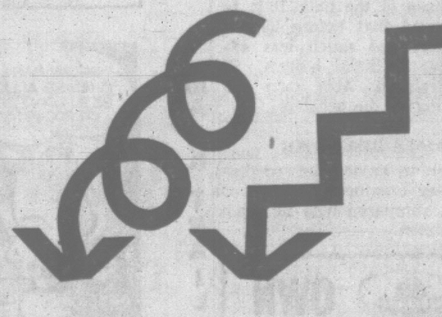
BOAC



There are two ways to go down stairs. At left, the rapid route sometimes taken by people who don't have light switches at the top of their stairs. To the right, we see the slower, but much safer, course taken by people whose homes are wired for Medallion convenience with plenty of switches, plenty of outlets. Before you build or remodel, ask your electrical contractor about Medallion standards.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book tion a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Encyclopedia and of the second ques-

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Sammy Paonessa, age 10, of Niagara Falls, Ontario, for his question:

What are the ingredients in gases?

Nitrogen and oxygen are the main ingredients in the air and they are mixed with traces of dozens of other gases. A gas is not a gas because of what is in it. Almost any substance can be turned to gas. This happens when its basic particles get extra energy and freedom to do as they choose.

Gases are made of chemical ingredients, just like the ingredients that make up the liquid and solid substances. All these materials are made from basic particles of matter called atoms and molecules. Nature uses about 90 different atoms to build all the different solids, liquids and gaseous materials in our world. Chemical elements, such as oxygen, are made of atoms of one kind. But most atoms tend to unite and form molecule packages. One atom of oxygen and two atoms of hydrogen form a basic particle of water. Chemical compounds, such as water, are made of molecules of one kind.

Each atom or molecule is unique in size, shape and behavior. But all these basic particles of matter must obey certain rules. Particles of each type have a built-in attraction for each other. This is why atoms of gold cling together in solid nuggets. But enough heat can change a solid substance into a liquid. And still more heat can change it into a gaseous vapor. This is because heat makes the basic particles in a substance move faster and still faster. Some substances need more heat, some need less. But at a certain temperature, the particles move fast enough to break the bonds of attraction that hold them together.

Particles Separate

At this point, the substance becomes a gas. Its basic particles separate and zoom off in all directions. Now they must obey the rules that apply to gases. The gaseous particles of the air must spread out and fill every corner of the room. When a liquid is emptied from a bottle, the gas particles must rush inside and fill the space to the brim. The separate particles are too small to be seen. Scientists estimate that the number of gas molecules in a quart bottle is roughly 30 followed by 21 zeros. The inside of the bottle looks calm and peaceful — but this is far from true. Those teeming air molecules are zooming around at about 1,000 miles per hour. They zig and zag, bouncing off the glass walls and bashing into each other. In one second, each gaseous particle gets into an average of five billion traffic collisions.

The basic ingredients of ordinary air are nitrogen and oxygen, argon and carbon dioxide, neon and xenon, krypton and helium. The particles of these substances get enough heat energy to separate and become gases at everyday temperatures. They are gases under normal conditions. Water particles need more than twice as much heat to speed up and separate. At 100 degrees Centigrade, the water boils and its separate molecules become gaseous vapor. Iron atoms need the heat energy of 3,000 degrees to separate from each other. With enough heat, almost every ingredient can reach the gaseous state. When this happens, its separate particles zoom off and mingle with the other gaseous ingredients of the air.

This measuring job took many many years and it is only as accurate as human beings can make it. It will be done again and again in the future and each time the figure will be perhaps a hair's breadth closer to the exact truth. It is, as we all know, the distance a beam of light travels in one earth year — which is 365¼ earth days. In round figures, the speed of light is 186,000 miles per second. When this number is multiplied by the number of seconds in one earth year, we get the number of miles in the light year.

This big numer is close to six million million miles. We can be somewhat more exact and say that it is 5,880 thousand million miles — which is 5,880 followed by nine zeros. So far as we know, nothing in the universe travels faster than light. But radio and other forms of electromagnetic energy equal its speed.

Cures for Hiccup Attack

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Alvarez

Many children get hiccup, commonly after laughing uproariously. Nearly always they can stop the hiccups by sipping some water. Hiccup is due to a spasm of the diaphragm (the muscle - containing membrane which divides the cavity of the chest from the abdominal cavity). Curiously, the nerves to the diaphragm arise in the middle of the neck.

In rare cases in which a hiccup is particularly bad and persistent, a doctor will inject an anesthetic drug alongside of the phrenic nerve (that supplies the diaphragm) in the neck, or he will cut the nerve. This will paralyze one half of the diaphgram, and should stop the hiccup. In the cases of long-lasting hiccup, the cause is probably a virus.

Sometimes much mental concentration will stop a severe attack of hiccup. I remember once when I was a boy and had a long-lasting hiccup, and Scottish woman who was present told me that she knew about some mischief I had been into and she was going to tell my mother on me. I became so concerned, wondering which bit of mischief she had caught me in, that soon I lost my hiccups.

* * *

There is an old story about a very proper maiden lady who went to her old doctor because of severe hiccups that she could not stop. He said to her, "I know what is wrong; you are pregnant!" With this the woman became outraged and angry, and denied it hotly. Then the doctor laughed and called her attention to the fact that he had cured her hiccups.

When occasionally a patient comes in to say that he has been hiccupping steadily for two or three days, I always cure him by giving him a big dose of a barbiturate, thus putting him to sleep. When he wakes, he is well.

Sometimes a person will have severe hiccups after an abdominal operation, and then it is apparently due to some irritation of the diaphragm produced by waves which come running up the bowel and stomach from some irritated place. I know that many years ago when I had an abdominal operation, for two days I kept having severe hiccups, which were quickly stopped when my good friend and surgeon, Dr. Charles W. Mayo, gave me a good-sized dose of a strong barbiturate.

* * *

Today, many people with a very severe "Bright's disease" can be kept alive by hooking up an artery and a vein to an artificial kidney. This apparatus washes out of the person's blood the poisons that a good kidney throws out each day in the urine.

By increasing the size of the hospital divisions for the use of artificial kidneys from perhaps three beds to 20 beds, the cost to a patient for the use of a big artificial kidney for a year has been cut from $20,000 or $30,000 to about $10,000. According to Dr. B. A. Schribner of the School of Medicine in Seattle, dialysis (washing poisons out of the blood) at home with a small unit costs from $3,000 to $5,000 a year—after an initial outlay of about $14,000 for the purchase of the unit. It is to be hoped that before long a smaller, and much less expensive artificial kidney will be designed. Able men are working on the problem.

VOLUNTEERS WANTED

Just Turn Up —With a Shovel

Volunteers are wanted to help complete the historic three-mile Goldsream trail.

Members of the Outdoor Club of Victoria who initiated the project last year, will be working on the trail this spring each Sunday starting at 11 a.m.

But they could do with some extra help to complete the scenic woodland path, trail committee chairman A. H. Salmond said today.

Volunteers are asked to bring along a tool, such as a mattock, shovel or clippers.

DEEP GULLIES

The route of this portion of the trail takes in deep gullies and an old gold mine dating back at least 100 years. It finally descends into Niagara Canyon (above the falls), before proceeding down to the Trans-Canada Highway.

Last year the club completed the southerly half of the trail from Campsite 40 to the highway. This is opened to the public.

However, the Mount Finlayson Trail, also situated at Goldstream, has been closed to the public due to logging operations being carried out on the mountainside.

RANGERS

In the past years, the trail has been maintained by the South Vancouver Island Rangers.

Gordon Sword, chairman of the Rangers' conservation committee, said signs are being posted at the foot of the trail to warn the public of the closure.

STILL SHELLING OUT

It costs the U.S. government about $24,000 a year to maintain the abandoned prison of Alcatraz, in San Francisco Bay.

JOHN FARQUHARSON SURVEYS HIS WATER-PROOFED FLOCK

STUBBORN SCOTSMAN . . . . . . ANSWERS HIS CRITICS

345 'Baas' Prove He's Right

By TERRY IZZARD
Times Staff Reporter

The critics said "baa" to John Farquharson's plan.

Today he has 345 little "baas" to prove he was right.

A market gardener in the lush Comox Valley, Mr. Farquharson, 45, is one of the first men on Vancouver Island to raise sheep in a big way.

And so far he appears to be succeeding where others have failed.

"There's too much rain and the humidity's too high."

To overcome the problem Mr. Farquharson's taken a leaf from the poultry farmer's book—he keeps his sheep indoors.

His first batch of 240 ewes have produced 345 lambs to date and there are more on the way.

To keep the flock dry, Mr. Farquharson built two large pens covered with plastic.

From November to April the sheep live indoors except for occasional exercise on dry days.

During the dry summer months they are allowed to graze at will on the pasture portion of the 223-acre farm.

"It seems to be working out alright," said Mr. Farquharson.

"But this is the first year and it's still in the experimental stage."

The lambs will be kept indoors for the next three months after which they will be allowed out for a month.

Then they head for the slaughter house and the dinner table.

Meanwhile, as an added bonus, the ewes will be divested of their shaggy coats which fetch $3 apiece.

Since arriving in Canada 14 years ago, Mr. Farquharson has brought several new ideas to farming.

He started the present farm on the outskirts of Courtenay with 90 acres.

These he sowed with strawberry, potatoes and corn.

But instead of sending the crop to distributors, he built his own retail store.

In the strawberry season people are allowed into the fields to pick their own dessert.

This way they pay less and get the cream of the crop.

"We should weigh some of the kids as they go out," joked Mr. Farquharson. "But people are pretty honest on the whole."

Sixteen acres have been set aside for strawberry crops this year—double that in past years.

And if business continues as it has been doing Mr. Farquharson will be the one saying "baa" to his critics.

MLA Asks Help For Coast Trial

The provincial government was urged in the legislature Wednesday night to donate some money and manpower towards rehabilitation of the West Coast trail between Bamfield and Port Renfrew as a hiking route.

"There are estimates that we could attract 30,000 people to use such a trail, people from all over the world as well as Vancouver Island and the rest of B.C.," said Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay).

Speaking during recreation and conservation department estimates, he said the government was giving moral support to the Boy Scouts Association which was rehabilitating the trail as a centennial project but it should also give financial support.

VOLUNTEERS HELP

"The cost of putting it into shape would be between $3,000 and $5,000 and the annual maintenance cost would be between $500 and $800, depending on how much volunteer labor could be obtained," he said.

"This is not a large sum of money but if it was spent and this trail developed and advertised properly, it could attract hikers from all over the world and mean considerable business to all the hotels on the west coast of this Island as well."

Mr. Macfarlance added that the department should begin planning now for an extension of the trail from Port Renfrew to Victoria in future years.

Society Smokes Peace Pipe

It was the first concrete indication of a truce between the two since the society lost its 80-year-old grounds and buildings 12 years ago when it was found they had no valid lease with the Indians.

At that time, everything passed into Indian possession.

To show there are no more hard feelings, society president Henry Westwick praised the Indian efforts to build a cultural centre as a centennial project.

Committee members appointed for the next year are: R. Wilson, S. Owens, N. Quist, G. Grier, J. Van Eyk, G. Kusters, D. Ellison, D. Morton, K. Jameson, S. Stevenson, T. Bazett, J. Hill, T. Groves, J. Mutter and G. Braithwaite.

Land Purchased Adjoining Park For Kindergarten

DUNCAN—A 1½-acre site adjoining Wharncliffe Park will be bought by Cowichan school board for $8,000.

It will be the home of a new two-classroom kindergarten and one-classroom Grade 1 school to be opened in September.

Previously the board lost a school site on Wharncliffe Road when the price zoomed from $21,000 to $30,000 after the board's interest leaked out prematurely.

George Routley, works superintendent, said the site is sufficient for a six-classroom school provided the public park is available as playground.

Cowichan Endorses Nanaimo College Site

DUNCAN—Trustees of Cowichan school board have unanimously endorsed the idea of a regional college on a site just north of Nanaimo.

Neil Dorning, board chairman, said a plebiscite to find out public opinion will be held in the district soon, but no date has yet been set.

He said public meetings will be held to inform the public what construction of the college entails.

Trustee Joseph Frumento said it is important for the local public to realize Courtenay and Campbell River have agreed to avoid their earlier intention to a request a branch campus in that area.

Dr. Dorning said: 'If we go into the development of a regional college at Nanaimo we will have a commitment in respect of the operating costs even though we might subsequently take an interest in a college at Victoria."

Trustee Will Dobson, a member of the college co-ordinating committee, said: "There is terrific public interest in the college idea."

He pointed out that unlike universities a regional college will come under the Public Schools Act and local taxpayers meet 50 per cent of the operating costs.

School Bus Turned Down

DUNCAN — The department of education has rejected a Cowichan school board request for an additional school bus.

It was told this week it may apply again in September.

Dr. Neil Dorning, board chairman, said: "We don't want to be put in the position of having to rent transportation."

Trustee Geral Patterson, chairman of the trnsportation committee, said they have the necessary funds to rent if it becomes necessary.

It's Something Upon Which We Can Hang a Plaque On!

DUNCAN — This city must be one of the few places in Canada which hasn't yet decided on its centennial project.

And the local centennial committee hasn't met in a year.

Latest idea mentioned in council is a commemorative fountain, and it is being publicly ridiculed.

A typical reaction came from Mrs. Jean McClure, Ypres Street, who said: "What a blundering example of what Duncan needs least as a centennial project.

"Why do our children have to journey to Nanaimo to play hockey; to Victoria to roller skate, or to Brannan Lake School to swim in a pool?"

* * *

Ald. Barney Cocks, chairman of the centennial committee, said Wednesday the fountain was "just an expression of opinion" in council and never voted upon.

But Mayor Jack Dobson said: "It has been more or less decided to spend the bulk of the centennial grant on the improvement of existing playing fields.

"The fountain will be just a token gesture—a monument to the centenary of Canada and something upon which to hang a plaque."

The centennial committee's first suggestion back in 1965 was recreational development of 10 acres of land already named Centennial Park and lying to the east of Centennial Heights subdivision.

Council decided it was too costly to drain.

The committee's second suggestion, and the last time it met, was the building of a fieldhouse at Wharncliffe Park.

Council accepted the idea and had an architect draw up plans, but backed off when the cost was estimated at $60,000.

Duncan's centennial grants will total about $12,000.

* * *

The architect revised his plans and halved the cost, but Mayor Dobson said Wednesday: "It was not revised to our satisfaction."

He said: "We are trying to set up a meeting with our recreation commission as council is on record that the centennial money will be spent on recreation.

"The commission has said the greatest need is for playing fields."

Regarding a swimming pool or arena, Mayor Dobson said: "Neither the city, municipality of North Cowichan nor the unorganized area to the south can alone afford to build the type of facility required for the whole community."

A joint sub-committee of the recreation commissions of the three areas, under the chairmanship of Jack Efford, is still investigating the setting up of a regional district to finance the building of a swimming pool.

But about the fountain — Mayor Dobson says: "We're not trying to emulate Premier Bennett."

ISLAND ROUNDUP

Mechanical Clam Diggers Encouraged

Use of mechanical clam diggers around Vancouver Island is being encouraged by the provincial commercial fisheries branch.

The branch wants to see greater exploitation of natural clam resources which has been virtually impossible due to the low landings provided by conventional hand-digging methods.

All would-be users of mechanical diggers must first obtain permits to use these devices from the federal department of fisheries.

Officials of the commercial fisheries branch recently held a meeting with parks branch representatives to delineate areas of foreshore on or adjacent to parks over which mechanical clam digging would not be permitted.

The commercial fisheries branch says no conservation problems are associated with the use of mechanical clam diggers.

DUNCAN—Sporting highlight of Easter weekend here will be the three-day horse show.

Cowichan Pony Club is sponsoring an English-style junior show at the exhibition grounds all day Saturday. This will include competitive jumping.

Sunday's events at the same ground will include western riding and dressage.

The annual Cowichan Riding Club's hunter trials will be staged Monday at the Circle 6 ranch on Genoa Bay Road.

The weekend will feature two eight-mile water events.

Good Friday will see senior and junior races for outboard motor boats. The course is from the Government Wharf at Cowichan Bay up Cowichan River to the White Bridge and back. So far there are 11 entries.

On Sunday, Cowichan Water Buoys (a skin-divers' club) will run its second annual river race. This eight-mile course is from Riverbottom, downstream, to the White Bridge. The total of 38 entries includes two two-man teams from Edmonton.

An American living in Sooke since last fall pleaded guilty to theft and false pretences charges when he appeared in Sooke court Wednesday.

Roy Elton Hannah, 44, took $400 and some clothes and fled, two days after he was taken in to a Sooke home, court was told.

The accused was arrested in Prince Albert, Sask., last week and returned by police to face the charges.

Hannah was remanded to March 30 for sentence.

He was one of the original members of Tofino Board of Trade when it was set up in 1929.

He is also a life member of the local legion.

Port Albernik Ahousat, Tofino, Ucluelet and Bamfield telephone exchanges will be included in the 1967 Central Island telephone directory.

L. A. Huxtable, B.C. Telephone's district manager at Nanaimo, announced the new directory will be issued approximately Nov. 15, 1967, and will also include all exchanges from Cobble Hill in the south to Bowser in the north.

Joaging Along To Nanaimo

The centennial Pony Express scroll today began the second day of its horse back ride to Expo 67.

After an overnight stay at Chemainus, it was due to arrive in Nanaimo by tonight.

Wednesday's riders, who carried the parchment from the Legislative Building to Duncan, were entertained to a dinner in Duncan Wednesday night.

Awaiting the riders when they arrived in the city were Duncan Mayor Jack Dobson and North Cowichan Reeve Don Morton.

The scroll was originally brought to Victoria in January by Al Le Gate after a marathon ride from Mexico.

Service Clubs, Councils Study Recreation Complex

It would serve residents of Sidney, North Saanich and Central Saanich — an area with a population of about 10,000.

A meeting will be held at the Sidney Hotel on April 12 to set up a committee to look into the project and to estimate costs.

Representatives of all service clubs, recreational and municipal councils, have been invited to attend.

The move to establish a recreational centre to serve people in the north half of the peninsula, was triggered by the Rotary Club of Sidney.

A meeting was called last week to discuss launching the project. Representatives of the Lions of Sidney, VU-22 Squadron, Elks Lodge, Kinsmen and the Royal Canadian Legion were present.

Representatives agreed to consult their various organizations and to report back at the April 12 meeting.

Sidney, North Saanich and Central Saanich councils have backed the project in principle.

Rev. C. Howard McDiarmid, chairman of the project committee, said the general feeling of members is that it would be better for clubs to pool their funds to build one large project than several little ones.

"The feeling is that we can build a worthwhile recreational centre if we jointly undertake the project," he said.

"We don't know what the cost would be," he added, "but one person estimated it would average out to about $10 per person or about $100,000."

Comox Valley Garbage in Demand

When city council put the garbage collection out to tender, three people bid for the job—Richard Moore of Port Alberni, $40,000; Cochrane Fuel, present contractors, $26,880, and Raymond Ross, of Courtenay, $23,900.

Mr. Ross at present collects garbage from Comox RCAF base.

Appearing at the meeting which made the choice of garbage collectors, Gordon Cochrane warned council that he didn't feel Mr. Ross could do a proper job for the amount he'd bid.

But Ald. Dan Woodrow, speaking for the health committee, said the matter had been discussed with Mr. Ross and he will get the job April 1.

By JOHN MIKA

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes is expected to prorogue the first session of the 28th legislative assembly sometime this evening.

It has held 63 afternoon and night sittings since opening in New Westminster's Queen's Park Arena Jan. 23 to mark the 100th anniversary of the first Legislature's meeting in the city.

MLAs completed scrutiny of spending estimates totaling $739.3 million at 4:20 a.m. today at the end of the latest night sitting of the session.

Final appropriations to receive approval were $21.3 million for public works department, $5.1 million for recreation and conservation department, $1.9 million for the new travel industry department, $427,989 for the public utilities commission and $28,500 for the salaries and office expenses of the three women ministers-without-portfolio.

An NDP motion to adjourn at 1:10 a.m. was defeated by the government and, during a wrangle later, Premier Bennett shouted that the house would sit all night if necessary to complete the government's agenda.

Wednesday afternoon they pushed through clause-by-clause study and third readings of nine government bills after wading through 31 the previous day.

Still left to clean up today were 20 private bills, almost all proposed by opposition members and facing defeat or out of order rulings, and 14 resolutions on subjects ranging from provision of free drugs to children suffering from shegella sonnei to an appeal for an end to the war in Vietnam.

PULP WORKERS

Autonomy Bid Splits Union

OTTAWA (CP) — A British Columbia move "to establish Canadian autonomy" in the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers was made today at the union's first Canadian conference.

Joe Kane of Powell River moved a motion to this effect moments after International President Joseph P. Tonelli had called for unity in a fighting speech.

The Kane motion which appeared to have little support outside the British Columbia delegation sought a change by which Canadian vice-presidents would be elected by the membership of the regions they represent.

Mr. Tonelli, from Fort Edward, N.Y., said in a 30-minute address that if British Columbia hadn't been given a vice-president in 1959 the union wouldn't be plagued by the problems it has now.

UNIONS RAIDING

Raiding by other unions and internal dissension have cut into the West Coast membership. About 15,000 of the union's 40,000 Canadian members are from B.C.

Mr. Tonelli said the whole pulp and paper industry is going to be dominated by 15 to 18 companies.

"We're going to be confronted by giants," he said. "There will no longer be the small independent companies we can take by the neck and pull across the conference table."

Mr. Tonelli said that this is why dissension within the union makes him sick.

"How is the little union going to cope with the giants I mentioned?" Mr. Tonelli said the dissenters are not trade unionists.

"They have other ulterior motives."

WANT STRONG TIES

B.C. delegates who supported the motion said they want to maintain a strong alliance with the international union but they also want the right to make their own decisions.

They expressed concern that the union head office might appoint western organizer Pat O'Neal to succeed ailing B.C. Vice - President Stanley Green. Mr. Green himself was given solid support.

Mr. O'Neal was involved in the electronic bugging last fall of a Vancouver convention of the rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

Mr. Tonelli said regionally elected vice - presidents would result in nothing but "rotten politics." The move would weaken the union and lead to similar demands in U.S. regions.

NAMES SUCCESSOR

He said that Canadian Director Louis H. Lorrain would succeed him today as international president if he passed away.

Mr. Lorrain himself said that the president had come to the conference to consult, not to tell.

"Don't say that Joe Tonelli came down here to tell the Canadians they can't lead themselves," he told a reporter from the podium.

Preliminary Talks Open In Moscow

The meeting was the first announced followup to President Johnson's statement March 2 that the Soviet government had agreed "to discuss means of limiting the arms race in offensive and defensive nuclear missiles."

The U.S. embassy said Thompson and Gromyko talked for about 30 minutes about efforts to arrange detailed talks.

Bankrupt Finance Firm Accused of Deception

TORONTO (CP) — A deliberate plan to deceive the public appears to have been involved in the operations of the now-bankrupt Prudential Finance Corp. Ltd., says a report of the Ontario Securities Commission.

An interim report on the tangled affairs of the corporation, tabled in the Ontario legislature Wednesday by Leslie Rowntree, commercial affairs minister, calls for more investigation.

The same line was taken in a report prepared by Clarkson, Gordon and Co., chartered accountants.

The commission report says provinces other than Ontario may be able to uncover illegal trading if they take a look.

"There is a strong presumption that there was a deliberate plan to deceive the public, the commission and its staff as to the true financial picture of the company," says the securities commission report.

Concentrating on the activities of Joseph Benoit Brien, who acquired control of Prudential Finance in 1961 and now faces six charges as a result of its collapse, the reports say he adopted a consistent program of deliberately inflating the value of assets.

Other findings indicated that assets were manipulated to the detriment of all but an inside group. Total net losses from Jan. 1, 1961, to Nov. 18, 1966, amounted to $17,356,024.

The reports say further criminal charges may be necessary and the possibility of civil legal action exists.

Mr. Rowntree said completion of the investigation into the collapse of Prudential Finance could take "a few weeks."

Mr. Rowntree said the investigation so far has been fruitful. Charges had been laid against two companies and five individuals and it was possible that more charges would be laid as the investigation proceeded.

NOTHING PLANNED

Mr. Rowntree said he didn't know what, if any, action the government would take on behalf of about 8,500 Prudential creditors.

Many elderly people who reported losing their savings were among about 8,500 investors involved in Prudential Finance. About 3,500 investors in Ontario and 5,000 outside the province may get back about 15 cents on the dollar.

The Clarkson, Gordon report says that in further investigations priority should be given to circumstances surrounding apparent false financial statements and a prospectus filed with the Ontario Securities Commission in 1963 to get approval for sale of securities in the province.

Of the 1963 prospectus, Clarkson, Gordon says it contained inaccuracies and did not include information required by law. After July 1, 1963, Prudential Finance sold securities in Quebec, British Columbia, Alberta, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia as well as Ontario.

MAKES OTHER POINTS

The Clarkson, Gordon report makes these points about the collapse:

—The company could not make enough money to meet overhead resulting from rapid expansion, or to cover the high cost of borrowed funds and absorb losses on speculative loans and investments.

—There were losses on investments and loans concerning unrelated companies, subsidiary companies and companies controlled by Brien.

The report says Prudential

Nurses Press Demand For Salary Increase

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Psychiatric and registered nurses in British Columbia government hospitals decided Wednesday to appeal to Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes for help in their bid for increased salaries.

Mrs. Faye Hartford of Surrey, secretary of the Psychiatric Nurses Association said the meeting also agreed to send letters to all MLAs and if "we don't hear by March 29 we will hold a mass rally. . . ."

She added, however, the nurses won't strike because "we're pledged not to." She said the 1,300 nurses want a 25-per-cent increase on present salaries that range from $362 to $432 a month.

Meanwhile, Dr. Ken Davies, chairman of the psychiatric section of the B.C. Medical Association, complained in a statement Wednesday about a committee appointed by the government to study complaints by the psychiatric staff at Riverview mental hospital here.

He said the committee should include persons from all branches of psychiatry. The only psychiatrist on the committee is Dr. F. G. Tucker, deputy director of mental health services.

"We are concerned primarily with the basic attitude of the government toward treatment services," said Dr. Davies.

The mental health services situation is acute, he added.

Do-Nothing Gas Report Action Hit

New Laws Demanded By Grit

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

A prorogation-day storm blew up for the Legislature this afternoon in the wake of a special committee's majority report on gas prices that was tabled shortly before dawn at the end of a night sitting.

The report recommended virtually no action to follow up the Morrow Royal Commission's findings except for setting up another review committee in two years time.

But the four NDP members of the committee attacked the government party's refusal to permit them to table a minority report. And Alan Macfarlane, the only Liberal member of the committee, said he would repudiate the majority report which he had supported because the final written version tabled by the chairman conflicted with the concensus of nine Socreds and himself.

CHAIRMAN

"That report does not represent what went on in the committee," he angrily declared outside the legislature after copies of the document signed by chairman Herb Capozzi (S.C—Vancouver-Centre), were distributed.

He said he would see Speaker William Murray before the afternoon sitting, expected to be the last of the session, to determine the best procedure for disavowing the majority report officially.

Mr. Macfarlane objected to the report's sections which recommended "legislation if necessary" which he said was supposed to read "legislation was necessary" to prohibit retroactively consignment selling and gasoline supply agreements beyond five years between oil companies and retailers.

CRITICIZED

He added the report did not make it clear, as it was supposed to, that the oil companies had refused to commit themselves against reviving these practices criticized by commissioner Judge Charles Morrow.

The NDP minority report recommended establishment of a crown corporation for pilot operation of a refinery and gasoline distribution system to retailers to see if this competitive device could force the oil industry to reduce gasoline prices.

Alex Macdonald (NDP — Vancouver East) said the majority report "fails completely to deal with monopoly prices in this industry and does not deal with more than a small part of the recommendations of Judge Morrow."

But his sharpest criticism was aimed at the government's refusal to allow tabling of the

GALBRAITH VIEWS ON CANADA-U.S.

"Can Canada survive another century as a neighbor of United States?" is the questiou posed in Weekend Magazine

VIOLATION CHARGED

U.S. 'Captures' Russ Fishboat

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A Soviet fishing vessel—the second to be accused this month of violating United States rights in Alaskan waters — was being towed toward Kodiak today by a United States Coast Guard cutter.

Capt. Robert Emerson, commander of the coast guard station at Kodiak, said the Russian skipper refused to follow the cutter Storis to port so the vessel was taken under tow. If the Russian changes his mind and proceeds under his own power the vessels could arrive by late afternoon. The tow would take nearly two days.

The 178-foot trawler, SRTM 8-457, was boarded south of the Shumagin Islands Wednesday after a coast guard aircraft had engaged in "hot pursuit" of the vessel for 10 miles.

The coast guard said the aircraft, on routine law-enforcement patrol, spotted the trawler fishing 5.5 miles east of Seal Cape in the Shumagins, a violation of the U.S. 12-mile exclusive fisheries zone which went into effect March 17.

IGNORES ORDER

The aircraft signalled the ship to heave-to and await arrival of a government ship. Instead, the trawler picked up her fishing gear and headed toward international water. The Storis overtook the ship 15 miles off shore.

The scene was about 100 miles southwest of the spot the Soviet trawler SRT M8 - 413 seized March 2 for violation of the three-mile territorial limit at Mitrofania Island, some 40 miles southwest of Chignik on the Alaska peninsula.

Nicolai G. Zernov, skipper of that vessel, was fined $5,000, an amount Alaska Governor Walter J. Sickel called "measly."

WIRE BRIEFS

Two Men Charged

SHELBURNE, N.S. (CP)—Two Shelburne men were charged today with stealing the 84-foot scallop dragger Hansen from her berth here Wednesday.

William Blandford Atwood, 21, and William Eugene Jacklyn were charged with theft of goods valued at more than $50.

Storm Hits Peace

FORT ST. JOHN (CP) — Winds gusting up to 50 miles an hour played havoc with road traffic today and forced closure of all schools in the North and South Peace River districts.

Freighter Set Afire

Army Ranks Split

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (UPI)—Barracks fighting broke out today among troops backing rival factions in the political showdown which followed last week's elections. Reliable reports said the split in army ranks grew into fighting but gave no details of the extent of the conflict.

BAN SOUGHT IN U.S. ON AIRPORT INSURANCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Congress was asked today to ban the sale of airline trip insurance at airport counters or by vending machines in an effort to curb airliner sabotage.

Senator James B. Pearson (Rep., Kan.), asked this in legislation he said would provide "greater safety for the travelling public on commercial airlines".

The senator said six accidents, in which 210 persons died, had been caused by sabotage since 1955.

Pearson said in a statement his proposal "would be a responsible step to remove an inducement which has been closely connected to actions of irrational human behavior which have cost many innocent lives".

Casualty Lists Growing As Ground War Expands

SAIGON (AP) — The ever-mounting cost of the Vietnam war was underscored today by the announcement of record American and Communist casualties last week while both sides increased in total strength.

Communist mortar barrages accounted for much of the rising U.S. casualties, and more of these were reported Wednesday and today in two sensitive war spots.

Mortar shells rained down on U.S. positions just below the demilitarized zone separating North and South Vietnam and along the Cambodian border where the biggest U.S. jungle sweep of the war is under way.

The U.S. command also disclosed that 18 such ground sweeps now are being conducted, an indication that a high level of casualties can be expected to continue.

The U.S. command said that 2,675 Communist soldiers were killed last week while 211 Americans were killed and 1,874 were wounded.

At the same time, U.S. troop strength in the country grew to 427,000 men, while U.S. intelligence estimated Communist strength at 286,000 men, increases of 4,000 on each side. The Communists increased their numbers despite the claimed loss of 19,500 dead—the equivalent of eight full regiments—since the first of the year.

U.S. marines manning the exposed artillery position at Gio Linh, just south of the demilitarized zone, caught the heaviest barrage today. Firing from within the zone, gunners dropped 75 rounds on the marines in a 45-minute barrage. Despite their deep and heavily sandbagged entrenchments, 13 marines were wounded.

Two other Americans were killed and 31 wounded in other barrages that fell on the troops conducting Operation Junction City near the Cambodian frontier northwest of Saigon. This operation saw one of the sharpest battles of the war earlier this week and has become one of the deadliest in the war. U.S. troops have killed 1,772 Communists since it began Feb. 22, headquarters said.

Military headquarters also announced that elements of two South Korean divisions—an estimated 10,000 men—have been engaged in their most ambitious ground operation of the war for the last two weeks. This is a sweep along 45 miles of coastline to clear five Viet Cong battalions, about 2,500 men, from a wide area dominating the coastal highway from Song Cau to Tuy Hoa.

The Koreans said so far they have killed 149 soldiers, captured 150 and seized 146 weapons.

SOVIET PATIENCE WEARING THIN

Arms Talks Recessed in Anger

GENEVA (UPI) — Diplomats today recessed the stalemated disarmament negotiations amid bitterness between the have and have-not nuclear powers and a sense of frustration by both Moscow and Washington.

The 17-nation conference adopted a suggestion by the United States to break up and return to the negotiating table May 9. Russia agreed to the recess as co-chairman of the conference with America.

"The objections (to the treaty) raised by the Federal Republic of Germany are endangering the security of the world," Roshchin said.

The United States wants the pause to try to talk its reluctant allies into accepting the proposed treaty. The American negotiator, William C. Foster, already has tried on a trip to Western European capitals to win wary allies over to the pact, but failed. Japan also has reservations about the treaty.

Meanwhile, both Britain and the United States hoped Moscow's patience does not wear thin. Informed sources said last week in London the Soviet Union was eager to sign the treaty without further delays.

The Western European allies —especially West Germany and Italy—are concerned that the proposed treaty would prevent them from carrying out nuclear testing for peaceful purposes.

The Soviets and the Americans agreed last fall on jointly presenting a draft at the conference when it resumed Feb. 21. However, the sudden doubts in various capitals have caused delays. These doubts must be expelled before Moscow and Washington can table the motion.

A second problem is the matter of who will control inspection of nuclear testing for peaceful purposes. Both Washington and Moscow want the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna to have control. The Western European nations want to keep controls within Euratom.

WEDNESDAY

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Large trade in barley again featured action on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today following Wednesday's large volume of trading.

There was evidence exporters and shippers were buying again and there were reports that Britain purchased two cargoes of Canadian barley, bringing sales this week to an estimated 3,000,000 bushels. Oats trade was basically domestic and prices, as in barley, were steady.

Oilseeds were irregular, flax turned easier and rapeseed prices were lower.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and Domestic sheat were all unchanged.

WCB Assessments Will Be Increased

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some B.C. industries are faced with 40 to 80 per cent jumps in their accident assessments this year compared with 1965, the Workmen's Compensation Board says.

The reason is increased benefit rates introduced in late 1965 and a near-record number of accidents in 1966, said the board's annual report.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Adera Heaviest Trader

Heavy trading of Adera shares marked the morning session on the Vancouver stock exchange today. The issue gained two cents to 81 on a volume of 235,100 shares.

Silver Arrow was another active issue and gained .04 to .39 on 128,000 shares.

Bethlehem was .25 cents better at 6.50 on good financial results and Atlas was up .15 at 2.30.

Losses went to New Imperial, down .25 at 3.40, and Bata which lost .01 to 2.80 on 103,000 shares.

Hudson's Bay climbed 2 to 29⅛, Canadian Superior 1⅞ to 33½, Scurry-Rainbow ¾ to 25½, Dome ½ to a high of 55¾ and Provo 65 cents to 5.85.

There have been reports that Canada may become an increasingly important supplier of oil to the United States because U.S. reserves are not keeping pace with demand.

Chrysler moved up 1½ to 45½, General Motors 1 to 85 and Imperial Oil and Asbestos Corp. ¾ each to 56½ and 25¼.

AT NEW YORK the market widened its gains in active trading.

The market rose from the start of news of additional reductions in the prime interest rate charged by major U.S. banks to their biggest and best customers.

Most major groups, including steels, motors, aerospace issues, utilities, non-ferrous metals, chemicals, rails and oils advanced.

AT MONTREAL prices rallied slightly today.

Gains were fractional, however, and trading was moderate.

Asbestos rose ⅝ to 25¼, Canada Iron ⅜ to 20⅞, Royal Bank ⅝ to 80⅞ and Bathurst ½ to 31¾.

Among the losers, CIL dropped ⅜ to 19¼, Canadienne Nationale ½ to 71 and Quebec Natural Gas ¼ to 12.

AT LONDON equities on today's market at first extended Wednesday's late gains which followed the government's white-paper announcement that the dividend freeze will end in July.

Many early gains were reduced later, however, and although most sections showed a list of useful improvements business ahead of the holiday weekend was on a small scale.

Dollar stocks generally were firm. Noranda was firm. But other Canadian issues were little changed. Canadian banks, however, were better.

22 Safety Standards In Volvo

ROCKLEIGH, N.J. (UPI)—Volvo of Sweden introduced today a new sedan model that incorporates nearly all the new U.S. federal safety standards which become mandatory with 1968 models. The major U.S. auto-makers insist they cannot adopt the same standards by the deadline.

The four-door sedan, called the 144s, meets 17 of the 20 standards created by the National Traffic Agency and five other safety features not required by the regulations.

The five extra features, according to Volvo, Inc., president Stig Jansson, are energy absorbing front and rear body sections, rear brake pressure relief valves, rear window defrosters, safety wheel rims and an antiwhiplash device on the front seat.

Jansson said all the safety features were engineered into the 144s, Volvo's first new sedan in a decade, more than a year before the start of the safety controversy that led to the new government standards.

Business Failures Take Drop

OTTAWA (CP) — There were 678 business failures recorded under the bankruptcy and winding-up acts during the fourth quarter of 1966, a 13-per-cent decline from the same period in 1965, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

The total of defaulted liabilities, however, rose 24.4 per cent to $72,408,000.

The bureau said that for the whole year 1966, there were 8.8-per-cent fewer bankruptcies than in 1965, while total liabilities in default fell to $247,303,000 from $393,650,000.

Although a great deal has been spoken and written about the controversy that threatens the fabric of our still-young university, the man to whom faculty, students and public look for explanations and firm decisions has yet to be heard from.

This is Dr. Malcolm Taylor, University of Victoria's first president, to whose driving administrative ability, that institution of higher learning owes much.

Through his Dr. Taylor's efforts, Uvic has grown in physical size and academic stature at a rate nothing less than astonishing.

Yet now, when future prospects should be bright indeed, it is plain even to the outside observer that here is a university in trouble.

There have been resignations by men whose only apparent motive is a deep conviction that injustices have been visited upon their colleagues, and academic freedom abused.

All this adds up to a situation that needs more daylight letting into it, and the obvious person to do so is our university's chief administrator.

At this point in a dispute which has been both prolonged and pungent, we would all welcome such reassurances as Dr. Taylor finds himself in a position to offer.

Around this time last year, I told you about my sweety's collection of chocolate Easter rabbit ears. A day or two after Win had added the 1966 set to her trove, a yard-long box arrived for her. In it was a card from artist Emily Sartain, and a non-chocolate rabbit of her own manufacture. This swashbuckling bunny wore a Mod-type vest, and sported orange felt ears of unparalleled magnificence.

We found a place of honor for him atop a book-case, and there he lorded it alone until the daffodil winds again began to blow.

Then along came another long box from which hopped a no less splendid she-rabbit in a provocative party dress, bonnet and pearl mecklace. She was generously eared in pink and mauve, and had a scheming look in her eye.

Up beside Mr. Crazy-Ears she went; and that was that until Wednesday, when I came home to find the handsome couple flanked by six long-eared felt children and three of marshmallow.

There was also a note from flower-lady Emily Sartain, who hopes we'll find homes for this extensive brood.

Anyone know of a little girl short of toys or sick in bed who can give a clutch of highly-superior felt Easter bunnies the cherishing they deserve?

On Tuesday, Times sport columnist and handicapper Hal Malone passed the word from B.C. Racing Commission that Vancouver Island's horse-racing future may depend on the volume of public clamor from those who love to watch 'em run.

As one who does, expensive though the spectacle can prove, I now register a public clamor of my own, and hope other improvers of the breed will also make plain their concern over the threatened loss of the annual Sandown meeting.

Further, I see no reason why purse-proud Vancouver, with a long enough season as matters now stand, should profit from our loss by inheriting our 17 race days if B.C. Jockey Club, and North Saanich Council fail to reach an agreement.

Accord is most often reached through compromise in which each disputant displays a willingness to back off, cool off, and in this instance consider others whom a removal from Sandown would affect. These include Island horse-owners and breeders, and thousands of Victorians whose support of Sandown has been both ardent and faithful.

Whatever your feelings in this matter, better make them known fast. The Jocky Club request for a transfer to Exhibition Park is in, and must soon be ruled upon.

DESMOND MOSELEY

IWA Officials Investigating Mishap

Union officials were today investigating an accident which resulted in a logger lying out in the pouring rain all night Tuesday.

He was rushed in Wednesday morning with concussion after lying in the woods west of Sooke unconscious since sometime Tuesday afternoon.

A faller with Sooke River Logging Ltd., he had apparently been hit on the head by a falling snag.

IWA officials visited the scene in the Leech River area Wednesday and spoke with management.

Said a union spokesman: "We have still to talk to the woods crew to find out what happened.

'NOT HAPPY'

A Workmen's Compensation Board inspector also visited the scene Wednesday.

Mr. Moseley had apparently been working alone in the woods when he was knocked out.

It wasn't until his wife phoned the logging office next morning that anyone realized something was wrong.

Mr. Moseley is well known in local baseball circles as a player-manager with Victoria senior amateur league.

Pair Charged In $135 Theft From Sub PO

Two 19-year-old boys have been jointly charged with the theft of $135 from a city sub post office six days ago.

Kenneth McGill, 2390 Oak Bay Ave., and Lawrence Parker of 615 Fernhill had their case remanded to March 29 for plea when they appeared in central court this morning.

They are also jointly charged with the theft of a fishing reel from an Esquimalt Road sporting goods store. That case was remanded six days as well for plea.

Store proprietor and sub postmaster John Pinch told police two youths strolled in and out of his store moments before he found $135 in an envelope missing from a drawer.

Hydro Linesman Burned Badly

Gabriel Arcuri, 47, of 2922 Austin, was injured when he came in contact with a high voltage line while working on Metchosin Road near Sangster School.

Fears Eased For Welfare Patients

A spokesman for two major Victoria private hospitals today eased fears that welfare patients would be asked to find alternative bed space on May 1.

William E. Osland, one of the owners of Glenwarren and Glengarry Private Hospitals said, "The situation is not nearly as desperate" as Ald. Lily Wilson said Wednesday.

Ald. Wilson had stated that private hospitals had set a May 1 deadline for removal of 237 welfare patients if more moeny was not forthcoming for their care.

Ald. Wilson said the situation was alarming and required immediate provincial government action.

Mr. Osland conceded that when Mrs. Wilson made her remarks there had been no formal notice of Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell's announcement of a boost in rates paid for welfare patients.

Mr. Campbell said Wednesday

Dead Woman's Rings Sold by Government To Help Repay City

By PETE LOUDON

Prior to her death in a rest home here, Mrs. Evelyn Mae Looby asked that her wedding and engagement rings be sent to a niece in England.

Instead, they were turned over to the official administrator for the province. They were converted to cash to help repay the city welfare department for Mrs. Looby's funeral.

It's done every day. But what isn't revealed every day is the hurt and shock felt by elderly friends of the deceased.

Here is how the story sounds from the lips of pensioner George Munro, 3035 Cook, who bought back the rings for $71.56 so he could fulfill Mrs. Looby's dying wish.

"Is it in the interest of the human race . . . to have the rings removed and confiscated from the stilled fingers of a lady welfare patient . . . who had passed to the great beyond . . . when the expressed wishes of the deceased were that they should be forwarded to her niece in England?

BARBAROUS CONDUCT

"Such barbarous conduct . . . can be fully confirmed by those who are fully aware of the facts of the case and of the inhumanity—shameful exploitation of the dead."

Mr. Munro can't accept the action as the logical handling of the affairs of a person dying without a will.

Mrs. Looby died Jan. 14, 1963, so the story is four years old. Mr. Munro said he was inspired to make it public by recent charges of welfare department frugality.

"They need a good shaking up," he said.

He said he was not afraid to associate his name with charges of departmental meanness.

And he displayed a receipt from the office of the provincial offical administrator and a covering letter signed by the administrator, Ian Horne QC.

Mr. Munro, a resident of a city rest home, says his friendship with the late Mrs. Looby goes back years. He lived at her home in Vancouver and when she became ill he moved with her to Pender Island and assisted in her care.

Mrs. Looby eventually was moved to hospital at Sidney and subsequently was cared for at The Priory, Langford, and at Glenwarren Private Hospital here, where she died.

He said that prior to her illness they had made a pact. Each changed their savings accounts into joint accounts with the other. If one died the other would have access to the savings to pay for final arrangements.

RECEIPTS FOR $672

When Mrs. Looby became ill, Mr. Munro expended her $600 savings for her care. He says he has receipts covering an amount of $672 he paid for care at Rest Haven and Glenwarren.

But much of her care was covered through welfare offices.

Mr. Munro presumed that it was for this reason the authorities took possession of the rings after her death. A

Private Firm Offers Service For $24,000

2 Aldermen Back Ambulance Plan

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

Victoria has been offered a round-the-clock ambulance service for $24,000 a year.

The offer was revealed to ctiy council this afternoon by Ald. Percy Frampton and immediately won the support of Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

During budget estimate talks earlier this week members of the Victoria finance committee were told the fire department, at present operating the new ambulance service would need at least eight extra men if the service was to continue to operate smoothly.

Fire Chief Eric Simmons had actually asked for 12 new staff members, but had been told that all the city could afford at present was eight.

EIGHT ATTENDANTS

With the approval of the eight extra fire-fighters-come-ambulance-attendants city treasurer James Bramley warned that with a full year of operation facing the city in 1968 the cost of operating the ambulance service would jump to between $75,000 and $80,000 a year.

Even with the new men on staff for only half of this year costs would run around $28,000 in wages the committee was told.

Ald. Frampton told council today that the Garden City Ambulance would undertake to operate the new emergency vehicle for a flat contract rate of $2,000 a month — or $24,000 a year.

He said the city would retain ownership of the vehicle but that the ambulance company would purchase all oil and gasoline.

SAME SERVICE

'They will offer the same service we are providing now," he said. "It would be free of cost to the people and would always be staffed by two men trained in industrial first aid."

He asked Mayor Hugh Stephen to establish a committee to study the proposal and come back to council with a final recommendation.

"I don't expect a decision today," Ald. Frampton said. "All I am asking at this time is that a committee be set up to check this proposal out in detail because it sounds like an excellent idea to me."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, who expressed alsrm at the cost of operating the ambulance system via the fire department, said he fully supported Ald. Frampton's call for a special committee to investigate the proposal.

"WONDERFUL IDEA"

"The costs as revealed to us in committee earlier this week are more than we can stand," he said. "The ambulance service is a wonderful idea and I think we may have a way here where we can provide excellent service at much less cost to the taxpayer."

Ald. Edgelow said that although $80,000 a year had been quoted as the figure necessary to provide ambulance service through the fire department he was sure that figure would top $100,000 a year before too long.

At press time council was still considering the proposal.

Lecturer Questions Handling of Affair

By DESMOND BILL

J. S. (Jerry) Schwartz resigned today from the English department at the University of Victoria.

He was to go before a review committee today for reconsideration of its earlier decision not to renew his contract.

Mr. Schwartz repudiated the committee in a letter to Dr. Malcolm Taylor, university president.

Meanwhile, the student government at Uvic has offered to hire Mr. Schwartz next year as an independent lecturer.

David McLean, president of students' council, said, "We don't want to lose him."

Mr. Schwartz said he was "flattered and gratified" by the offer but did not indicate if he would accept.

J. S. (JERRY) SCHWARTZ

Mr. Schwartz was one of three outspoken faculty members whose contracts were not renewed this year by the university. The others are Dr. Charles Tarlton, of the political science department, and Alan Mackenzie, of the English department.

Their ouster has produced a raging controversy on campus.

It became known today that the faculty association last week asked for a meeting with the Joint Faculties to discuss the non-renewal of contracts.

The faculty association represents almost all the professors at the university. Joint Faculties is an institutional body of the university.

The request for a meeting between the two groups was turned down by Dr. Taylor. The university president said he could not discuss the matter while the cases of some of the principals involved is under appeal.

APPEALS

Dr. Tarlton has appealed his case to the Canadian Association of University Teachers. Mr. Schwartz appealed to a faculty committee which said the committee that originally recommended his ouster should take another look at his case.

He was to have gone before that committee today for reconsideration of its recommendation.

However, in a letter to Dr. Taylor this morning, Mr. Schwartz, disavowed the committee.

His letter questioned the behavior of Dean Alex Wood in the handling of his case and also questioned why standards applied to him were not applied to other faculty.

Mr. Schwartz' letter said that President Taylor is aware of all the things that were pointed out in the letter yet he was still willing to go along with this "foul charage" of referring the matter again to Dean Wood's original committee.

'SPEAKEASY'

Students held a noon-hour "speakeasy" today to air their views aboutt he ousting of three professors. They were asked to ratify a tentative decision to hold a mass rally next Tuesday.

Mr. McLean said next Tuesday's rally will decide whether students should boycott classes on the following day in protest against the firings.

Seven students, including two former presidents of the Students' Council, have circulated an open letter charging that "excellent and dedicated instructors are being removed without justifiable cause but because of comflicts of personality within the university."

The seven said they held meetings with President Taylor, Dean Wood of arts and sciences and Dean R. R. Jeffels to express their "deep concern" about the oustings.

Their letter states that Dean Wood told them, "If these men (Schwartz Tarlton and Mac-

FACULTY ATTACK AROUSES TAYLOR

He issued the following statement:

"As a result of recent open letters to the faculty and of statements in the press I feel it is my duty at this time to place on record a formal and unequivocal statement of my stand on the current situation at the University of Victoria.

"Because it is the right and responsibility of the faculty to judge their fellows and then advise me about such matters as appointments, reappointments, promotions and tenure, I have at all times avoided—as I must avoid now—any public statement that might influence favorably or unfavorably those judgments.

"And yet at the very time that these orderly procedures are being followed the university is being subjected to what appears to be a concerted attack not only upon those of our colleagues who are conscientiously trying to reach decisions but also upon the integrity and competence of the whole faculty. At such a time I cannot remain silent.

"It seems to me now that certain elements are determined to undermine—perhaps even destroy—the professional standing of the faculty and the good name of the university. I therefore protest and condemn any attacks designed to call into question the honesty and competence of my colleagues. Moreover, I wish to assure them of my deep concern and distress over the indignities they have suffered during these past weeks.

'I reaffirm my trust in the integrity, sound judgment and quality of the faculty.

"The distinction of the faculty now here, the calibre of appointments now being made, the awards and honors won by the faculty and students alike, attest to the present and growing reputation of the University of Victoria for academic excellence."

Actress to Share Cavendish Estate

Mrs. Dola Frances Cavendish — last of the 10 children of former B.C. Premier James Dunsmuir — left gross estate to the value of $596,138, it was disclosed in her will probated at Victoria Law Courts today.

LENGTHY ILLNESS

Mrs. Cavendish died in Richmond Heights private hospital last Dec. 9 after a lengthy illness. She was the youngest of the eight daughters of James Dunsmuir, who was premier of B.C. from 1900 to 1902.

Premier Dunsmuir was the son of Robert Dunsmuir, pioneer mine owner on Vancouver Island.

Mrs. Cavendish was buried, at her own request, in the churchyard of St. John the Baptist Anglican Church, Colwood, close by the one-time Dunsmuir estate, where she spent her childhood.

In her will Mrs. Cavendish directed that she be buried "in a plot shaded by a tree" and that her coffin be "inexpensively made from a native B.C. wood."

In addition to a large number of bequests to relatives, friends and employees, Mrs. Cavendish left various gifts to charity. They included:

GIFTS

$250 to St. John's Church, Colwood.

$500 to St. Joseph's Hospital.

$250 to the Colwood Women's Institute.

To the Little Church Around the Corner, New York City, Mrs. Cavendish bequeathed two George III Scotch silver goblets (made in Edinburgh, Scotland in 1794).

Sandown Supporters Off and Running to Retain Island Track

By HAL MALONE

Public support mushroomed today for retention of horse racing on Vancouver Island.

Private citizens, businessmen and owners indicated they had sent letters in support of racing at Sandown Park to the B.C. Racing Commission and the attorney-general's office.

The scheduled 17-day meeting has been threatened by a dispute between North Saanich district and B.C. Jockey Club which operates the track.

The Jockey Club has requested the commission to transfer Sandown dates to Vancouver.

In Victoria, Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow, also an owner-breeder, urged North Saanich council to take "a big look" at the conditions they seek to impose on the Jockey Club.

"Why make it difficult for the operators to carry on? There aren't the people to justify vast expenditures."

He was referring to improved sanitation and fire-fighting facilities sought by North Saanich. The district also seeks a $150 daily licence fee.

Alderman Edgelow also warned that if people interested in racing at Sandown don't speak up "loud and clear" the commission would be "quite right" in granting the transfer.

"If the Island loses racing now," he said, "it will be gone forever."

The alderman disagreed with North Saanich's request that existing and replacement barns should contain sprinklers.

"No sprinklers could have stopped the fire at Sandown last October. That was not a natural fire. A man was charged with arson and is serving a sentence."

Ald. Edgelow said he "couldn't understand" why the fire marshal's office is satisfied with fire-prevention facilities at Vancouver, which does not have sprinklers, yet recommends them for Sandown.

"There are various ways of reading between the lines of the fire marshal's report," he said. "If North Saanich wants to make the firmest interpretation they'll never have a fire at Sandown."

Meanwhile a spokesman for Sidney-North Saanich Chamber of Commerce said his group "will do anything it can to promote racing at Sandown."

Walter Bloxham, operator of Sidney Travelodge, said the Sandown season is "an essential part of our industry, of virtually every industry in this area."

"I would like to see both sides sit down at the negotiating table. And I think they should try and reach a long-term agreement instead of bargaining on a yearly basis."

Mr. Bloxham said it was "essential" for tourist industry operators to know soon if Sandown will operate "so we can line up employees for the six weeks of racing."

Horseman-breeder-businessman George Harknett predicted the breeding industry on Vancouver Island "would completely fall apart" if the transfer is approved.

A recent survey by B.C. Throughbred Breeders' Society disclosed there are 10 stallions, 153 brood mares, 77 young horses and 101 horses of racing age on the Island.

Mr. Harknett said the "man on the street" is greatly concerned with Sandown's future.

"If Mr. (Ken) McConnell (Commission secretary) wants to hear public opinion on this he can sit in my office any day and get an earful."

In letters to the commission and Attorney-General Bonner, racing supporter Ruth Collis, 921 Royal Terrace, wrote: "I didn't realize that we in Victoria would have to stand up and shout for something that is rightfully ours."

She also wrote that Sandown racing "provides employment for residents of the district, sees houses rented that otherwise would not be and generally gives a lift to the economy of the whole area."

She said that Americans take their holidays to coincide with the Sandown fall meeting "because they find it is an entirely different and most enjoyable atmosphere."

Night-Long Debate Sets Stage to End B.C. Session Today

By JOHN MIKA

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes is expected to prorogue the first session of the 28th legislative assembly sometime this evening.

It has held 63 afternoon and night sittings since opening in New Westminster's Queen's Park Arena Jan. 24 to mark the 100th anniversary of the first Legislature's meeting in the city.

MLAs completed scrutiny of spending estimates totaling $739.3 million at 4:20 a.m. today at the end of the latest night sitting of the session.

Final appropriations to receive approval were $21.3 million for public works department, $5.1 million for recreation and conservation department, $1.9 million for the new travel industry department, $427,989 for the public utilities commission and $28,500 for the salaries and office expenses of the three women ministers-without-portfolio.

An NDP motion to adjourn at 1:10 a.m. was defeated by the government and, during a wrangle later, Premier Bennett shouted that the house would sit all night if necessary to complete the government's agenda.

Wednesday afternoon they pushed through clause-by-clause study and third readings of nine government bills after wading through 31 the previous day.

Still left to clean up today were 20 private bills, almost all proposed by opposition members and facing defeat or out of order rulings, and 14 resolutions on subjects ranging from provision of free drugs to children suffering from shegella sonnei to an appeal for an end to the war in Vietnam.

PULP WORKERS

Autonomy Bid Splits Union

OTTAWA (CP) — A British Columbia move "to establish Canadian autonomy" in the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers was made today at the union's first Canadian conference.

Joe Kane of Powell River moved a motion to this effect moments after International President Joseph P. Tonelli had called for unity in a fighting speech.

The Kane motion which appeared to have little support outside the British Columbia delegation sought a change by which Canadian vice-presidents would be elected by the membership of the regions they represent.

Mr. Tonelli, from Fort Edward, N.Y., said in a 30-minute address that if British Columbia hadn't been given a vice-president in 1959 the union wouldn't be plagued by the problems it has now.

UNIONS RAIDING

Raiding by other unions and internal dissension have cut into the West Coast membership. About 15,000 of the union's 40,000 Canadian members are from B.C.

Mr. Tonelli said the whole pulp and paper industry is going to be dominated by 15 to 18 companies.

"We're going to be confronted by giants," he said. "There will no longer be the small independent companies we can take by the neck and pull across the conference table."

Mr. Tonelli said that this is why dissension within the union makes him sick.

"How is the little union going to cope with the giants I mentioned?" Mr. Tonelli said the dissenters are not trade unionists.

"They have other ulterior motives."

WANT STRONG TIES

B.C. delegates who supported the motion said they want to maintain a strong alliance with the international union but they also want the right to make their own decisions.

They expressed concern that the union head office might appoint western organizer Pat O'Neal to succeed ailing B.C. Vice - President Stanley Green. Mr. Green himself was given solid support.

Mr. O'Neal was involved in the electronic bugging last fall of a Vancouver convention of the rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

Mr. Tonelli said regionally elected vice - presidents would result in nothing but "rotten politics." The move would weaken the union and lead to similar demands in U.S. regions.

NAMES SUCCESSOR

He said that Canadian Director Louis H. Lorrain would succeed him today as international president if he passed away.

Mr. Lorrain himself said that the president had come to the conference to consult, not to tell.

"Don't say that Joe Tonelli came down here to tell the Canadians they can't lead themselves," he told a reporter from the podium.

Preliminary Talks Open In Moscow

The meeting was the first announced followup to President Johnson's statement March 2 that the Soviet government had agreed "to discuss means of limiting the arms race in offensive and defensive nuclear missiles."

The U.S. embassy said Thompson and Gromyko talked for about 30 minutes about efforts to arrange detailed talks.

SOVIET PATIENCE WEARING THIN

Arms Talks Recessed in Anger

GENEVA (UPI) — Diplomats today recessed the stalemated disarmament negotiations amid bitterness between the have and have-not nuclear powers and a sense of frustration by both Moscow and Washington.

The 17-nation conference adopted a suggestion by the United States to break up and return to the negotiating table May 9. Russia agreed to the recess as co-chairman of the conference with America.

"The objections (to the treaty) raised by the Federal Republic of Germany are endangering the security of the world," Roshchin said.

The United States wants the pause to try to talk its reluctant allies into accepting the proposed treaty. The American negotiator, William C. Foster, already has tried on a trip to Western European capitals to win wary allies over to the pact, but failed. Japan also has reservations about the treaty.

Meanwhile, both Britain and the United States hoped Moscow's patience does not wear thin. Informed sources said last week in London the Soviet Union was eager to sign the treaty without further delays.

The Western European allies—especially West Germany and Italy—are concerned that the proposed treaty would prevent them from carrying out nuclear testing for peaceful purposes.

The Soviets and the Americans agreed last fall on jointly presenting a draft at the conference when it resumed Feb. 21. However, the sudden doubts in various capitals have caused delays. These doubts must be expelled before Moscow and Washington can table the motion.

A second problem is the matter of who will control inspection of nuclear testing for peaceful purposes. Both Washington and Moscow want the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna to have control. The Western European nations want to keep controls within Euratom.

Bankrupt Finance Firm Accused of Deception

TORONTO (CP) — A deliberate plan to deceive the public appears to have been involved in the operations of the now-bankrupt Prudential Finance Corp. Ltd., says a report of the Ontario Securities Commission.

An interim report on the tangled affairs of the corporation, tabled in the Ontario legislature Wednesday by Leslie Rowntree, commercial affairs minister, calls for more investigation.

The same line was taken in a report prepared by Clarkson, Gordon and Co., chartered accountants.

The commission report says provinces other than Ontario may be able to uncover illegal trading if they take a look.

"There is a strong presumption that there was a deliberate plan to deceive the public, the commission and its staff as to the true financial picture of the company," says the securities commission report.

Concentrating on the activities of Joseph Benoit Brien, who acquired control of Prudential Finance in 1961 and now faces six charges as a result of its collapse, the reports say he adopted a consistent program of deliberately inflating the value of assets.

Other findings indicated that assets were manipulated to the detriment of all but an inside group. Total net losses from Jan. 1, 1961, to Nov. 18, 1966, amounted to $17,356,024.

The reports say further criminal charges may be necessary and the possibility of civil legal action exists.

Mr. Rowntree said completion of the investigation into the collapse of Prudential Finance could take "a few weeks."

Mr. Rowntree said the investigation so far has been fruitful. Charges had been laid against two companies and five individuals and it was possible that more charges would be laid as the investigation proceeded.

NOTHING PLANNED

Mr. Rowntree said he didn't know what, if any, action the government would take on behalf of about 8,500 Prudential creditors.

Many elderly people who reported losing their savings were among about 8,500 investors involved in Prudential Finance. About 3,500 investors in Ontario and 5,000 outside the province may get back about 15 cents on the dollar.

The Clarkson, Gordon report says that in further investigations priority should be given to circumstances surrounding apparent false financial statements and a prospectus filed with the Ontario Securities Commission in 1963 to get approval for sale of securities in the province.

Of the 1963 prospectus, Clarkson, Gordon says it contained inaccuracies and did not include information required by law. After July 1, 1963, Prudential Finance sold securities in Quebec, British Columbia, Alberta, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia as well as Ontario.

MAKES OTHER POINTS

The Clarkson, Gordon report makes these points about the collapse:

—The company could not make enough money to meet overhead resulting from rapid expansion, or to cover the high cost of borrowed funds and absorb losses on speculative loans and investments.

—There were losses on investments and loans concerning unrelated companies, subsidiary companies and companies controlled by Brien.

The report says Prudential

Nurses Press Demand For Salary Increase

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Psychiatric and registered nurses in British Columbia government hospitals decided Wednesday to appeal to Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes for help in their bid for increased salaries.

Mrs. Faye Hartford of Surrey, secretary of the Psychiatric Nurses Association said the meeting also agreed to send letters to all MLAs and if "we don't hear by March 29 we will hold a mass rally. . . ."

She added, however, the nurses won't strike because "we're pledged not to." She said the 1,300 nurses want a 25-per-cent increase on present salaries that range from $362 to $432 a month.

Meanwhile, Dr. Ken Davies, chairman of the psychiatric section of the B.C. Medical Association, complained in a statement Wednesday about a committee appointed by the government to study complaints by the psychiatric staff at Riverview mental hospital here.

He said the committee should include persons from all branches of psychiatry. The only psychiatrist on the committee is Dr. F. G. Tucker, deputy director of mental health services.

"We are concerned primarily with the basic attitude of the government toward treatment services," said Dr. Davies.

The mental health services situation is acute, he added.

Do-Nothing Gas Report Action Hit

New Laws Demanded By Grit

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

A prorogation-day storm blew up for the Legislature this afternoon in the wake of a special committee's majority report on gas prices that was tabled shortly before dawn at the end of a night sitting.

The report recommended virtually no action to follow up the Morrow Royal Commission's findings except for setting up another review committee in two years time.

But the four NDP members of the committee attacked the government party's refusal to permit them to table a minority report. And Alan Macfarlane, the only Liberal member of the committee, said he would repudiate the majority report which he had supported because the final written version tabled by the chairman conflicted with the concensus of nine Socreds and himself.

CHAIRMAN

"That report does not represent what went on in the committee," he angrily declared outside the legislature after copies of the document signed by chairman Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver-Centre), were distributed.

He said he would see Speaker William Murray before the afternoon sitting, expected to be the last of the session, to determine the best procedure for disavowing the majority report officially.

Mr. Macfarlane objected to the report's sections which recommended "legislation if necessary" which he said was supposed to read "legislation was necessary" to prohibit retroactively consignment selling and gasoline supply agreements beyond five years between oil companies and retailers.

CRITICIZED

He added the report did not make it clear, as it was supposed to, that the oil companies had refused to commit themselves against reviving these practices criticized by commissioner Judge Charles Morrow.

The NDP minority report recommended establishment of a crown corporation for pilot operation of a refinery and gasoline distribution system to retailers to see if this competitive device could force the oil industry to reduce gasoline prices.

Alex Macdonald (NDP — Vancouver East) said the majority report "fails completely to deal with monopoly prices in this industry and does not deal with more than a small part of the recommendations of Judge Morrow."

But his sharpest criticism was aimed at the government's refusal to allow tabling of the

GALBRAITH VIEWS ON CANADA-U.S.

"Can Canada survive another century as a neighbor of the United States?" is the question posed in Weekend Magazine on Saturday in an important interview with the world famous economist and diplomat, John Kenneth Galbraith. In these times when Canada's relations with the U.S. are a constant topic, this article in Saturday's paper is well worth reading.

VIOLATION CHARGED

U.S. 'Captures' Russ Fishboat

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A Soviet fishing vessel—the second to be accused this month of violating United States rights in Alaskan waters—was being towed toward Kodiak today by a United States Coast Guard cutter.

Capt. Robert Emerson, commander of the coast guard station at Kodiak, said the Russian skipper refused to follow the cutter Storis to port so the vessel was taken under tow. If the Russian changes his mind and proceeds under his own power the vessels could arrive by late afternoon. The tow would take nearly two days.

The 178-foot trawler, SRTM 8-457, was boarded south of the Shumagin Islands Wednesday after a coast guard aircraft had engaged in "hot pursuit" of the vessel for 10 miles.

The coast guard said the aircraft, on routine law-enforcement patrol, spotted the trawler fishing 5.5 miles east of Seal Cape in the Shumagins, a violation of the U.S. 12-mile exclusive fisheries zone which went into effect March 17.

IGNORES ORDER

The aircraft signalled the ship to heave-to and await arrival of a government ship. Instead, the trawler picked up her fishing gear and headed toward international water. The Storis overtook the ship 15 miles off shore.

The scene was about 100 miles southwest of the spot the trawler SRT M8 - 413 was seized March 2 for violation of the three-mile territorial limit at Mitrofania Island, some 40 miles southwest of Chignik on the Alaska peninsula.

Nicolai G. Zernov, skipper of that vessel, was fined $5,000, an amount Alaska Governor Walter J. Hickel called "measly."

BAN SOUGHT IN U.S. ON AIRPORT INSURANCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Congress was asked today to ban the sale of airline trip insurance at airport counters or by vending machines in an effort to curb airliner sabotage.

Senator James B. Pearson (Rep., Kan.), asked this in legislation he said would provide "greater safety for the travelling public on commercial airlines".

The senator said six accidents, in which 210 persons died, had been caused by sabotage since 1955.

Pearson said in a statement his proposal "would be a responsible step to remove an inducement which has been closely connected to actions of irrational human behavior which have cost many innocent lives".

Casualty Lists Growing As Ground War Expands

SAIGON (AP) — The ever-mounting cost of the Vietnam war was underscored today by the announcement of record American and Communist casualties last week while both sides increased in total strength.

Communist mortar barrages accounted for much of the rising U.S. casualties, and more of these were reported Wednesday and today in two sensitive war spots.

Mortar shells rained down on U.S. positions just below the demilitarized zone separating North and South Vietnam and along the Cambodian border where the biggest U.S. jungle sweep of the war is under way.

The U.S. command also disclosed that 18 such ground sweeps now are being conducted, an indication that a high level of casualties can be expected to continue.

The U.S. command said that 2,675 Communist soldiers were killed last week while 211 Americans were killed and 1,874 were wounded.

At the same time, U.S. troop strength in the country grew to 427,000 men, while U.S. intelligence estimated Communist strength at 286,000 men, increases of 4,000 on each side. The Communists increased their numbers despite the claimed loss of 19,500 dead—the equivalent of eight full regiments—since the first of the year.

MORTAR RAIDS

U.S. marines manning the exposed artillery position at Gio Linh, just south of the demilitarized zone, caught the heaviest barrage today. Firing from within the zone, gunners dropped 75 rounds on the marines in a 45-minute barrage.

Two other Americans were killed and 31 wounded in other barrages that fell on the troops conducting Operation Junction City near the Cambodian frontier northwest of Saigon. This operation saw one of the sharpest battles of the war earlier this week and has become one of the deadliest in the war. U.S. troops have killed 1,772 Communists since it began Feb. 22, headquarters said.

Military headquarters also announced that elements of two South Korean divisions—an estimated 10,000 men—have been engaged in their most ambitious ground operation of the war for the last two weeks. This is a sweep along 45 miles of coastline to clear five Viet Cong battalions, about 2,500 men, from a wide area dominating the coastal highway from Song Cau to Tuy Hoa.

The Koreans said so far they have killed 149 soldiers, captured 150 and seized 146 weapons.

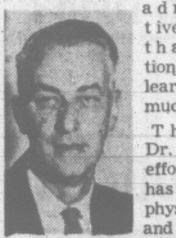
Although a great deal has been spoken and written about the controversy that threatens the fabric of our still-young university, the man to whom faculty, students and public look for explanations and firm decisions has yet to provide them.



This is Dr. Malcolm Taylor, University of Victoria's first president, to whose driving administrative ability, that institution of higher learning owes much.

Through Dr. Taylor's efforts, Uvic has grown in physical size and academic stature at a rate nothing less than astonishing.

Yet now, when future prospects should be bright indeed, it is plain even to the outside observer that here is a university in trouble.

There have been resignations by men whose only apparent motive is a deep conviction that injustices have been visited upon their colleagues, and academic freedom abused.

All this adds up to a situation that needs more daylight letting into it, and the obvious person to do so is our university's chief administrator.

At this point in a dispute which has been both prolonged and pungent, we would all welcome such reassurances as Dr. Taylor finds himself in a position to offer.

Around this time last year, I told you about my sweety's collection of chocolate Easter rabbit ears. A day or two after Win had added the 1966 set to her trove, a yard-long box arrived for her. In it was a card from artist Emily Sartain, and a non-chocolate rabbit of her own manufacture. This swashbuckling bunny wore a Mod-type vest, and sported orange felt ears of unparalleled magnificence.

We found a place of honor for him atop a book-case, and there he lorded it alone until the daffodil winds again began to blow.

Then along came another long box from which hopped a no less splendid she-rabbit in a provocative party dress, bonnet and pearl mecklace. She was generously eared in pink and mauve, and had a scheming look in her eye.

Up beside Mr. Crazy-Ears she went; and that was that until Wednesday, when I came home to find the handsome couple flanked by six long-eared felt children and three of marshmallow.

There was also a note from flower-lady Emily Sartain, who hopes we'll find homes for this extensive brood.

Anyone know of a little girl short of toys or sick in bed who can give a clutch of highly-superior felt Easter bunnies the cherishing they deserve?

On Tuesday, Times sport columnist and handicapper Hal Malone passed the word from B.C. Racing Commission that Vancouver Island's horse-racing future may depend on the volume of public clamor from those who love to watch 'em run.

As one who does, expensive though the spectacle can prove, I now register a public clamor of my own, and hope other improvers of the breed will also make plain their concern over the threatened loss of the annual Sandown meeting.

Further, I see no reason why purse-proud Vancouver, with a long enough season as matters now stand, should profit from our loss by inheriting our 17 race days if B.C. Jockey Club, and North Saanich Council fail to reach an agreement.

Accord is most often reached through compromise in which each disputant displays a willingness to back off, cool off, and in this instance consider others whom a removal from Sandown would affect. These include Island horse-owners and breeders, and thousands of Victorians whose support of Sandown has been both ardent and faithful.

Whatever your feelings in this matter, better make them known fast. The Jocky Club request for a transfer to Exhibition Park is in, and must soon be ruled upon.

DESMOND MOSELEY

IWA Officials Investigating Mishap

Union officials were today investigating an accident which resulted in a logger lying out in the pouring rain all night Tuesday.

He was rushed in Wednesday morning with concussion after lying in the woods west of Sooke unconscious since sometime Tuesday afternoon.

A faller with Sooke River Logging Ltd., he had apparently been hit on the head by a falling snag.

IWA officials visited the scene in the Leech River area Wednesday and spoke with management.

Said a union spokesman: "We have still to talk to the woods crew to find out what happened.

'NOT HAPPY'

A Workmen's Compensation Board inspector also visited the scene Wednesday.

Mr. Moseley had apparently been working alone in the woods when he was knocked out.

It wasn't until his wife phoned the logging office next morning that anyone realized something was wrong.

Mr. Moseley is well known in local baseball circles as a player-manager with Victoria senior amateur league.

Pair Charged In $135 Theft From Sub PO

Two 19-year-old boys have been jointly charged with the theft of $135 from a city sub post office six days ago.

Kenneth McGill, 2390 Oak Bay Ave., and Lawrence Parker of 615 Fernhill had their case remanded to March 29 for plea when they appeared in central court this morning.

They are also jointly charged with the theft of a fishing reel from an Esquimalt Road sporting goods store. That case was remanded six days as well for plea.

Store proprietor and sub postmaster John Pinch told police two youths strolled in and out of his store moments before he found $135 in an envelope missing from a drawer.

Hydro Linesman Burned Badly

Gabriel Arcuri, 47, of 2922 Austin, was injured when he came in contact with a high voltage line while working on Metchosin Road near Sangster School.

NO EVICTION

Fears Eased For Welfare Patients

A spokesman for two major Victoria private hospitals today eased fears that welfare patients would be asked to find alternative bed space on May 1.

William E. Osland, one of the owners of Glenwarren and Glengarry Private Hospitals said, "The situation is not nearly as desperate" as Ald. Lily Wilson said Wednesday.

Ald. Wilson had stated that private hospitals had set a May 1 deadline for removal of 237 welfare patients if more money was not forthcoming for their care.

Ald. Wilson said the situation was alarming and required immediate provincial government action.

Mr. Osland conceded that when Mrs. Wilson made her remarks there had been no formal notice of Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell's announcement of a boost in rates paid for welfare patients.

Mr. Campbell said Wednesday

Dead Woman's Rings Sold by Government To Help Repay City

By PETE LOUDON

Prior to her death in a rest home here, Mrs. Evelyn Mae Looby asked that her wedding and engagement rings be sent to a niece in England.

Instead, they were turned over to the official administrator for the province. They were converted to cash to help repay the city welfare department for Mrs. Looby's funeral.

It's done every day. But what isn't revealed every day is the hurt and shock felt by elderly friends of the deceased.

Here is how the story sounds from the lips of pensioner George Munro, 3035 Cook, who bought back the rings for $71.56 so he could fulfill Mrs. Looby's dying wish.

"Is it in the interest of the human race . . . to have the rings removed and confiscated from the stilled fingers of a lady welfare patient . . . who had passed to the great beyond . . . when the expressed wishes of the deceased were that they should be forwarded to her niece in England?

BARBAROUS CONDUCT

"Such barbarous conduct . . . can be fully confirmed by those who are fully aware of the facts of the case and of the inhumanity—shameful exploitation of the dead."

Mr. Munro can't accept the action as the logical handling of the affairs of a person dying without a will.

Mrs. Looby died Jan. 14, 1963, so the story is four years old. Mr. Munro said he was inspired to make it public by recent charges of welfare department frugality.

"They need a good shaking up," he said.

He said he was not afraid to associate his name with charges of departmental meanness.

And he displayed a receipt from the office of the provincial offical administrator and a covering letter signed by the administrator, Ian Horne QC.

Mr. Munro, a resident of a city rest home, says his friendship with the late Mrs. Looby goes back years. He lived at her home in Vancouver and when she became ill he moved with her to Pender Island and assisted in her care.

Mrs. Looby eventually was moved to hospital at Sidney and subsequently was cared for at The Priory, Langford, and at Glenwarren Private Hospital here, where she died.

He said that prior to her illness they had made a pact. Each changed their savings accounts into joint accounts with the other. If one died the other would have access to the savings to pay for final arrangements.

RECEIPTS FOR $672

When Mrs. Looby became ill, Mr. Munro expended her $600 savings for her care. He says he has receipts covering an amount of $672 he paid for care at Rest Haven and Glenwarren.

But much of her care was covered through welfare offices.

Mr. Munro presumed that it was for this reason the authorities took possession of the rings after her death. A

Private Firm Offers Service For $24,000

2 Aldermen Back Ambulance Plan

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

Victoria has been offered a round - the - clock ambulance service for $24,000 a year.

The offer was revealed to city council this afternoon by Ald. Percy Frampton and immediately won the support of Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

During budget estimate talks earlier this week members of the Victoria finance committee were told the fire department, at present operating the new ambulance service would need at least eight extra men if the service was to continue to operate smoothly.

Fire Chief Eric Simmons had actually asked for 12 new staff members, but had been told that all the city could afford at present was eight.

EIGHT ATTENDANTS

With the approval of the eight extra fire-fighters-come-ambulance-attendants city treasurer James Bramley warned that with a full year of operation facing the city in 1968 the cost of operating the ambulance service would jump to between $75,000 and $80,000 a year.

Even with the new men on staff for only half of this year costs would run around $28,000 in wages the committee was told.

Ald. Frampton told council today that the Garden City Ambulance would undertake to operate the new emergency vehicle for a flat contract rate of $2,000 a month — or $24,000 a year.

He said the city would retain ownership of the vehicle but that the ambulance company would purchase all oil and gasoline.

SAME SERVICE

'They will offer the same service we are providing now," he said. "It would be free of cost to the people and would always be staffed by two men trained in industrial first aid."

He asked Mayor Hugh Stephen to establish a committee to study the proposal and come back to council with a final recommendation.

"I don't expect a decision today," Ald. Frampton said. "All I am asking at this time is that a committee be set up to check this proposal out in detail because it sounds like an excellent idea to me."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, who expressed alarm at the cost of operating the ambluance system via the fire department, said he fully supported Ald. Frampton's call for a special committee to investigate the proposal.

"WONDERFUL IDEA"

"The costs as revealed to us in committee earlier this week are more than we can stand," he said. "The ambulance service is a wonderful idea and I think we may have a way here where we can provide excellent service at much less cost to the taxpayer."

Ald. Edgelow said that although $80,000 a year had been quoted as the figure necessary to provide ambulance service through the fire department he was sure that figure would top $100,000 a year before too long.

At press time council was still considering the proposal.

Lecturer Questions Handling of Affair

By DESMOND BILL

J. S. (Jerry) Schwartz resigned today from the English department at the University of Victoria.

He was to go before a review committee today for reconsideration of its earlier decision not to renew his contract.

Mr. Schwartz repudiated the committee in a letter to Dr. Malcolm Taylor, university president.

Meanwhile, the student government at Uvic has offered to hire Mr. Schwartz next year as an independent lecturer.

David McLean, president of students' council, said, "We don't want to lose him."

Mr. Schwartz said he was "flattered and gratified" by the offer but did not indicate if he would accept.

J. S. (JERRY) SCHWARTZ

Mr. Schwartz was one of three outspoken faculty members whose contracts were not renewed this year by the university. The others are Dr. Charles Tarlton, of the political science department, and Alan Mackenzie, of the English department.

Their ouster has produced a raging controversy on campus.

It became known today that the faculty association last week asked for a meeting with the Joint Faculties to discuss the non-renewal of contracts.

The faculty association represents almost all the professors at the university. Joint Faculties is an institutional body of the university.

The request for a meeting between the two groups was turned down by Dr. Taylor. The university president said he could not discuss the matter while the cases of some of the principals involved is under appeal.

APPEALS

Dr. Tarlton has appealed his case to the Canadian Association of University Teachers. Mr. Schwartz appealed to a faculty committee which said the committee that originally recommended his ouster should take another look at his case.

He was to have gone before that committee today for reconsideration of its recommendation.

However, in a letter to Dr. Taylor this morning, Mr. Schwartz, disavowed the committee.

His letter questioned the behavior of Dean Alex Wood in the handling of his case and also questioned why standards applied to him were not applied to other faculty.

Mr. Schwartz' letter said that President Taylor is aware of all the things that were pointed out in the letter yet he was still willing to go along with this "foul charade" of referring the matter again to Dean Wood's original committee.

'SPEAKEASY'

Students held a noon-hour "speakeasy" today to air their views aboutt he ousting of three professors. They were asked to ratify a tentative decision to hold a mass rally next Tuesday.

Mr. McLean said next Tuesday's rally will decide whether students should boycott classes on the following day in protest against the firings.

Seven students, including two former presidents of the Students' Council, have circulated an open letter charging that "excellent and dedicated instructors are being removed without justifiable cause but because of comflicts of personality within the university."

The seven said they held meetings with President Taylor, Dean Wood of arts and sciences and Dean R. R. Jeffels to express their "deep concern" about the oustings.

Their letter states that Dean Wood told them, "If these men (Schwartz, Tarlton and Mac-

FACULTY ATTACK AROUSES TAYLOR

He issued the following statement:

"As a result of recent open letters to the faculty and of statements in the press I feel it is my duty at this time to place on record a formal and unequivocal statement of my stand on the current situation at the University of Victoria.

"Because it is the right and responsibility of the faculty to judge their fellows and then advise me about such matters as appointments, reappointments, promotions and tenure, I have at all times avoided—as I must avoid now—any public statement that might influence favorably or unfavorably those judgments.

"And yet at the very time that these orderly procedures are being followed the university is being subjected to what appears to be a concerted attack not only upon those of our colleagues who are conscientiously trying to reach decisions but also upon the integrity and competence of the whole faculty. At such a time I cannot remain silent.

"It seems to me now that certain elements are determined to undermine—perhaps even destroy—the professional standing of the faculty and the good name of the university. I therefore protest and condemn any attacks designed to call into question the honesty and competence of my colleagues. Moreover, I wish to assure them of my deep concern and distress over the indignities they have suffered during these past weeks.

"I reaffirm my trust in the integrity, sound judgment and quality of the faculty.

"The distinction of the faculty now here, the calibre of appointments now being made, the awards and honors won by the faculty and students alike, attest to the present and growing reputation of the University of Victoria for academic excellence."

Actress to Share Cavendish Estate

Mrs. Dola Frances Cavendish — last of the 10 children of former B.C. Premier James Dunsmuir — left gross estate to the value of $596,138, it was disclosed in her will probated at Victoria Law Courts today.

LENGTHY ILLNESS

Mrs. Cavendish died in Richmond Heights private hospital last Dec. 9 after a lengthy illness. She was the youngest of the eight daughters of James Dunsmuir, who was premier of B.C. from 1900 to 1902.

Premier Dunsmuir was the son of Robert Dunsmuir, pioneer mine owner on Vancouver Island.

Mrs. Cavendish was buried, at her own request, in the churchyard of St. John the Baptist Anglican Church, Colwood, close by the one-time Dunsmuir estate, where she spent her childhood.

In her will Mrs. Cavendish directed that she be buried "in a plot shaded by a tree" and that her coffin be "inexpensively made from a native B.C. wood."

In addition to a large number of bequests to relatives, friends and employees, Mrs. Cavendish left various gifts to charity. They included:

GIFTS

$250 to St. John's Church, Colwood.

$500 to St. Joseph's Hospital.

$250 to the Colwood Women's Institute.

To the Little Church Around the Corner, New York City, Mrs. Cavendish bequeathed two George III Scotch silver goblets (made in Edinburgh, Scotland in 1794).

Sandown Supporters Off and Running to Retain Island Track

By HAL MALONE

Public support mushroomed today for retention of horse racing on Vancouver Island.

Private citizens, businessmen and owners indicated they had sent letters in support of racing at Sandown Park to the B.C. Racing Commission and the attorney-general's office.

The scheduled 17-day meeting has been threatened by a dispute between North Saanich district and B.C. Jockey Club which operates the track.

The Jockey Club has requested the commission to transfer Sandown dates to Vancouver.

In Victoria, Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow, also an owner-breeder, urged North Saanich council to take "a big look" at the conditions they seek to impose on the Jockey Club.

"Why make it difficult for the operators to carry on? There aren't the people to justify vast expenditures."

He was referring to improved sanitation and fire-fighting facilities sought by North Saanich. The district also seeks a $150 daily licence fee.

Alderman Edgelow also warned that if people interested in racing at Sandown don't speak up "loud and clear" the commission would be "quite right" in granting the transfer.

"If the Island loses racing now," he said, "it will be gone forever."

The alderman disagreed with North Saanich's request that existing and replacement barns should contain sprinklers.

"No sprinklers could have stopped the fire at Sandown last October. That was not a natural fire. A man was charged with arson and is serving a sentence."

Ald. Edgelow said he "couldn't understand" why the fire marshal's office is satisfied with fire-prevention facilities at Vancouver, which does not have sprinklers, yet recommends them for Sandown.

"There are various ways of reading between the lines of the fire marshal's report," he said. "If North Saanich wants to make the firmest interpretation they'll never have a fire at Sandown."

Meanwhile a spokesman for Sidney-North Saanich Chamber of Commerce said his group "will do anything it can to promote racing at Sandown."

Walter Bloxham, operator of Sidney Travelodge, said the Sandown season is "an essential part of our industry, of virtually every industry in this area."

"I would like to see both sides sit down at the negotiating table. And I think they should try and reach a long-term agreement instead of bargaining on a yearly basis."

Mr. Bloxham said it was "essential" for tourist industry operators to know soon if Sandown will operate "so we can line up employees for the six weeks of racing."

Horseman-breeder-businessman George Harknett predicted the breeding industry on Vancouver Island "would completely fall apart" if the transfer is approved.

A recent survey by B.C. Throughbred Breeders' Society disclosed there are 10 stallions, 153 brood mares, 77 young horses and 101 horses of racing age on the Island.

Mr. Harknett said the "man on the street" is greatly concerned with Sandown's future.

"If Mr. (Ken) McConnell (Commission secretary) wants to hear public opinion on this he can sit in my office any day and get an earful."

In letters to the commission and Attorney-General Bonner, racing supporter Ruth Collis, 921 Royal Terrace, wrote: "I didn't realize that we in Victoria would have to stand up and shout for something that is rightfully ours."

She also wrote that Sandown racing "provides employment for residents of the district, sees houses rented that otherwise would not be and generally gives a lift to the economy of the whole area."

She said that Americans take their holidays to coincide with the Sandown fall meeting "because they find it is an entirely different and most enjoyable atmosphere."

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

To Attend Ceremonies

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes will attend the opening ceremonies of the Victoria Centennial Minor Hockey Jamboree, to be held at the Memorial Arena on Saturday.

Shy Guest of Honor

Mr. and Mrs. Niels Knudsen, who operate the Alkazar Mansions on Fairfield Road threw a party for all their tenants, Sunday afternoon, and especially for one woman who's rented her present apartment for the past 50 years. She insists on remaining anonymous. In a chartered bus, the tenants were taken on a tour along Beach Drive, Ten Mile Point, Cordova Bay and the Saanich countryside. Luncheon was enjoyed at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel and later, the guests were treated to tea at Cordova Bay. On return to the Alkazar Mansions, a cake fashioned in a "50" shape was donated and served by Miss Florence Cosman and Mrs. Lena Duncan.

Overseas Posting

Of interest to their many friends and relatives in Victoria is the news that Brigadier D. L. Cunnington and Mrs. Cunnington are leaving Ottawa next week for London, Eng., where Brigadier Cunnington has been appointed commander of the Canadian Defence Liaison Staff.

Prairie Visit

Spending several weeks visiting in Saskatoon, Sask., are Mr. and Mrs. Rueben Parker and their family of Tofino. En route to the prairie city they stopped in Vancouver, where they were joined by their son Dwayne who attends Vancouver College. While in Saskatoon, the family will be guests of Mr. Parker's parents.

Wed 25 Years

To mark their 25th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Edmond, 1198 Goldstream Avenue, were entertained at a family dinner party, Monday in the Scott Street home of their daughter, Mrs. Ronald (Margaret) Johnston. The couple was married on March 20, 1942, in Vancouver, and have made their home in Victoria since 1955. Attending the party were their daughters, the Misses Barbara and Mary Edmond and Lt. James O'Brien, RCA. Following dinner, they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. B. Strongman and Mr. and Mrs. J. Barlett for a party. The refreshment table was centred with an anniversary cake in pink and silver tones.

Surprise Party

Mr. and Mrs. Stevan Rideout were surprised with a party in their Ucluelet home, marking the couple's 25th wedding anniversary. Hostesses for the evening included Mrs. G. Chisholm, Mrs. G. Gudbranson and Mrs. S. Oye. Mrs. G. Green made and decorated the attractive anniversary cake which centred the head table. Gifts included a silver cabinet. Among the guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larsen of Coombs, B.C. Mr. Larsen proposed the toast to the couple.

Elected at Hospital Association's Annual Meet

MRS. McNEISH TO HEAD ALUMNAE

Mrs. B. McNeish was elected president of the Alumnae Association of the Royal Jubilee Hospital when the group held its annual meeting in the nurses' residence this week.

Others on the executive are: Past president, Mrs. R. Bolt, who received a gift and pink roses en corsage for her two years' service as president; first vice-president, Mrs. B. Eldridge; second, Mrs. L. Kahler; secretary, Mrs. G. Chater; assistant secretary, Mrs. R. Jacob, and treasurer, Mrs. N. McConnell. Mrs. McNeish received a corsage of red roses. Miss Margaret Plunkett made the presentations to the new and outgoing presidents.

Named as conveners were: Social, Mrs. W. Walker; assistant social, Mrs. H. Bell; sick visiting, Mrs. M. Hundleby; press, Mrs. V. J. Wilson; program, Miss M. Ariss Smith; membership, Mrs. R. Sewell, and phoning, Miss L. Woodrow.

COMING EVENTS

It was decided to hold the annual Royal Jubilee Hospital Ball in the Empress Hotel on May 26 and Mrs. V. Skinner was appointed convener of a fashion show, to be held in September.

Members agreed to assist the Douglas Rotary Club in their fund-raising drive for new equipment at the hospital. Those willing to sell tickets should contact Mrs. Bolt.

Mrs. Chater read the group's annual report which embodied the work of all officers and conveners for the past year. Heading committees were: Nominations, Mrs. Bolt, Mrs. McNeish, Mrs. McConnell and Miss Woodrow; bursary, Mrs. Bolt, Mrs. C. Flower and Mrs. B. Bendall with Miss Muriel Thompson and Miss Elizabeth Maude-Moore acting as advisors; press, Mrs. H. Mede; social, Mrs. R. Sewell and Mrs. A. Mourant; phoning, Miss Woodrow; membership, Mrs. M. White; sick visiting, Mrs. D. Carey, and program, Miss Z. Harmon.

FINANCIAL PROGRAM

It was announced that loans totalling $1,175 had been made to 12 students, a grant of $100 made to one member, donation of $20 given to the Heart Fund in memory of former Mayor A. Toone and D. A. MacLoud, and a donation of $100 placed in the Muriel Harmon Fund.

Members had provided refreshments for two capping ceremonies and two graduating classes and their mothers had been entertained at tea during the graduation period. The president had awarded prizes for the highest achievement in the pre-clinical period to the Misses Marilyn McLean and Catheryn Betcher.

One of the most successful social affairs had been the annual hospital ball which netted $479.96. Mrs. Eldridge had been the convener. Mrs. P. G. Roberts and Mrs. Eldridge convened a fall fashion show which realized $212.18. Mrs. McNeish was convener of a raffle which added $227.41 to the funds.

SOCIAL HIGHLIGHT

Serving on the reunion committee were Miss M. Dicks, Miss E. Mackie, Mrs. G. McCann, Mrs. Sewell, Mrs. G. Greenwood, Mrs. McConnell, Miss F. Ferguson, Mrs. G. B. Buffam and others. During the activities, six dolls were presented to the school of nursing by the Vancouver and Seattle branches. The dolls were dressed in uniforms which showed changes made during the school's existence.

A profit of $3,111.22 was realized from all money-raising events.

Diocesan Board Votes to Accept Constitution Change at Meeting

Mrs. F. A. Goodwin, Victoria, was elected for her fifth term of office as president of the British Columbia Diocesan Board, Anglican Woman's Auxiliary, in St. James' Church, Nanaimo, last week.

Also re-elected were Mrs. H. McDonald, Victoria, first vice-president; Mrs. W. E. Greenhalgh, Saanich, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L. Small, Victoria, recording; Miss Dora Brown, Victoria, treasurer; Mrs. E. Gurr, Victoria, Juniors' secretary; Mrs. H. J. Newnham, Saanich, department of family life; Mrs. T. Hughes, Esquimalt, prayer partners; Mrs. N. B. Fatt, Saanich, Living Message; and Mrs. G. H. Greenhalgh, Nanaimo, United Thankoffering.

SERVE FIRST TERM

New officers are Miss Dorothea Lucas, Lantzville, second vice-president; Mrs. H. Monaghan, Victoria, Dorcas secretary; Mrs. N. W. Life, Saanich, candidates; Miss Marjorie Bernard, Victoria, social service, and Miss Ruth Scott, Victoria, educational.

The installation of officers, conducted by Most Rev. H. E. Sexton, Archbishop of B.C., concluded the three-day annual meeting.

Delegates voted to accept the revised diocesan constitution, which includes changing the name of the organization to Anglican Church Women. This is in harmony with the national constitution which will be effected when legal requirements are met.

VOTE NEXT YEAR

A working draft of proposed by-laws was accepted for vote at the next annual meeting.

The proposed Care of the Elderly project, to be sponsored by the Synod Social Service board was discussed. It had been suggested that the project be developed by stages, medical care unit, guest house and then living units. It was agreed that funds and property to the value of approximately $250,000 be made available for the project as needed.

The number attending Camp Columbia had increased by 70 per cent over the last four years, said Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh. He added that it might be necessary to limit the number of campers this season unless more volunteer leaders could be found.

Appealing for assistance of $500 for a suggested paid camp manager, the speaker was told funds had been voted for this purpose.

In his report for the Board of Religious Education, Rev. P. Isles told of the establishment of a new section for audio-visuals directed by E. Fred Holliday, Victoria, and thanked the organization for a gift of $150 for buying a new projector.

LARGE ENROLMENT

There are 50 students in the parish education training scheme, chaired by Archdeacon C. Maddocks, and the board is continuing to sponsor pilot courses for adult education and leadership training. More than 400 adults and young people have taken these courses, he said.

Dorcas secretary Mrs. J. A. Andrews reported 35 bales sent, goods and money donated to the value of $1,239, and gifts to UCW for Korea, Caroline Macklem Home, St. Chad's Home, Northern Forest Rangers, Society of Friends, Christmas Bureau, Shantymen's Mission and Goodwill Enterprises.

More than 4,000 sick visits and 3,500 telephone calls were reported by social service secretary Mrs. H. N. Street who added that many branches don't keep records. Money donations were sent to Aberfan, Lepers, International Children's Villages, Kamloops Home for Unwed Mothers. Gifts included books for weatherships; library to Wilkinson Road Correction Unit; hot meals to elderly bachelors and widowers.

Also giving reports were: Mrs. G. Edgecombe, Caroline Macklem Home; Mrs. C. T. Skinner, Pakistani embroideries; Mrs. R. Clegg, life members and Mrs. G. V. Jarvis, church furnishings.

Winding up the meet was a reception, given by the executive and assisted by members of the host branch.

NEW BABY BONUS WON'T HELP

By DAVE BAZAY

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's new family allowances may bring a minimeasure of relief to large families with low incomes, but population experts aren't predicting a baby boom to alter the province's dwindling birth rate.

The new family allowances, announced in the Union Nationale government's budget, are adjusted to the number of children in a family, paying $30 a year for the first child and increasing to $70 for the sixth and subsequent children under 16.

In his budget speech Finance Minister Paul Dozois spoke of the allowances as a welfare measure, saying the provincial government will distribute $88,000,000 a year among 2,100,000 children in 90 per cent of Quebec's families.

The arrival on the Quebec scene of provincial baby bonuses, however, coincides with a sharp decline in Quebec's birth rate, which fell 24.7 per cent between 1959 and 1965, compared with a 21.9-per-cent drop for all of Canada.

Dr. Jacques Henripin, director of the demography department at the University of Montreal, said in an interview the new allowances will not have "any effect at all" on the Quebec birth rate.

Other demographers here said the same.

WON'T BE OFFSET

Mr. Henripin said the allowances, which range in size from $2.50 to $5.83 a month per child, will not provide sufficient financial incentive to offset fundamental factors causing the birthrate decline.

Dr. Paul Parrot, demographer of the province, reported in a recent government survey that the total number of annual births declined to 120,705 in 1965 from 142,383 in 1959, a drop of 17 per cent compared with an over-all decline in Canada of 13 per cent.

These statistics have created concern inside and outside the government with some experts predicting there will eventually be an actual decrease in the Quebec population — currently estimated at 5,800,000 — which now makes up about 28 per cent of the Canadian population.

Mr. Henripin predicted the birth rate will soon level off at a point more than sufficient to ensure that there will be no decrease in Quebec's population.

Quebec's birth rate decline of 24.7 per cent between 1959 and 1965, he says, compares with similar declines of 21.9 per cent in all of Canada, 20.2 per cent in Ontario, and 19.5 per cent in the United States.

COMPARES RATE

The birth rate, calculated on the number of births per 1,000 of population in a given year, was 21.3 in Quebec in 1965, he says, compared with 21 in Ontario, 21.4 for all of Canada and 19.4 for the U.S.

What really has been pulling the birth rate down, says Mr. Henripin, has been the tendency among Quebecers to get married later in life and the tendency among couples toward a greater spacing among children.

He does not agree with those who argue that the sharp birthrate decline is due mainly to a reduction in the total number of children in a family, probably prompted by easy access to the birth-control pill.

He says he believes the pill may well be responsible for a gradual reduction in the size of families but its main effect is to permit better family planning rather than to reduce overall family size.

Among other pressures cited as causes of the decline in the birth rate are the high cost of housing in urban areas, the tendency of married women to quit the household for a job and the economic need for young people to remain at school longer than previously.

SEES GOOD TREND

Dr. Parrot of the provincial department of health says there is an encouraging trend toward more marriages nowadays in Quebec. The number of marriages in 1966 exceeded by 1,375 the number of marriages in 1965.

"We foresee a considerable increase in the number of marriages for the next 10 years. This is because those born in the baby boom after the war are reaching the marriage age."

There are also 175,000 single men and 162,000 single women in Quebec between the ages of 20 and 25.

Predictions here are that these young people getting married will wait a while before having their first child and that they won't have as many children as their parents, thus contributing to a further decline in the family size.

One government official said his personal opinion is that Quebec's mean family size will decrease to 1.5 children by the 1980s with births stabilizing at between 75,000 and 85,000 a year.

This would represent a drop of more than 60 per cent over 1965 figures and probably plunge French - Canadians, already a minority group in Canada, into a population crisis of far-reaching significance.

Classrooms Set For Disturbed

Special classrooms and facilities for emotionally disturbed children will be built at Glen Lake elementary school by this fall.

Dean Fred Tyler of the faculty of education at the University of Victoria and Miss Anne Curts, remedial teacher, are being consulted in the planning of the additions.

Sooke School Board is also planning to build a new unit at Langford elementary school for retarded children. It is hoped that this, too, will be ready for use this fall.

Scots to Remember Newly-Lost Comrades

The veterans will hold a one-minute silence at their annual reunion dinner in the Dominion Hotel starting at 6:30 p.m.

"Since all First World War veterans are now in their late 70s or early 80s we must expect to lose old comrades every year," sayd Harold Rourke, secretary of the 67th Battalion Association and one of its original officers.

"We expect about 50 will answer the roll call Saturday night. And that's a goodly number when you consider ages and infirmities caused through war service."

After six months' training at Willows Camp (now part of the built-up residential area of Oak Bay) the 1,200-strong battalion marched through the city streets and embarked for Vancouver in three C.P.R. ships.

PIONEER UNIT

In England, the battalion changed from an infantry to a pioneer unit. In that capacity, and still retaining its original battalion identity number, the 67th served in France as the Fourth Canadian Divisional Pioneers.

"For the uninitiated," Mr. Rourke said, "pioneers are the working engineers of the army. They work at night, mostly out in no man's land; lay barbed wire entanglements, dig sapheads, build machine-gun emplacements and blow up enemy dugouts.

TWENTY YEARS

In the chair Saturday will be Pioneer-sergent W. G. Lovelock, who comes from San Leandro, California and who hasn't missed a reunion in the last 20 years.

Capt G. H. Linney, the battalion's adjutant, will be here from Edmonton.

Rev. Bryce Wallace, one of the unit's original stretcher bearers, will head a detachment from Vancouver and the lower mainland.

Up-Island points will also be represented.

night that it had already been announced that the provincial payments would be from $215 to $230 monthly. (Early today Mrs. Wilson said that so far as she knew, official notification to the city welfare office still had not been received.)

Mr. Osland said there is no question of eviction. The word appeared in a Times headline when Mrs. Wilson's alarm was misconstrued.

"We couldn't put people out on the street," said Mr. Osland.

He said it was his opinion that private hospital operators would notify the welfare administration on May 1 that as of that date their charges for care of welfare patients would be raised.

He thought the raise would place the rates "in the neighborhood of $230 now and $255 when the next raise in the minimum wage for staff workers occurs."

MINIMUM WAGE

The B.C. labor department recently set the minimum wage at $1.10 an hour effective May 1 and $1.25 an hour effective Nov. 1. Previously it was $1 an hour except for those with less than three month's employment who received either 85, 90 or 95 cents.

'I would hope we would be able to reduce the number of welfare patients as well," said Mr. Osland.

He said operators want assurance that no more than half their beds will be used for welfare patients. Otherwise they will require $255 as of May 1.

But, "Nobody is holding a gun to anyone's head," he added.

Mr. Osland said the present allowance for welfare patient care is $215 but "This leaves the hospitals in a loss position." He said 45 of 75 patients at Glengarry are welfare patients. If only 20 out of 75 were welfare patients and the rate was $230 this would suffice until the fall.

$10,000 PER BED

He said he feels the time is near when city or provincial agencies should take over private hospitals, adding, "We would be quite willing."

At a cost of $10,000 per bed this would cost about $4 million. But the agency would receive $2,000 a bed from Ottawa and half the balance from the province (assisted by federal payments to B.C.).

"I'm sure the operators would finance the balance," said Mr. Osland. A lease arrangement at a realistic figure would also be possible, he thought. He pointed out however that cost of patient care at BCHIS - operated extended care hospitals is $17.50 per day compared to a cost of $8.50 per day at private hospitals.

"A great deal is lost in administration in government operated ventures, he said.

Mr. Osland was asked whether the 10-cent increase in wages merited a $15 increase in rates. He said the increase in rates for 45 patients in Glengarry would bring in $700 monthly. But the wage increase, because it must be reflected in all salaries, would cost $1,000.

To his knowledge the operators do not intend to increase the rates of non-welfare patients, he added.

Ald. Mrs. Wilson was bringing the problem to council today. Meantime she said there is a long waiting list for private hosptial beds. She said a welfare worker told her that "If a new 100-bed hospital was built tomorrow we could fill it in two weeks."

"We've got to have a new building and new beds. There is no other answer," she said. She thought between 200 and 400 new beds were indicated, at a cost of $10,000 for each bed.

. . . RINGS

check with official records showed however that Mrs. Looby's meagre estate was not attached to recover welfare payments.

A senior official of the provincial welfare department said the department makes no claim against the estate to recover welfare payments.

CLAIM BY CITY

But a claim was made by the City of Victoria through the city welfare department with respect to a city-paid $192 funeral. Other items besides the rings must have contributed to paying off this debt. Because today Mrs. Looby's exhausted estate only owes the city $38.

"They have no right to take that sort of thing," said Mr. Munro.

He said he threatened to write to the Queen's secretary at Buckingham Palace. Since then he has made several attempts to recover both the money he paid for the rings and the money he paid on Mrs. Lobby's behalf for her care.

He says he has never received a cent and his letters appear to be ignored.

"There appears to be a stigma attached to welfare assistance. The hard-boiled tactics in Victoria no doubt account for the large numbers who detest applying for such assistance.

KIND, HUMANE MANNER

"This is the sort of treatment senior citizens have to put up with in this city of plenty under the care of highly paid officials who are in charge," said Mr. Munro.

An official of the government department, which liquified Mrs. Looby's few possessions to meet debts such as that of the city, said the procedure is normal.

It appeared there was no will. He suggested that if the rings had been worth several thousand dollars there would be no public criticism of their sale to meet the demands of creditors.

"It's really up to the city of Victoria. They expected to be reimbursed," he added.

Business is business—but Mr. Munro and many other elderly residents feel it should be tempered with sympathy when that business relates to the care of elderly residents.

Mr. Munro, a former outdoorsman who has wandered over much of the world, lives in one room with a few mementoes of his active life. Among them are two shiny pairs of riding boots, long unworn but maintained with loving care.

He wonders who's going to get his boots if he dies suddenly.

kenzie) do not leave the university, within two or three years the university will lose at least four and perhaps as many as ten of our best senior scholars and you can count the dean of arts and science among their number—but this is not a threat."

The students said they must make this statement known "for it is essential that all members of the faculty of this university realize that no profesor is secure if such threats are as effective as they have been.

"Compatibility with the faculty members who threatened the dean, not teaching ability or scholarship, is the primary criterion for survival at this university."

The letter is signed by Stephen Bigsby and Paul Williamson, former students' council presidents, and by Jack MacDonald, Nan Elliott, Ken Hart, Brian White and Neil Williamson.

How's Toot 40 Years Later?

Just how much will be known Saturday night when 24 former sea cadet bandsmen haul out their instruments and strike up a tune.

The last time they played together was in 1927 when they toured Canada and Great Britain representing Victoria Sea Cadets.

After that, they all went their separate ways.

Surprisingly of the original 28-man band, only four are expected to be missing. Two have died and two others, both working in B.C., have not been contacted.

Thirteen still live in Victoria: "We asked the boys to bring along their instruments. It will be interesting to see how everyone's kept up his music."

The reunion will be at Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

. . . track scandal

Judgment Reserved On Dupuis

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Court of Appeal is considering whether to uphold or reverse an influence-peddling conviction and $5,000 fine imposed last April 22 on Yvon Dupuis, who lost his federal cabinet post in 1965 because of a racetrack scandal.

The appeal was taken under advisement Wednesday by Justices Andre Taschereau, G. R. W. Owen and G. H. Montgomery, following a two-day hearing.

Lawyers Raymond Daoust and Paul Martineau, representing the former federal minister without portfolio, challenged the April 22 verdict on grounds of law and of fact, and called for an outright acquittal.

Crown lawyer Denys Dionne contended that the Crown had proved its case, and had backed it up with weighty circumstantial evidence.

Mr. Dupuis, 40, was convicted of having accepted $10,000 in 1961 in return for his influence in support of a group seeking to establish a racetrack at St. Johns, Que., in his riding of St. Jean-Iberville-Napierville.

The racetrack permit in question was never granted.

N. Koreans Shoot As Red Defects

By K. P. HONG

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—North Korea accused the UN command today of kidnapping a prominent Communist journalist said to have defected at this truce village, and demanded his immediate return.

U.S. Col. George F. Charlton, secretary of the UN command, rejected the demand and said that Lee Soo-keun, 44-year-old vice - president of the official North Korean central news agency, had defected to South Korea of his own initiative.

"The choice of an individual to decide where to live is a basic right of the peoples in all free nations," Charlton told North Korean Col. Han Chu-kyong.

Lee had come to Panmunjom with other reporters to cover an armistice commission meeting. A Korean source said he went to UN officials an hour before the meeting ended and told them he wanted to defect to the South.

After the session broke up, Thomson brought his car to the entrance of the conference building. Lee soon emerged from the building and in full view of about 50 Communist guards and reporters jumped into the waiting car.

Lee is reported to have a wife, two sons and a daughter in Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

The South Korean defence minister, Kim Sung - eun, said Lee would receive $3,700 from the Seoul government, the top award to Communists who defect.

Agreement on Rhine

LONDON (AP)—U.S., British and West German envoys have worked out an agreement meeting most of the foreign exchange costs of Britain's Rhine army in the coming year, informed sources reported Wednesday night.

Should a "non-swinger" visit swinging Britain?

Yes. Very definitely! Because Britain is just as lively or leisurely as you care to make it. It's simply a matter of choice. Some of our passengers fly to Britain for a swinging vacation. Others prefer the things which are uniquely British—the friendly pubs, the gentle countryside. The pomp. The pageantry.

Only BOAC with Air Canada flies direct to Britain, and this summer we offer you the choice of up to 12 jet services a day from Toronto and Montreal. And there are several flights a week from western Canada; including direct Western Arrow services to London.

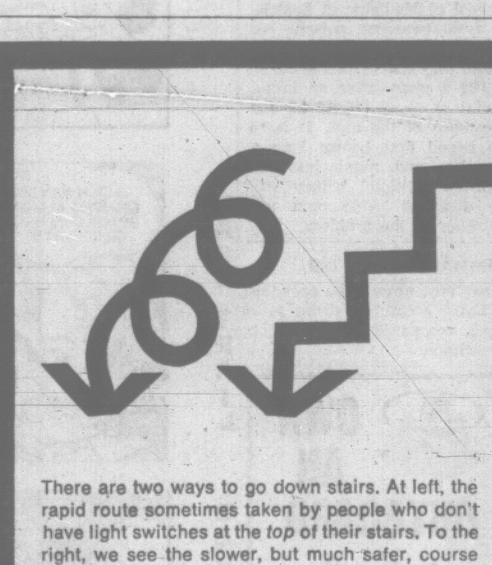
BOAC



There are two ways to go down stairs. At left, the rapid route sometimes taken by people who don't have light switches at the top of their stairs. To the right, we see the slower, but much safer, course taken by people whose homes are wired for Medallion convenience with plenty of switches, plenty of outlets. Before you build or remodel, ask your electrical contractor about Medallion standards.

Canada Edges U.S. 2-1 In World Hockey Play

Rallies to Keep Perfect Record

VIENNA (CP) — Rightwinger Morris Mott, of Creelman, Sask., scored both goals in the third period to give Canada a hard-earned 2-1 victory over the Untied States tonight.

The come-from-behind win kept the Canadians tied with Russia for first place in the world hockey tournament.

In an earlier game Russia swamped West Germany 16-1 to remain unbeaten.

In the first period neither side was able to score. It was the first time in the tournament that the Canadians had been held scoreless in one period.

The U.S. pressed hard at the outset and after the three-minute mark, Craig Falkman came close to beating Martin on two occasions.

AMERICANS FORECHECK

The first period was marked by tough, hard-hitting hockey in the North American style. The Americans, using stiff forechecking, kept control in the Canadian end for almost three minutes around the 13-minute mark, but failed to get many clear shots at Martin.

Defenceman Jack Bownass of Winnipeg was penalized in the 16th minute for tripping U.S. winger Doug Woog, but the Americans failed to capitalize on the one-man advantage. In fact, penalty killer Roger Bourbonnais of Edmonton broke out to test American goalie Carl Wetzel severely.

It was the only penalty called in the first 20 minutes by Soviet referees Antonin Seglin and Nikolai despite some stiff bodychecking by both teams.

The break in the game came just after U.S. defenceman Johnny Ross had broken up a three-against-one rush by the Canadians. Marshall Tschida fed a pass to Falkman who converted it into a goal.

Canadian defenceman Terry O'Malley of Toronto was sent off at 5:59 for tripping Woog.

The Canadians, with a spectacular helping hand from Martin, had almost ridden out the U.S. power play when Bownass was penalized for high-sticking with just seven seconds remaining in O'Malley's penalty.

Despite the U.S. one-man advantage, Wetzel was forced to make two big saves against Fran Huck of Regina and Bourbonnais.

The American goalie was no less brilliant than Martin as he protected the U.S. lead through the second period. One save he made was a dead-on drive from four feet by Mott.

CROWD IN UPROAR

The crowd was in constant uproar as the fast, end-to-end action turned into one of the most exciting games of the championships so far.

With more than half the second period over, Martin turned aside a point-blank drive from U.S. winger Ron Naslund. A minute later, Mott again forced Wetzel to show his best and then Marshall Johnston of Birch Hills, Sask., hit the U.S. goalpost.

In the closing minutes of the middle session, the Canadians stormed Wetzel's seemingly-impregnable citadel without success. Mott blasted a long shot that had Wetzel sprawled help-

Magistrate William Evans gave Constable Stephens two weeks to pay the fine or begin serving the jail sentence.

Former Liberal MLA Named Judge

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Justice Minister Cardin today announced the appointment of H. C. McKay, of Fernie, as judge of the County Court of Nanaimo.

The announcement followed the retirement Wednesday of Judge L. A. Hanna, of Nanaimo, on his 75th birthday.

Expo Lodging Fraud Investigated

MONTREAL (CP) — La Presse says Quebec Provincial Police are investigating fraudulent activities which the newspaper says may affect the reservations for accommodation made by possibly as many as 500,000 prospective visitors to Expo 67.

The newspaper quotes the police as saying that the "operation" under investigation may be one that "could deprive an enormous number of tourists of accommodations on which they already have sent in the payment required for confirming reservations."

PULP WORKERS

Autonomy Bid Splits Union

OTTAWA (CP) — A British Columbia move "to establish Canadian autonomy" in the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers was made today at the union's first Canadian conference.

Joe Kane of Powell River moved a motion to this effect moments after International President Joseph P. Tonelli had called for unity in a fighting speech.

The Kane motion which appeared to have little support outside the British Columbia delegation sought a change by which Canadian vice-presidents would be elected by the membership of the regions they represent.

Mr. Tonelli, from Fort Edward, N.Y., said in a 30-minute address that if British Columbia hadn't been given a vice-president in 1959 the union wouldn't be plagued by the problems it has now.

UNIONS RAIDING

Raiding by other unions and internal dissension have cut into the West Coast membership. About 15,000 of the union's 40,000 Canadian members are from B.C.

Mr. Tonelli said the whole pulp and paper industry is going to be dominated by 15 to 18 companies.

"We're going to be confronted by giants," he said. "There will no longer be the small independent companies we can take by the neck and pull across the conference table."

Mr. Tonelli said that this is why dissension within the union makes him sick.

"How is the little union going to cope with the giants I mentioned?" Mr. Tonelli said the dissenters are not trade unionists.

"They have other ulterior motives."

B.C. delegates who supported the motion said they want to maintain a strong alliance with the international union but they also want the right to make their own decisions.

They expressed concern that the union head office might appoint western organizer Pat O'Neal to succeed ailing B.C. Vice-President Stanley Green. Mr. Green himself was given solid support.

No Action Gas Report Draws Fire

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

A prorogation-day storm blew up for the Legislature this afternoon in the wake of a special committee's majority report on gas prices that was tabled shortly before dawn at the end of a night sitting.

The report recommended virtually no action to follow up the Morrow Royal Commission's findings except for setting up another review committee in two years time.

But the four NDP members of the committee attacked the government party's refusal to permit them to table a minority report. And Alan Macfarlane, the only Liberal member of the committee, said he would repudiate the majority report which he had supported because the final written version tabled by the chairman conflicted with the concensus of nine Socreds and himself.

CHAIRMAN

"That report does not represent what went on in the committee," he angrily declared outside the legislature after copies of the document signed by chairman Herb Capozzi (S C—Vancouver-Centre), were distributed.

He said he would see Speaker William Murray before the afternoon sitting, expected to be the last of the session, to determine the best procedure for disavowing the majority report officially.

Mr. Macfarlane objected to the report's sections which recommended "legislation if necessary" which he said was supposed to read "legislation was necessary" to prohibit retroactively consignment selling and gasoline supply agreements beyond five years between oil companies and retailers.

CRITICIZED

He added the report did not make it clear, as it was supposed to, that the oil companies had refused to commit themselves against reviving these practices criticized by commissioner Judge Charles Morrow.

The NDP minority report recommended establishment of a crown corporation for pilot operation of a refinery and gasoline distribution system to retailers to see if this competitive device could force the oil industry to reduce gasoline prices.

Alex Macdonald (NDP — Vancouver East) said the majority report "fails com-

SHEET OF FLAME shooting out from 1,000-foot Staten Island pier spread to moored 9,000-ton Norwegian freighter loaded with rubber. The ship, the Fernfield, was yulled away from the pier at Edgewater and Bay Street by three tugs. Fire department crews boarded the ship and reported two small fires in the holds. There were two minor explosions on the pier and a section of the roof caved in. Loss to the pier, loaded with foodstuffs and rubber, was reported as heavy. White spots in picture are falling snow. Bankrupt Finance Firm Accused of Deception

TORONTO (CP) — A deliberate plan to deceive the public appears to have been involved in the operations of the now-bankrupt Prudential Finance Corp. Ltd., says a report of the Ontario Securities Commission.

An interim report on the tangled affairs of the corporation, tabled in the Ontario legislature Wednesday by Leslie Rowntree, commercial affairs minister, calls for more investigation.

The same line was taken in a report prepared by Clarkson, Gordon and Co., chartered accountants.

The commission report says provinces other than Ontario may be able to uncover illegal trading if they take a look.

"There is a strong presumption that there was a deliberate plan to deceive the public, the commission and its staff as to the true financial picture of the company," says the securities commission report.

Concentrating on the activities of Joseph Benoit Brien, who acquired control of Prudential Finance in 1961 and now faces six charges as a result of its collapse, the reports say he adopted a consistent program of deliberately inflating the value of assets.

Other findings indicated that assets were manipulated to the detriment of all but an inside group. Total net losses from Jan. 1, 1961, to Nov. 18, 1966, amounted to $17,356,024.

The reports say further criminal charges may be necessary and the possibility of civil legal action exists.

Mr. Rowntree said completion of the investigation into the collapse of Prudential Finance could take "a few weeks."

Mr. Rowntree said the investigation so far has been fruitful. Charges had been laid against two companies and five individuals and it was possible that more charges would be laid as the investigation proceeded.

NOTHING PLANNED

Mr. Rowntree said he didn't know what, if any, action the government would take on behalf of about 8,500 Prudential creditors.

Many elderly people who reported losing their savings were among about 8,500 investors involved in Prudential Finance. About 3,500 investors in Ontario and 5,000 outside the province may get back about 15 cents on the dollar.

The Clarkson, Gordon report says that in further investigations priority should be given to circustances surrounding apparent false financial statements and a prospectus filed with the Ontario Securities Commission in 1963 to get approval for sale of securities in the province.

Of the 1963 prospectus, Clarkson, Gordon says it contained inaccuracies and did not include information required by law. After July 1, 1963, Prudential Finance sold securities in Quebec, British Columbia, Alberta, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia as well as Ontario.

MAKES OTHER POINTS

The Clarkson, Gordon report makes these points about the collapse:

—The company could not make enough money to meet overhead resulting from rapid expansion, or to cover the high cost of borrowed funds and absorb losses on speculative loans and investments.

—There were losses on investments and loans concerning unrelated companies, subsidiary companies and companies controlled by Brien.

The report says Prudential

U.S. 'Captures' Russ Fishboat

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A Soviet fishing vessel—the second to be accused this month of violating United States rights in Alaskan waters—was being towed toward Kodiak today by a United States Coast Guard cutter.

Capt. Robert Emerson, commander of the coast guard station at Kodiak, said the Russian skipper refused to follow the cutter Storis to port so the vessel was taken under tow. If the Russian changes his mind and proceeds under his own power the vessels could arrive by late afternoon. The tow would take nearly two days.

The 178-foot trawler, SRTM 8-457, was boarded south of the Shumagin Islands Wednesday after a coast guard aircraft had engaged in "hot pursuit" of the vessel for 10 miles.

The coast guard said the aircraft, on routine law-enforcement patrol, spotted the trawler fishing 5.5 miles east of Seal Cape in the Shumagins, a violation of the U.S. 12-mile exclusive fisheries zone which went into effect March 17.

The aircraft signalled the ship to heave-to and await arrival of a government ship. Instead, the trawler picked up her fishing gear and headed toward international water. The Storis overtook the ship 15 miles off shore.

The scene was about 100 miles southwest of the spot the trawler SRT M8 - 413 was seized March 2 for violation of the three-mile territorial limit at Mitrofania Island, some 40 miles southwest of Chignik on the Alaska peninsula.

Nicolai G. Zernov, skipper of that vessel, was fined $5,000, an amount Alaska Governor Walter J. Hickel called "measly."

SOVIET PATIENCE WEARING THIN

Arms Talks Recessed in Anger

GENEVA (UPI) — Diplomats today recessed the stalemated disarmament negotiations amid bitterness between the have and have-not nuclear powers and a sense of frustration by both Moscow and Washington.

The 17-nation conference adopted a suggestion by the United States to break up and return to the negotiating table May 9. Russia agreed to the recess as co-chairman of the conference with America.

"The objections (to the treaty) raised by the Federal Republic of Germany are endangering the security of the world," Roshchin said.

The United States wants the pause to try to talk its reluctant allies into accepting the proposed treaty. The American negotiator, William C. Foster, already has tried on a trip to Western European capitals to win wary allies over to the pact, but failed. Japan also has reservations about the treaty.

Meanwhile, both Britain and the United States hoped Moscow's patience does not wear thin. Informed sources said last week in London the Soviet Union was eager to sign the treaty without further delays.

The Western European allies—especially West Germany and Italy—are concerned that the proposed treaty would prevent them from carrying out nuclear testing for peaceful purposes.

The Soviets and the Americans agreed last fall on jointly presenting a draft at the conference when it resumed Feb. 21. However, the sudden doubts in various capitals have caused delays. These doubts must be expelled before Moscow and Washington can table the motion.

A second problem is the matter of who will control inspection of nuclear testing for peaceful purposes. Both Washington and Moscow want the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna to have control. The Western European nations want to keep controls within Euratom.

GALBRAITH VIEWS ON CANADA-U.S.

"Can Canada survive another century as a neighbor of the United States?" is the question posed in Weekend Magazine on Saturday in an important interview with the world famous economist and diplomat, John Kenneth Galbraith. In these times when Canada's relations with the U.S. are a constant topic, this article in Saturday's paper is well worth reading.

Some students who stay away from classes in protest might hev a hard time t' prove they were doin' it fer that reason.

Casualty Lists Growing As Ground War Expands

SAIGON (AP) — The ever-mounting cost of the Vietnam war was underscored today by the announcement of record American and Communist casualties last week while both sides increased in total strength.

Communist mortar barrages accounted for much of the rising U.S. casualties, and more of these were reported Wednesday and today in two sensitive war spots.

Mortar shells rained down on U.S. positions just below the demilitarized zone separating North and South Vietnam and along the Cambodian border where the biggest U.S. jungle sweep of the war is under way.

The U.S. command also disclosed that 18 such ground sweeps now are being conducted, an indication that a high level of casualties can be expected to continue.

The U.S. command said that 2,675 Communist soldiers were killed last week while 211 Americans were killed and 1,874 were wounded.

At the same time, U.S. troop strength in the country grew to 427,000 men, while U.S. intelligence estimated Communist strength at 286,000 men, increases of 4,000 on each side. The Communists increased their numbers despite the claimed loss of 19,500 dead—the equivalent of eight full regiments—since the first of the year.

U.S. marines manning the exposed artillery position at Gio Linh, just south of the demilitarized zone, caught the heaviest barrage today. Firing from within the zone, gunners dropped 75 rounds on the marines in a 45-minute barrage.

Two other Americans were killed and 31 wounded in other barrages that fell on the troops conducting Operation Junction

SIX MEN TO WATCH

Those New City Slickers Improve Tone of Debate

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

All going well, the legislature's 55 members will be lining up tonight to receive their $8,000 cheques for salary and expense money, settle their debts and go home after eight weeks of work in the limelight.

Mika

The rest of the year they'll have to work almost as hard each day looking after constituents' problems as best they can but the publicity spotlight will be turned off.

Since this has been the first session of the 28th legislature, it's still too early to say whether it will go down as one of the great legislatures in the province's history but certainly the first indications point in that direction.

All three party leaders—Premier Bennett of the Social Credit, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan of the NDP, and Liberal Leader Ray Perrault — believe that it is far better than average, particularly because of the 19 newcomers.

GOOD HUMOR

And the consensus is that this first session of a new legislature was better in caliber of debate, sense of proportion and good-humored temper than the last session of the 27th legislature, or for that matter, any of the previous sessions.

The first session after an election normally shows better sense of proportion and humor but it is rare indeed for its debates to rise above the level of the pre-election session when all MLAs are experienced and talking for their individual political lives.

OUTSTANDING

The pre-election session of this group, some two or three years hence, should be an outstanding show.

Each of the party leaders pays tribute to the speaking abilities of the freshmen—plugging those from their own parties most, of course.

Premier Bennett says the biggest difference he notices from the days when he entered the legislature a quarter-century ago is that young men who have never faced so many political opponents at one time today not only do not shrink from the ordeal of a maiden speech but embroil themselves willingly in debates and do well at that.

NEW ATMOSPHERE

Opposition Leader Strachan says he detects an entirely new atmosphere in the legislature and, although he concedes one or two freshmen from the other parties have been impressive, he feels that the NDP group has managed to seize the inititative and retain it throughout the session.

Liberal Leader Perrault says some of the freshmen have been as articulate as the veterans and this gives promise that this particular group of MLAs will be the best seen during the Bennett era.

Undoubtedly, the composition of the house has had something to do with its new-found sheen. The redistribution of ridings has put far more "city boys" with an education into the political forum.

MEN TO WATCH

Comparisons are invidious at this early stage, but on the basis of their performance at the first session the newcomers to watch next session will be:

Socreds Evan Wolfe and Herb Capozzi, both from Vancouver-Centre; Liberals Allan Williams (West Vancouver Howe Sound) and Barrie Clark (North Vancouver-Seymour); and NDP members Robert Williams (Vancouver East) and Ernie Hall (Surrey). Tom Berger (NDP — Vancouver-Burrard) also has shown well but he's had one year of federal politics behind him.

All represent the new breed of young hard-nosed urbanites who are likely to be on the provincial scene for many years to come. And any one of them could someday write a throne speech, depending on how the breaks go.

RCMP Charge Boy With Woman's Killing

VANCOUVER (CP) — A charge of committing juvenile delinquency in the capital murder eight months ago of Mrs. Anna Whitby was laid Wednesday against a 15-year-old boy.

RCMP laid the charge against the youth, who had been remanded to Riverview Mental Hospital for psychiatric examination after an incident last week involving a woman in a laundromat.

Mrs. Whitby, 34, was strangled in dense bush in suburban Coquitlam. Her son Murray, six, was warned off by his mother as the assailant dragged her into the bushes.

Mrs. Whitby's nude body was discovered in a shallow stream the next morning, and Murray was found wandering in the bush.

pletely to deal with monopoly prices in this industry and does not deal with more than a small part of the recommendations of Judge Morrow."

But his sharpest criticism was aimed at the government's refusal to allow tabling of the minority report and quashing of Socred backbencher Cyril Shelford's attempt to have the majority report adopted in order to provide the means for a debate on its content.

Mr. Shelford, who singlehandedly crusaded for the commission, and forced the government to set up the committee review after charging oil companies were showng contempt for the government and the commission, did not sign either the majority or minority reports.

Finance was in difficulties as early as 1960, before Brien bought control from A. H. Rafuse of London, Ont. for $200,000. Brien became president of Prudential Finance.

It devotes a considerable amount of space to relations between Prudential Finance and O'Brien Gold Mines Ltd., the control of which was bought by Prudential Finance in 1965. It was taken over after a bitter stock fight led by its previous owners, the O'Brien family of Ottawa.

CASH TRANSFERRED

The report says Brien had caused O'Brien Gold Mines to transfer cash to Prudential Finance, showing the transactions on the books as investments in the finance company's notes.

Mr. Rowntree said in the legislature that if suspicions about the company's collapse are "well-founded, as they appear to be at this point, there has been a complete and shameful disregard of the obligations and responsibilities that rested with individuals associated with Prudential Finance Corp. Ltd., its subsidiaries and associated companies."

Recently - introduced revisions of Ontario securities legislation would "greatly lessen the possibility of such disreputable acts taking place again."

The Clarkson, Gordon report says the main benefit received from Prudential Finance by Brien was the easy access by his other companies to money obtained by Prudential Finance from the public. Through Brien, the other companies could easily obtain money from the public, but otherwise they "would have faced extreme difficulties in obtaining funds from arm's-length lenders."

Tears Down Trunk No Elephant Joke

LONDON (AP) — "I know that zoologists may say that an elephant can't cry," says Mrs. Jean Robinson, "but I saw tears in this elephant's eyes, and I saw them running down her trunk."

Mrs. Robinson is secretary of the Twycross Zoo in Leicestershire.

Every night the peace of the zoo was shattered by shrieks and sobs. The noise sounded similar to a baby crying, but no child was around.

"Big tears were rolling down her trunk," Mrs. Robinson said Thursday. "I saw them and so did the girls."

Iris is a four - month - old Indian elephant, only recently brought to England.

"There was nothing to cause her pain," said Trevor Varley, a member of the zoo staff. "She was eating well and was healthy."

A night light was installed in the elephant house early this week. Not a peep has been heard from Iris since.

Hanoi Aid Available

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—Canada would supply material aid to North Vietnamese civilians if the government of North Vietnam asked for it, says Canada's external affairs minister.

Canada has never received such a request nor has it offered aid, Paul Martin told 250 students Wednesday night at the University of Waterloo.

"But if we were asked we would . . . supply material aid to North Vietnamese civilians, but not to military personnel."

SYNOPSIS—Except for the Central Interior precipitation was quite general over the province Wednesday night. It was rain along the coast and over the Southern Interior while continuous snow fell in northern British Columbia. A disturbance moved through the Lower Mainland overnight while another storm centre lies off the Washington coast and is weakening rapidly. A second centre is east of the Charlottes and will remain in that area. This will keep cloud and showery weather in most areas.

WCB Assessments Will Be Increased

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some B.C. industries are faced with 40 to 80 per cent jumps in their accident assessments this year compared with 1965, the Workmen's Compensation Board says.

The reason is increased benefit rates introduced in late 1965 and a near-record number of accidents in 1966, said the board's annual report.

The increased benefits, under which pensions and minimum compensation for total disability are tied to the cost of living, are estimated to require an additional $47,000,000 by the board, the report said.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Adera Heaviest Trader

Heavy trading of Adera shares marked the morning session on the Vancouver stock exchange today. The issue gained two cents to 81 on a volume of 235,100 shares.

Centennial Mortgage rose 60 cents to a new high of 2.10.

Silver Arrow was another active issue and gained .04 to .39 on 128,000 shares.

Bethlehem was .25 cents better at 6.50 on good financial results and Atlas was up .15 at 2.30.

Losses went to New Imperial, down .25 at 3.40, and Bata which lost .01 to 2.80 on 103,000 shares.

AT TORONTO western oils continued to surge in light trading today.

Hudson's Bay climbed 2 to 29⅛, Canadian Superior 1⅞ to 33½, Scurry-Rainbow ¾ to 25½, Dome ½ to a high of 55¼ and Provo 65 cents to 5.85.

There have been reports that Canada may become an increasingly important supplier of oil to the United States because U.S. reserves are not keeping pace with demand.

Chrysler moved up 1½ to 45½, General Motors 1 to 85 and Imperial Oil and Asbestos Corp. ¾ each to 56½ and 25¼.

AT NEW YORK the market widened its gains in active trading.

The market rose from the start of news of additional reductions in the prime interest rate charged by major U.S. banks to their biggest and best customers.

Most major groups, including steels, motors, aerospace issues, utilities, non-ferrous metals, chemicals, rails and oils advanced.

AT MONTREAL prices rallied slightly today.

Gains were fractional, however, and trading was moderate.

Asbestos rose ⅝ to 25¼, Canada Iron ⅜ to 20⅞, Royal Bank ⅜ to 80⅞ and Bathurst ½ to 31¾.

Among the losers, CIL dropped ⅜ to 19¼, Canadienne Nationale ½ to 71 and Quebec Natural Gas ¼ to 12.

AT LONDON equities on today's market at first extended Wednesday's late gains which followed the government's white-paper announcement that the dividend freeze will end in July.

Many early gains were reduced later, however, and although most sections showed a list of useful improvements business ahead of the holiday weekend was on a small scale.

Dollar stocks generally were firm. Noranda was firm. But other Canadian issues were little changed. Canadian banks, however, were better.

22 Safety Standards In Volvo

ROCKLEIGH, N.J. (UPI)—Volvo of Sweden introduced today a new sedan model that incorporates nearly all the new U.S. federal safety standards which become mandatory with 1968 models. The major U.S. auto-makers insist they cannot adopt the same standards by the deadline.

The four-door sedan, called the 144s, meets 17 of the 20 standards created by the National Traffic Agency and five other safety features not required by the regulations.

The five extra features, according to Volvo, Inc., president Stig Jansson, are energy absorbing front and rear body sections, rear brake pressure relief valves, rear window defrosters, safety wheel rims and an antiwhiplash device on the front seat.

Jansson said all the safety features were engineered into the 144s, Volvo's first new sedan in a decade, more than a year before the start of the safety controversy that led to the new government standards.

Business Failures Take Drop

OTTAWA (CP) — There were 678 business failures recorded under the bankruptcy and winding-up acts during the fourth quarter of 1966, a 13-per-cent decline from the same period in 1965, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

The total of defaulted liabilities, however, rose 24.4 per cent to $72,408,000.

The bureau said that for the whole year 1966, there were 8.8-per-cent fewer bankruptcies than in 1965, while total liabilities in default fell to $247,303,000 from $393,650,000.

Night-Long Debate Sets Stage to End B.C. Session Today

By JOHN MIKA

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes is expected to prorogue the first session of the 28th legislative assembly sometime this evening.

It has held 63 afternoon and night sittings since opening in New Westminster's Queen's Park Arena Jan. 24 to mark the 100th anniversary of the first Legislature's meeting in the city.

MLAs completed scrutiny of spending estimates totaling $739.3 million at 4:20 a.m. today at the end of the latest night sitting of the session.

Final appropriations to receive approval were $21.3 million for public works department, $5.1 million for recreation and conservation department, $1.9 million for the new travel industry department, $427,989 for the public utilities commission and $28,500 for the salaries and office expenses of the three women ministers-without-portfolio.

An NDP motion to adjourn at 1:10 a.m. was defeated by the government and, during a wrangle later, Premier Bennett shouted that the house would sit all night if necessary to complete the government's agenda.

Wednesday afternoon they pushed through clause-by-clause study and third readings of nine government bills after wading through 31 the previous day.

Still left to clean up today were 20 private bills, almost all proposed by opposition members and facing defeat or out of order rulings, and 14 resolutions on subjects ranging from provision of free drugs to children suffering from shegella sonnei to an appeal for an end to the war in Vietnam.

ANOTHER BUG

When Music Stops, Be Careful

VANCOUVER (CP) — Soft music at a health club was tied into a listening post for a soft sell, the royal commission on bugging was told Wednesday.

Two witnesses testified that a piped music system doubled as an intercom controlled by a master panel in the manager's office of five Palm Springs Health Spa branches here.

The music was cut off when the manager cut in the intercom to listen to a salesman's pitch to a prospective customer.

Herbert Calhoun, assistant to the president of the company, said the listening devices were removed after the commission began sittings late last year.

He said the devices were a part of salesman training. A manager listened in and would later use the information to check faults in a salesman's presentation.

Nurses Press Demand For Salary Increase

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Psychiatric and registered nurses in British Columbia government hospitals decided Wednesday to appeal to Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes for help in their bid for increased salaries.

Mrs. Faye Hartford of Surrey, secretary of the Psychiatric Nurses Association said the meeting also agreed to send letters to all MLAs and if "we don't hear by March 29 we will hold a mass rally. . . ."

She added, however, the nurses won't strike because "we're pledged not to." She said the 1,300 nurses want a 25-per-cent increase on present salaries that range from $362 to $432 a month.

Meanwhile, Dr. Ken Davies, chairman of the psychiatric section of the B.C. Medical Association, complained in a statement Wednesday about a committee appointed by the government to study complaints by the psychiatric staff at Riverview mental hospital here.

He said the committee should include persons from all branches of psychiatry. The only psychiatrist on the committee is Dr. F. G. Tucker, deputy director of mental health services.

"We are concerned primarily with the basic attitude of the government toward treatment services," said Dr. Davies.

The mental health services situation is acute, he added.

. . . AUTONOMY

Mr. O'Neal was involved in the electronic bugging last fall of a Vancouver convention of the rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

Mr. Tonelli said regionally elected vice-presidents would result in nothing but "rotten politics." The move would weaken the union and lead to similar demands in U.S. regions.

NAMES SUCCESSOR

He said that Canadian Director Louis H. Lorrain would succeed him today as international president if he passed away.

Mr. Lorrain himself said that the president had come to the conference to consult, not to tell.

"Don't say that Joe Tonelli came down here to tell the Canadians they can't lead themselves," he told a reporter from the podium.

City near the Cambodian frontier northwest of Saigon. This operation saw one of the sharpest battles of the war earlier this week and has become one of the deadliest in the war. U.S. troops have killed 1,772 Communists since it began Feb. 22, headquarters said.

Military headquarters also announced that elements of two South Korean divisions—an estimated 10,000 men—have been engaged in their most ambitious ground operation of the war for the last two weeks. This is a sweep along 45 miles of coastline to clear five Viet Cong battalions, about 2,500 men, from a wide area dominating the coastal highway from Song Cau to Tuy Hoa.

The Koreans said so far they have killed 149 soldiers, captured 150 and seized 146 weapons.

Protesters May Face Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the U.S. House armed services committee said Wednesday Congress might eliminate college deferments if students continue demonstrating against the draft.

"My God, what are we coming to?" asked Rep. Mendel Rivers, in referring to about 50 Howard University students who jeered selective service director Lewis Hershey off the stage Tuesday night.

Meanwhile, Burke Marshall, chairman of President Johnson's advisory commission on selective service, told a Senate labor subcommittee a lottery among 19-year-olds would eliminate "cynical planning" to avoid the draft which, he said, had become a "major preoccupation on college campuses."

If demonstrations continue at other colleges, Rivers said, "college deferments may become a thing of the past." He told the House: "This is fair warning to every college student."

Steel Bars Urged On Mobile Spars

PORT HARDY (CP)—An inquest jury has ruled that Roy William Hunt, 32, of Fort Rupert, died accidentally Monday in a logging accident at nearby Alice Lake.

Hunt, operator of a mobile spar machine, was killed when a cable broke and lashed through a window of his machine.

The jury attached no blame in his death but recommended the use of steel bars on windows in the machines.
